

Society and Clubs

Few events ever given in La Grande have competed with the high grade entertainment given Thursday evening by the Lyle Tuesday Musicals at the elegant home of Mrs. T. J. Scroggin, corner of Fourth and Washington streets. It was an invitation party and the home was filled with those who enjoy good music. The decorations were tastefully made with cherry blossoms and the interior presented a beautiful appearance. Here and there a sprig laden with fragrant blossoms added its beauty and the stairway was especially arranged with floral decorations. The program opened with "I Trovatore" O. Wilson, violin; C. W. Closs on cornet, and Mrs. Corbeck, piano. The old air was up to standard in the hands of these musicians and it had the effect of putting all guests in the proper mood to thoroughly enjoy the remainder of the program, as well as the first selection. Miss Fowler delighted the company with "A Gift From You," which she sang with much feeling. Her second selection was "My Lover is a Weaver," Miss Fowler has a splendid voice, good range and perfect control. The many admirers of Prof. Bridges' voice were pleased again when he rendered "The Water Lily." In his piano selection, Mrs. G. S. Birnie took her audience with her through the descriptive piece of music almost as the orator would paint a word picture. Her rendition of the "Scottish Love Poem" was indeed superb and she was highly entitled to the vigorous applause that followed. Mrs. J. J. Carr pleased everyone with this catchy and clever song, "The Four-leaf Clover," also, "The Night Has a Thousand Eyes." She carried the spirit of each song through the selection. C. O. Wilson's "Gypsy Dance," on the violin was well rendered and the present felt that Mr. Wilson refused when he refused to answer the grand and encore. In the "Serenade," rendered by Mrs. Herman Sierstad, there was a mark of individuality of the singer that could not be overlooked. She had selections that were suitable to any high soprano voice and each song was full of a pretty swing which was pleasantly caught by every auditor. Refusal to permit her to leave after one number evidenced the splendid manner in which all enjoyed her selections. "Liebesgarten," by Miss Young, violin; Mr. Carruth, cello; and Mrs. Birnie, piano; found a responsive chord in the audience. The program closed with a selection by Miss Fowler, "When the Roses Bloom," and to the encore which followed, she responded with "Fishing." The Lyle Tuesday Musicals has every reason to feel the success of Thursday evening for it was among the good things that happen along life's pathway—one of the things that calls for enlightenment, advancement and better thoughts.

In June, were entertained at the lodge home as a special mark of honor to their part to be played in the grand lodge. About thirty were present, including aside from the members of the team, Mrs. Genevieve Bohnenkamp, grand Ruth, and Worthy Matron Miss Carrie Hunter. Worthy Patron, Doctor Lincoln was the only gentleman present. A course luncheon was served in excellent style. Apple blossoms and ferns set off with fine linens and cut glass made an especially beautiful luncheon board. The members of the team are highly appreciated with the honor paid them and comment with much emphasis on the splendid manner in which they were entertained.

One of the loveliest banquets yet participated in by railroad orders in this city, is the way guests at the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen express themselves relative to the party at the Brotherhood home in the K. of P. lodge rooms last Wednesday evening. The table was placed for 75 guests, and at the conclusion of the banquet dancing was enjoyed until a late hour in the evening. The dinner was of the best and the crowd the loveliest so that everything went to make the event unusually delightful.

The Gmae girls were given a real treat Thursday evening when the club membership was taken to Hot Lake in an automobile and on their return, served a luncheon by Miss Pickens.

Miss Etta Foley entertained the La Grande club Thursday evening and deviating from the usual custom of that club, Miss Foley entertained the gentleman friends of the ladies in the club. Luncheon was served at the conclusion of the sewing hour. Aside from the club members present who were Mrs. C. B. Clark, Miss Lena Jones, Miss Marjorie McCall, Miss Irene Murphy, and Mrs. A. W. Nelson, Miss Foley's guests were: Miss Mildred Cook; Messrs. T. E. Cleeland, L. J. Sullivan, Leo Herring, Walter Francis, C. O. Ramsey, C. B. Clark, and A. W. Nelson.

Mrs. W. R. Jones entertained the Bridge club this week. Mrs. H. C. Grady won the honors.
