ALL STARS MEET UNION LOSES TO BAKERITES

COVE ISSUES CHALLENGE TO ALL COMERS.

Locals Lose Yesterday Again 16 to Nothing on Local Grounds.

TO ALL AMATEURS.
We hereby challenge any ball outside of the league in Union, Wallowa and Baker counties.
(Signed) Manager Cove team.

With many of the regulars out of the game, the All Stars suffered stinging defeat on the local lot yesterday afternoon when the Cove youngsters trimmed them 16 to 0. The All Stars were completely changed about from their regular positions and several new men were in the game as well. The Cove players, however, were tuned up to a correct pitch and at no time gave the homers a chance to even get close. The Cove lineup follows: Johnson c, C. Hancock 1b, George Lorenz, 2b, Lee Motley p, A. Alexander ss, R. Hancock 3b, H. Bryant rf, B. Miller cf, and C. Richards lf.

The La Grande lineup is as follows: Paddock c, Garrick p, Irwin 1b, Garritty 2b, Blystone ss, Geddes 3b, W. Carpy lf, Bohnenkamp cf and Russel Ralston rf.

Baker, June 19.—The teams in the Eastern Oregon league maintain their relative positions as a result of yesterday's games. Baker with a strengthened up team, hammered out victory from Union 9 to 4. Smith and Smith were the twirlers and the large Baker audience was well satisfied with the showing of their pennant chasing team.

CORONATION

and carpenters.

Citizens who wish to avoid waiting for hours in the coronation day will be permitted to occupy seats at the top of these mountains of woodwork—not too near the processional route—at the rate of $15 each. This is the best that it is possible to do on coronation day, though for the succeeding days' pageant, seats can be obtained for as low as $5 apiece. For the better seats coronation day prices range from $25 indefinitely upwards.

Enormous Prices for Seats.

The record is probably $7,875 for a houseful of windows in Piccadilly for coronation day alone. In St. James street—clubland—there have been few places to let because club members are monopolizing them all.

Street decorations are everywhere, even in small, mean thoroughfares miles from the routes of any any of the processions. Electric globes, colored lanterns and enormous designs for crowning or of the royal monogram are profusely displayed. In addition to the common run of illuminations, searchlights are to be used, probably very effectively, on the night of June 22 and 23. The art of electrical display, it may be remarked, however, is decades behind the United States and every country in Europe.

Concerning the safety of visiting royalties, the authorities are doing a lot of worrying. With more than 200 of them in London, the secret agents are finding themselves fairly run to death.

Anarchists Sought Out.

The anarchist, socialist and revolutionary clubs in the city have been raked with a fine tooth comb and every foreign or home bred suspect has been rounded up and accounted for. The majority have simply been warned and left to roam about under the eyes of countless special detectives, but a few of the more dangerous ones have been quietly railroaded out of the country or locked up for coronation week. The latter will be released with proper apologies after the ceremonies are over.

The royalties in whose welfare the secret service is taking such deep interest have in the meantime driven the officials of the royal court nearly distracted by the enormous demands they have been making in the way of lodging and attendance. Including both visiting royalties and special who rank as the king's personal guests there are upward of 500 persons each of whom must be provided, if court etiquette is to be strictly observed with apartments an officer of the royal household as an attendant a royal carriage, a servant and if he is particularly important with a sentry outside his door.

Naturally even King George's household and stables have been pretty severely taxed to meet the present occasion. Horses' carriages and servants have been brought into London from all the royal residences throughout England and even at that extra ones have had to be hired. For the royal guests' benefit magnificent town houses have also been placed at His Maj-
