SAILING BACKWARD.

Feats of Seamanship Performed With Square Riggers.

Square rigged ships can, in case of necessity, be made to sail rudder foremost, and there are many cases known where ships have sailed in that reversed order. Only a few years ago a case was recorded of such backward

One instance where the maneuver was employed by a genius in battle tactics rather than under the need of marine disaster is a brilliant chapter in the history of Old Ironsides. This account is taken from Maclay's naval

"The sternmost ship was observed luffing up so as to take a raking position across the Constitution's stern. Mindful of his danger, Captain Stewart suddenly braced his main and mizzen topsalls flat to the mast, shook all forward, let go his jib sheet and quietly but swiftly backed, under cover of the smoke, abreast the rear ship. The maneuver was executed in beautiful tyle. The yards swung around almost soon as the order was issued; the ship checked her course, trembled for a moment and then began backing. As if by magic the Constitution had dropped astern and almost before the enemy was aware of it was alongside of the sternmost ship with every gun of her formidable battery reloaded and double shotted."

The elipper ship Dreadnought lost her rudder in a gale in the winter of 1862-3, and Captain Samuel Samuels performed the great feat of sailing her backward for more than 600 miles and into safety in the harbor of Fayal .-New York Sun.

THE HERMITAGE.

Mansion In Which Aaron Burr Courted Estelle Provost.

There still stands in the Paramus valley, twenty miles from New York, in Bergen county, N. J., well preserved and kept, the mansion in which Aaron Burr courted the beautiful Estelle Provost, widow of an officer in the British army, herself an ardent royalist during the Revolution.

In the days of this courtship Burr's command in the American army was stationed at White Plains, N. Y., and he was accustomed to ride from there to Paramus on horseback to the wooing of his ladylove, making the journey to and fro between sunset and dawn. The mansion, known as "The Hermitage," is of rough stone with gothic peaks. A picturesque turnstile admits visitors to the extensive grounds.

Not far away is the old church, likewise as it was in those perilous and romantic days, where Burr and the woolng having won her, were married. Adjoining and belonging to this church is an ancient burying ground, many of whose moss grown gravestones have quaint and grotesque inscriptions. One offers this cheerful infor and delivered.

Odd Juries.

The sheriff of a certain county in England, being of a jocular turn of mind, quietly picked a jury of the twelve fattest men eligible for the purpose-men so fat that when they appeared in court and the time came for them to take up their position in the jury box it was found that but nine of them could be accommodated. However, by rearrangement and squeezing and amid the boisterops laughter of the court they finally succeeded in crowding into their allotted quarters-a packed jury in the most literal sense. Following this fat jury, the same merry sheriff had collected a lean jury, thin enough to have been accommodated in the jury box twice over. At another time be gathered a jury of barbers and, as a crowning feat, a jury of twelve men who squinted.-Green Bag.

Improving on Gray. Oliver Leria d and a friend were strolling through a section of town that was identifully strung with pulley lines on which many a family "wash" was waving in the wind. Mr. Herford's companion called attention to the manuer in which these garments shut out the sky and otherwise disfigured the landscape. Mr. Herford gazed at them thoughtfully and then gently murmured, "The short and simple flannels of the poor."-New York

Sure He Knew.

"You don't know everything. I bet that you can't tell me what is a chiropodist."

"Yes, I can too. A chiropodist is one of those chaps who can tell your character from your handwriting." "Blessed if I thought you knew it!"

-Baltimore American.

Freedom of Will. Professor-The result of our investigations for the past half hour is that man has freedom of will. I regret that I cannot continue the subject today, as I have to go shopping with my wife.-Fliegende Blatter.

Dropping Into Wealth. "I fell into some valuable property yesterday." said the aviator. "Did you; indeed?"

"Yes: I went through the skylight of a million dollar office building."-Washington Herald.

Laws ore like cobrechs, which may eatch files, but let wings and hornets break through,-Swift. Lots Like Him.

"I don't like Brown." "Why?" "He is slow." "But sure, I suppose." "Yes; sure to disappoint you."

His Reason. "Are you going to take a varation this year?"

"No: I am not strong enough."

Change Noted. "Up, guards, and at 'em?"-that was war When ancient captains won the day. "Up, boys, and bat 'emi" is the mere Refined and truly modern way.

THIS YOUNG MAN MAY BE NEXT EMPEROR OF GERMANY

REDERICK WILLIAM, crown prince of Germany, has a reasonable expectation of succeeding his father upon the throne. He is now about the age of William II., twenty-nine, when the latter became emperor. Should his father survive him another Prince Frederick William, son of the crown prince, would become the heir. The little prince now is nearly five years old and is a prime favorite of his famous grandfather. The crown prince has two other sons, so it may be said that the throne of Germany is fairly well provided with prospective or possible rulers. Crown Prince Frederick William married the pretty Princess Cecelia after having expressed in flery youth his desire to wed Miss Gladys Deacon, an American girl. Of course the kalser very promptly cut short that budding romance. The crown prince is said to be modest and intelligent. Just what a force he may become as emperor is still in the conjectural stage.
