TILDEN STILL DEFIANT.

Refuses to Be Arraigned for Contempt If Illinois Senate.

Springfield, April 25.—Declaring the committee's order directing him to produce his books so the committee could trace the $100,000 fund, which it is alleged he collected to elect Lorimer is unwarrantable, Tilden, president of the Packing company, today resisted arraignment for contempt before the senate. The galleries were packed while the lawyers argued the point.

During the argument Tilden's attorney practically admitted that plans were completed for the bringing of habeas corpus in case the senate ordered the packer's arrest. This would throw the case into the civil courts and would mean a long legal fight.

Washington, April 26.—Reporting to the state department today Consul Schmucker at Ensenada, Lower California, telegraphed that the Americans imprisoned at Alamo had been released, and that the insurgents had abandoned Alamo.

LAKE RESORT TO BE OPENED

WALLOWA LAKE AMUSEMENT CO. PLANS FOR SUMMER.

Manager Egensperger Arrives From Cleveland to Open Resort.

Wallowa Lake hotel and camping facilities are to be carried on much as last year, though some improvements and added attractions are in sight according to J. F. Egensperger of Cleveland, Ohio, who owns a controlling interest in the Wallowa Lake Amusement company and who managed the affairs of that resort last summer. Mr. Egensperger passed through the city this morning on his way to Joseph to prepare for the summer season.

Not only the company but citizens of Joseph anticipate that the resort will draw many more people this summer than last as the attractions of the place are only now being properly exploited.

AUSTRIAN SHOT ACCIDENTALLY

BULLET PIERCES HAND AND THEN STRIKES LEG.

Bullet Lodges in Knee From Where It Is Removed at Hospital.

An Austrian named Milanworts, coming here from The Dalles this morning, accidentally wounded himself with a .38 caliber this morning while manipulating the weapon near the Alliance Flouring mill. Doctor A. L. Richardson and Doctor Biggers removed the bullet after the foreigner had been taken to the Grande Ronde hospital. The revolver had evidently been held by the right hand when accidentally discharged for the bullet passed through the left hand and on down striking the left leg just above the knee. Striking the bone its course was deviated slightly but the leaden missile came to a standstill on reaching the joint. The badly battered bullet is now in the possession of Dr. Richardson.

The leg was not broken by the bullet. Little is known of the fellow. He was evidently leaving town by the tie route when the accident happened.

COSTLY JEWELS IMITATED.

"Fake" Diamonds Now as Pretty as Real Glimmers, say Makers.

New York, April 26.—(Special).—As a result of the efforts of chemists and scientists to equal nature in the production of precious stones, New York dealers are now concerned with the question of artificial gems to an extent thought impossible a few years ago. These artificial products are not confined to the field of cheaper or semi-precious jewels. Scientific workers in fact can now produce artificial diamonds in almost any size but so brittle is the new product that it flies to pieces in the process of grinding and polishing. Crystals of carborundum which is the most favored material for the production of artificial diamonds are cheap, since they can readily be produced in an electrical furnace from sand, coke, sawdust and salt. The crystal thus produced scratches even the ruby and sapphire, and is conceded to be next to the diamond in hardness. Its one defect is its brittle-ness and this chemists are working to overcome. But it is not only in connection with diamonds that this work is being carried on. Genuine coral has become so dear that the chemists began experimenting early last fall to produce it artificially. Within a few days an artificial coral has appeared in the jewelry stores and is guaranteed to be not only of the identical color of the finest Japanese pink coral, but also to have the same weight, "feel" and temperature, so that experts are defied to detect the imitation from the real. The importers of genuine coral deny, however, that the imitation is so close as all that. Imitations of platinum have also appeared and if matters continue to progress along these lines of effort, it may soon become practically impossible for any one to be sure of the genuineness of jewels. This invasion of the field of the most exclusive jewels by "fakes" that cannot be detected opens new and interesting possibilities for charges and recriminations as to the character of the gems worn by New York's "400" who occupy the famous "diamond horseshoe" of boxes at the grand opera.

ROBBERS LOOT WEST STORE

AMOUNT TAKEN NOT DEFINITELY ESTABLISHED YET.

Bloodhounds Cannot Follow Scent Left by Thieves' Shoes.

Introduction of bloodhound methods of running down thieves proved futile this morning when Sheriff Childers attempted to find a clew to the robbery of the N. K. West store last night by a gang of thieves who got away with goods of an indefinite amount. The canine s were unable to follow a scent left at the store during the robbery, probably because the thieves who broke into the store last night by letting themselves down from the skylight by a rope, had walked away with a pair of new shoes in exchange for their dilapidated footwear previous to the theft. With these shoes as a scent course, it was believed the animals would be able to follow the clew but such did not prove the case. The dogs were in a quandary immediately after leaving the store.

Enter Through Skylight.

The thieves displayed good judgment in effecting an entrance. Reaching the roof of the N. K. West store building from the rear the thieves had little fear of being disturbed by policemen or passersby for they were securely secluded from street view. With a convenient rope at least one man had let himself down to the store and had probably let his colleagues in at the rear door for that entrance was found open this morning. The rope, too, was dangling from the skylight when the force arrived at the store this morning.

It is hard to ascertain how much was taken. Two Stetson hats and a pair of shoes, along with some cheap jewelry are known to have been taken but aside from that, little is known.

Peculiar traits of thievery are seen in the incident. With apparent sagacity the thieves had effected an entrance without molestation, yet their behavior on reaching the floor of the men's side of the building shows careless regard for the ordinary precautions to cover up trails. The tags from the stolen hats were left in plain view; a pair of gloves, the shoes, and other marks of hurried departure might indicate that the men had been scared away before their errand fully accomplished. The rear door was unbolted from within and left swinging on its hinges. A careful in-

Inspection of stock is being taken today to learn definitely how much was taken away.

It was thought this morning that the shoes would supply the needed link to put the Childers bloodhounds on the proper scent. It was apparent that by changing their shoes for the stolen ones, even though the discarded ones were left in the store, the thieves cut off all avenue of attack and capture from the bloodhound method.
