STRYCHNINE BREAD EATEN.

Child of North La Grande Suffering With Effects of Poison.

The four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Flower, grocery dealers at North Greenwood and Monroe, is still suffering severely as the result of a narrow escape from death by the strychnine route. Earlier in the week the little girl came to her mother complaining of frightful pains and soon went into convulsions. Two physicians hastily summoned saved her life but she is still in pain and not entirely out of danger. She ate a piece of bread which she found in the yard and it was found on investigation that she had been treated to the deadly poison, presumably placed in the yard for the purpose of killing cats or dogs in the neighborhood.

AUTOS NOW TO CLEAN STREETS

New Machines Can Sweep Without Raising Dust.

NEW YORK TO USE THEM.

Motor Driven Cars Can Clean Community Without Water—The Dirt is Sucked From the Pavement and Carried to the Body of the Machine.

The advisability of introducing an auto street cleaner is being seriously considered by the New York street cleaning department. Tests have been made of a new type of street cleaning machine which have impressed many of the officials who have something to do about the welfare and improvement of the city. The demonstrations showed that the streets can be thoroughly, noiselessly and dustlessly cleaned.

The machines, which are manufactured and operated by the Emerson Contracting company, as was shown in the tests, can, at the will of the operators, clean the streets either by a sweeping or a flushing process, it thus having a distinct advantage over the various types of flushing machines in that cleaning can be done without water as well as when using water.

It is not intended that the machines are to be purchased by the city. The Emerson company's offer is that the street cleaning department shall lease these machines for the use of the department and pay for such use at a stated price per 1,000 square yards of streets cleaned, the Emerson company paying all costs of operation and maintenance.

The machines, which require but two men to work them, are motor driven and built in different sizes to suit different conditions of traffic and street width, with a carrying capacity for sweeping proportional to the width of brooms. The brooms are five and are driven in a circle and the sweepings are instantaneously thrown into containers that carry the sweepings to the body of the machines, which hold five and ten cubic yards respectively. The process raises absolutely no dust, thus avoiding the spreading of germs and doing away with other objectionable features of the present day method of cleaning streets. The machines when filled can be driven to the nearest dumping station, emptied and the work resumed. One of the claimed advantages of the machine for flushing purposes over the other types now on the market is that it will clean 1,000 square yards with forty gallons of water as against 400 to 650 gallons used by other machines, and wet sweepings, too, are taken up into the machine just as expeditiously as are the dry. No sweepings are washed into the gutter, catch basin or sewer.
