Enlarge Engineering Course.

Whitman College, Walla Walla, Wn., May 15.—The eminent mining engineer, Wayne Darlington, who is dean of the engineering department of Whitman college, was in town yesterday for a few hours. He spent the time in discussing the details of the new engineering courses and in making plans for the scientific development of the college. A notable expansion in next year's work will be in the department of chemistry, to which double the amount of space will be assigned to that now occupied by the department. Work in mineralogy and assaying will be consequence be made practicable. New courses in physics, especially adapted for engineering students, will also be inaugurated.

ORDINANCE NO. 527, SERIES 1911.

An ordinance relating to sewers and requiring certain persons to connect waste pipes, privies and cess-pools therewith and declaring an emergency.

The city of La Grande does ordain as follows:

Section 1. All persons erecting or maintaining privies or cess-pools, waste pipes or other means for the disposal of sewage within 170 feet of any street or alley in which a sewer has or may hereafter be constructed, shall connect the same therewith.

Section 2. All persons required by section 1 to connect with any sewer for the disposal of sewage shall first make an application therefor to the recorder of the city of La Grande on a form provided for the purpose, setting forth a description including the street and number of the property, the sewer from which is to be emptied into the sewer, and the location or place where the connection is to be made, by setting out the distance from the property line in at least two directions. Upon filing the application, a permit will be issued to such person which shall authorize the sewer connection to be made in accordance with the terms of said application, and existing ordinance relating to plumbing and the disposal of sewage. The recorder shall keep a record of said applications in a book provided for that purpose and note the location thereof on the city's map of said sewer system.

BISHOP NEW

WANTS ONE

Episcopal Bishop Plan Does Not Meet With Favor at Pendleton.

Church unity, the amalgamation of all denominational churches in one central building under one head in all small cities and the abolition of dissension between denominations were the striking suggestions of Right Rev. Bishop Robert L. Paddock, D. D., before the Fourth Convocation of Eastern Oregon at the Church of the Redeemer yesterday, says the Pendleton Live Wire.

There should be a chosen pastor as head, said the bishop. He should have a good salary, a comfortable house and servants and be supplied with abundant reading matter. He should be given a man to assist with the work with men and boys and a woman to assist in the women's work. The church should be the most beautiful building in the town, he said.

"In this united church let an apostolically ordained minister have an 8 o'clock communion service with a liturgy that will appeal to our people, the Episcopalians, the Lutherans and the Roman Catholics," said the bishop.

"At 11 o'clock a service that will appeal to Presbyterians and Congregationalists; at 7 p. m. a service that will appeal to all ecclesiastical view points. I myself would be willing to undertake such a ministry. If God would inspire me I would like to be the man."

The convocation took no action on the suggestion of Bishop Paddock nor did it seem to give its approval to his address.

His annual address was delivered somewhat on the lines of the sermon he delivered in Pendleton some weeks ago.

His address before the convocation was an elaboration of his previous declaration.

Pay Pastors More.

Bishop Paddock said that there were often five churches in a small town of say 5,000 people and less. They were each paying their pastor $1,000 a year or less. If those five churches amalgamated into one central church, he urged, it would be possible to pay the pastor $2,000 and provide him with facilities that would make him a bigger man than he is at present.

He admitted that the proposal offered many stumbling blocks. He thought they were not insurmountable. He thought good men would be willing to offer themselves for such a ministry, whereas now they were often dwarfed. He believed in union there would be strength. Difficulties, he thought, were over-exaggerated.

That the influence on the church life of a city would be simply incalculable, the bishop believed.

Despite the urgent plea made by the bishop not one single convocation delegate arose to support the speaker.

Warren Elected Secretary.

With the organization of the conference, Rev. Bertram A. Warren, of The Dalles, was elected secretary. The following clerical delegates were present:

Rev. Upton H. Gibbs, La Grande; Rev. Charles Quinney, Pendleton; Rev. J. Neilson Barry, Baker; Rev. B. A. Warren, The Dalles; Rev. Edmund T. Simpson, Hood River.

Lay delegates were: Mesdames Lamberth and Slater of Pendleton; Dr. William Lockwood Parker, Baker; W. L. Allen and John G. Milne, The Dalles; J. D. Slater, La Grande; G. W. Proebstel, Weston and a delegate from Hood River.

PUBLICATIONS SUFFER.

"Don't Boast Post Office Department" Is Cry From Publishers.

Madison, May 19.—"Please don't criticize the government or you will get us into trouble." This was the substance of a letter received from an eminent publisher who declared the postoffice department can put any publisher out of business, and that La Follette's attacks in his weekly was hurting other publishers. Commenting editorially La Follette's roasts Hitchcock and says such a situation is intolerable and entirely inconsistent with the freedom of the press.

FIGHT YAKIMA CLAIMS

BIG CROPS

Commenting with a ring of true sincerity on the loyalty of Union county to the Oregon agricultural college at Corvallis and urging every teacher in Union county to attend the National Educational association convention in San Francisco were the two principal features of Prof. E. D. Ressler's address to the public and students at the high school auditorium yesterday afternoon. He pointed out that 14 students from Union county attended the summer school at Corvallis last year, being more than any other county in the state, outside of the Willamette valley, was represented with. He affirmed that the O. A. C. naturally was in close touch with Union county.

Uncurbed commendation of the Observer contest was given by Mr. Ressler. He affirmed it afforded many of the teachers the opportunity to go to the N. E. A. convention who otherwise could not attend and he commented very favorably on the general plan of the contest. Its high-aimed ideals were much to his liking.

BAKER FEDERAL HOUSE SMALL

CITY COMMERCIAL CLUB DISCUSSES ENLARGEMENT.

Finds City Has Outgrown Capacity of Its Federal Building.

(Baker Democrat.)

In connection with the communication received from Senator Bourne in regard to the evening report of the local weather bureau, it was suggested at the commercial club meeting last night that a movement be started for a petition for the enlargement of the federal building. That the new building is too small for the people of the city at the present time was pointed out by the Democrat some time ago, but even at that we have a better building than we had a year ago, and a half a loaf is better than none.

It was stated by one of the directors that the forestry service was now renting other offices in the city, there not being room in the postoffice building. If the city gets a federal court neither is there any place for it in the new building. That is true enough but we haven't got the federal court yet, and there will be a place somewhere for it when that day arrives.

It might also be stated that the local branch of the civil service has no place in the federal building in which to hold examinations, it being necessary to utilize a small and entirely inadequate room for that purpose. On top of that the weather bureau offices have been reduced in size.

Of course the building is too small—because Baker is growing and long since passed the stage of development it reached when the building was planned. But it is a blamed sight bigger than the one we had before and as suggested by the presiding officer, any movement of that kind at present, is a bit premature.

Whitman Catalogue Out.

Whitman College, Walla Walla, Wn., May 19.—The new college catalogue has just been received from the printers. It is a well printed volume of 125 pages and contains this year some interesting announcements of changes in courses and requirements. The long expected engineering course which Whitman is proposing to establish now appears, and as a striking departure from the conventional course of most institutions and technical schools. It holds up a very stiff standard of work and requires an entrance examination in algebra and trigonometry for all engineering students. Another striking thing is the dropping of the B. L. degree and with it the necessity of having Greek for the B. A. degree. Whitman is not ceasing to lay stress upon the classics by this
