FINE GALAXY OF PEOPLE COMING

BOSTON JUVENILES TO COME UNDER LODGE AUSPICES.

"Squaw Man" Seats Going — Arcade Has Comedy—Isis Announcements.

The Boston Juveniles, a troupe of musically bent people who have been playing St. Paul, Minneapolis, Spokane, Portland, Seattle, Baker and Pendleton with a great deal of success have been contracted to come to La Grande May 15 and 16 at popular prices, by the Modern Woodmen of America. The show will come to the Steward on those dates, and while the title of the company may be misleading and the public may gain the impression that it is an amateur production, the fact remains that nothing on the road in a musical company can produce a better program. Without boasting, it can be said that this company will give La Grande a production two nights running that will not be equalled by high class comic operas. Regular press notices and newspaper material will be on hand shortly and the theatre goers can gain a more explicit notion of what the company is.

Tickets Sell Rapidly.

There was a brisk demand this morning for tickets to "The Squaw Man," which comes here Thursday night. The story is so well known and the play and the people handling it so capable that there is no question but that the board will be stripped shortly. Manager Steward advises early reservation of seats if this big number is to be witnessed from comfortable chairs.

The Arcade's Present Program.

Two roaring good comedies and one good drama, make up the program this change.

A Biograph comedy, Priscilla's Umbrella, is a splendid picture full of action and lively situations.

A Fatal Resemblance, a Pathe picture, made by the American company, is a strong dramatic story showing the separation of a father from his son for 19 years.

Davy Jones, or His Wife's Husband, a Vitagraph, is a sparkling comedy graphically illustrating the woes of our poor unfortunate Davy. His experience with the card club is sufficient to keep the audience in an uproar.

Mr. Cowan will sing, "Back to the Bleachers for Mine," a baseball hit.

An Interesting Theme Indeed.

Casualty walking into the Isis this morning, the Observer man was rewarded by witnessing the run off of the next immediate three days' program. The feature film in his idea is certainly the Gaumont special, The Reformation of the Suffragettes.

Well, it is even enough to make a suffragette laugh when it comes to cases, and the suffragettes pack their husbands into a boat and send them adrift they have a free spell for a while.

There is one man, however, disguised as a woman, left with them (mind you, he is a sweetheart of one of the damsels left ashore) and when his identity is discovered the suffragettes have qualms of conscience.

They sit by a convenient stream and our their tears into the said stream so copiously that their husbands, miles away down stream, can taste the salt of their wives' tears in the stream water of which they drink.

It is worth while paying to go and see the sequel to this story. It is beautifully arranged, scenically and actual. It is the acme of perfection in colored photography and Manager Sherwood declares it is the best he has yet seen of this great firm's photographic work.

The patrons agree that it is real good and with the conscientiousness born of experience, also with due regard to all local suffragettes, recommend everybody to go and see the Reformation of the Suffragettes.

Nemo Mortalium Omnibus, Oris Sapit, which will be freely translated in tomorrow's issue of the Observer.

"Read in Sunset Magazine, Motoring Through California by Lloyd Osborne, beautifully illustrated in four colors. The Spell, a romantic serial by C. N. A. M. Williamson. In the Shadow of the Dragon by Grant Carpenter. Descriptive story of San Francisco's Chinese quarters. April issue now on sale 15 cents."

Building An Income for the Days When You Can Not be on the Pay Roll.

Have you thought of the time when old age and physical infirmities will cause the man at the desk to say, "Charlie, you have been a faithful man for years and it is with the deepest pain that I tell you old age prevents this company from further employing you unless we reduce you to a minor position."?

Yet this is what happens to all of us. Age prevents us from retaining highest usefulness. Not one man, but all meet the same conditions.

This being true, friends, what is better than an income for later life?

What is better than being able to say to the wife, "Well, wife, it was fortunate that we invested a few hundred dollars a year when I was able to make money—when I was in my prime and the children were small." It is with such an assurance that the man whose name appears on any company's pay roll can lie down to pleasant sleep and feel that his family is protected.

But what can the small investor buy that is sure to increase in value, and yet have his investment safe?

That is a question which has confronted every man who gets his check. That is a question that the shyster, the crook and the confidence man has taken advantage of for years and years. The stock jobber and the worthless bond seller have played upon this very heartstring to fill their own pockets with wealth from the man who works.

There is one investment which has stood the test of time; that has been solid and firm when all else trembled; that investment is land. When one owns and has title to Mother Earth he has something that only revolution and the dethronement of this republic could make unsafe—either of which is an impossibility in this enlightened age.

But ordinary land does not offer the returns that the small investor is entitled to receive unless that land be located in a fruit growing section and is set to a growing orchard. If his investment is in orchard land in the right locality the investor cannot only be sure of future income but he can also be certain of immense increase in value—a thing that nothing but fruit land today offers in proportion to the investment.

With Orchard property a man does not have to buy a half section to make a living. A few acres not only will care for him and his family but it will make him money besides. It is safe as to crop in this valley and the market is assured.

Then why ponder of what you will do with your savings when at home—right here in Union county—you can own a tract of fruit land, have it cared for, look after it yourself and enjoy seeing the value each day enhance?

This is something for every man on a salary to think about and when you want further information regarding details and the ease of payments call on any of the following parties:
