DRUGS OF ANTIQUITY.

The Doses That Mankind Swallowed Thousands of Years Ago. It is admitted that the oldest medical work known is the Ebers papyrus, discovered by Georg Ebers in his journey to Egypt in 1872-3. It is a scroll twenty yards long and a foot wide and has been studied and translated by Von Oefele and reviewed by Von Lippmann. It was written about 1550 B. C., though some of the material of which it is a compilation dates back to about 3700 B. C.

The medical substances mentioned include copper—once more costly than gold and silver—lead, iron, antimony, carbon, sulphur, salt, soda, gypsum and other minerals; milk fats from many animals, wax, and the horn, blood and other portions of domestic and wild animals; castor and other oils, honey, raisins, grapes, figs, dates, wine, beer, linen, fax, incense, papyrus, numerous resins, caraway, fennel, dill, melon, watercress, peppermint, coriander, lettuce, endive, absinth, pomegranate, calamus, aloes, safflower, crocus, indigo, henbane, mandrake, opium and other plants and vegetable products.

In preparing drugs solids were grated or powdered in a stone mortar. There were many processes of treating them, such as roasting, baking, pressing, steeping, warming, boiling in various substances, macerating with lye, evaporating and fermenting with yeast. Liquids were filtered and clarified. Some recipes contain two or three ingredients, but others have as many as thirty-seven materials.

Classified Advertising

Does 'Em All Good.

The advantages to be derived from the classified columns of the Evening Observer are becoming well known. A. L. Rice of Imbler recently spent $1.75 in this column and closed a deal representing more than a thousand dollars. Some La Grande business men were offered $1,000 for a piece of property and they decided to advertise it first. They spent $2.50 in the classified column and sold the property for $200 more than they were first offered. One lady phoned in recently saying, "Take out my rooms for rent ad. People are driving me crazy making inquiries and my house has been full since the second day I ran the ad."

Haven't you got something you would like to trade; some property you want to sell? Remember there is nothing too small to advertise in this column and nothing too large. The price is a cent a word each day. Try it.
