

WATER MOTOR COUNT BY WARD IS LAUNCHED ANNOUNCED

MARTIN JOHNSON HAS A NEW IDEA ON GENERATING POWER.

Has Model at Work in the Grande Ronde River Near the Bridge.

Believing he has a water motor that will revolutionize the power problem and at the same time will render it possible to irrigate lands which heretofore have been too high to reach with gravity systems, Martin Johnson, a Swede of considerable mechanical ingenuity, has erected his model on the Grande Ronde river near the county bridge leading to Perry. It is a motor using the weight of water for its power and pounds away day and night with little effort.

Johnson has been working on the plan for years and he has reached a point now when he does not hesitate to stand erect and say it is a success. The larger the machine the more power it will have, according to the maker, and with this Johnson motor he is positive there will be a complete change in power and irrigation problems. The motor will run regularly 24 hours a day and may be seen by anyone who is interested. Johnson works for the Wilcox Lumber company but on Sundays he takes considerable pleasure in exhibiting his model to anyone who chances that way.

RAISIN DAY DISCUSSED.

The One Having Greatest Endurance Will Eventually Supersede All Others.

In an exhaustive article comparing the merits of the various pavements now in use in the United States, the Portland, Ore., Evening Telegram of April 15th sums up as follows:

"Asphalt is noiseless in summer, and also bitulithic, but asphalt has been proven to have a very brief life, and not satisfactory system has been devised which will keep the surface in condition after substantial wear begins. Bitulithic has promise of being a phenomenon in wearing and is easily * * * Advocates of the wood block believe the time will when it will supplant most of the others, at least all except the bitulithic or bitumen concrete, and a movement is starting in Portland to advance the cause.

RAISIN DAY, April 29th, 1911.

The above date has been set apart by the people of California in which all are asked to join by eating raisins in the form of "Raisin Bread," or in whatever form is desired.

The object of this special day is to create a widespread raisin sentiment that will result in a greater demand for that fruit, and to direct the attention to all good housewives to the excellence of the raisin as an article of food.

The good people of the northwest are invited by their neighbors to participate in the pleasant custom and "break" raisin bread on April 29th.

LA GRANDE WINS GAME

times. This may be better appreciated by a study of the score card. La Grande got more runs than hits and Baker's errors were few and far between, being costly but once. Before a banner crowd of 800 at least, the first three innings passed off quietly in one, two, three order. La Grande got going in the fourth. Childers got transportation and Stoddard advanced him with a bunt he beat out safe. Proe followed with a hit and then "Ty" Cobb, the Oklahoma youngster scored all three with a terrific twobagger.

La Grande score again when in the sixth Bradley added laurels to his faultless playing by registering a sizzling grounder that couldn't be handled and purloined two stations on the next two balls over the plate. He was scored by Cobb's juggled hit. In the ninth Cobb walked to first, stole second and then third and Cotner bunted him home, Cotner going safe on first. He stole second a minute afterwards and McInnis laced out a clean twobagger that scored Cotner.

In Tight Holes.

La Grande was in tight holes occasionally but especially once when by systematic teamwork and good nudges the visiting team put three down down at a clatter and that, too, when the bases were full. The play came up like this: Stoddard—who by the way played a peppery game—dropped a grounder to him with the bases full. Cotner had come up to support Stoddard, and he forced the runner on first, whipped the ball to Bradley, Bradley to Conley at the plate catching the runner there. Conley got the ball back to second where Bradley touched the third runner out. The play was worked in tip-top fashion and with lightning rapidity.

George Ferguson of Union umpired with good satisfaction, showing good eyesight. The only departure from this was when he once got mixed on rules but the occasion passed over without complaint, and the game proceeded to the end without a word of dispute or a single incident to mar the interest.

La Grande was treated at Baker as princely as could be ordered. The Baker management did everything possible to entertain the visitors in fine style and the crowd was in accord with the policy.

The La Grande and Baker batteries compare evenly. McInnis had no occasion to and didn't work himself hard. Stone, a twirler from Nick Williams' squad, fields beautiful and has a bad curve or two and both pitchers were backed up in good shape. Baker or La Grande either have nothing whatever to complain about their battery. Baker fans are calling for changes in their lineup but it will not affect the battery and Stone and McInnis will have some nice rubs during the summer. Stone, Smith, Aubin and McInnis make up a quartet of twirlers which few amateur leagues can equal.

As to the rest of the La Grande players, everyone was in the game hard and earnestly. Bradley got the most chances and handled all with fine finish. Proe got the only outfield hit by Baker and few of the other players had fielding chances. Their good work was put on the stick and bases.

At Elgin the Union team met defeat, Elgin's baserunning being again responsible. A score that would about express the general ability of the two teams would be a 3-2 affair with Elgin on the long end. The crowd was large, the field good, the pitching up to standard and the decorum of pitchers and players and crowd of the best. J. H. Kenney handled the indicator and not a word of dispute came up. Union's team is well balanced, but is made up of youngsters and they have yet to learn the swing of base running. The final score was 6 to 0.
