SCIENTIST IS GAME WARDEN

MAN OF NATIONAL REPUTATION HEADS OREGON WARDENS.

Will Import Chinese Pheasants During the Closed Season.

No man knows the animal and bird life of the Pacific coast country so well as William E. Finley, newly appointed state game warden. For the past twelve years he has devoted his time almost exclusively to this work, resulting in the publication of books, magazine and newspaper articles that are recognized as authority upon the subject. His work of research has included the Willamette valley, the Cascade mountains, the country tributary to the Columbia, Lewis, Clackamas and McKenzie river valleys, the Klamath country, Oregon coast, Tillamook country, Southern California, Arizona and Washington.

Mr. Finley is a member of the leading ornithological societies of the United States, an officer of the National Association of Audubon Societies and intimately acquainted with the eminent naturalists of the world. His correspondence with John Burroughs, Bradford Torrey, Frank Chapman, Herbert K. Job, Ernest Thompson Selon and Dallas Lore Sharp for an interesting interchange of experiences and ideas that would make entertaining reading.

When Ex-President Roosevelt made his last trip to Portland, Mr. Finley was the only man who had access to him by special appointment. The acquaintance with Mr. Roosevelt began just before the African expedition, when Mr. Finley was called into conference relative to the character of camera that could be best used for photographic purposes on the trip. This conference included a journey to Harvard college where Mr. Finley spent considerable time with Kermit Roosevelt, who was afterward selected as official photographer for the African expedition of Theodore Roosevelt.

Many people of this state are not aware that it was through the recommendations of Mr. Finley that President Roosevelt set aside the game reserves in Oregon known as the Klamath, Malheur and Three Arch Rocks reservations. Later an appropriation was made by congress to warden these reserves. The purpose of these reservations is to protect the birds from plume and market hunters. From the Klamath country alone 120 tons of ducks were shipped in one year. The importance of this step is apparent to all residents of the state.

The sportsmen and naturalists of the United States will watch the work of the new state game warden of Oregon with peculiar interest as it is the first instance in this country of a leading scientist being appointed to that position. Naturally, therefore, considerable change in policies is expected.

"The policy of the state game warden in the past," said Mr. Finley, "has been characterized very largely by policing. The belief has been general that Oregon has enough game and that protection is all that is necessary. As a matter of fact, game can not be made abundant by making and enforcing laws. We have not enough game and in spite of protecting what we have, we observe that there is less and less every year. It is absolutely necessary to have the influence of the people and the farmers in particular back of the movement, but above all, the infusion of new blood, meaning the propagation of game, as well as its protection.

"It will be one of the policies of the present warden to continue the work of protection with vigor and an efficient force of deputy wardens. Another and equally as important a feature will be the propagation of game. The national government is doing vast work in restocking the streams of the state with salmon, while the propagation of trout is left largely to the state. The establishment of trout hatcheries will be one of our first efforts. In keeping with this policy it is well to state that one change in the work will be to keep and feed trout until they are two and one-half inches long and able to protect themselves, instead of releasing them when they are but an inch in length. As far as the funds collected from anglers' licenses will permit, this work of hatching trout will be prosecuted.

"In the line of game, we intend to introduce 250 pairs of Chinese Pheasants direct from China, for the new blood. This will be done while the two years closed season is in force. In addition to protecting those we already have, we will propagate new birds. We are already in negotiations with parties to furnish 100 pair of Reeves Pheasants to be released on reservations that will be established from time to time.

Two Youth, Marry.

A proaic petition filed in the juvenile court of Chicago has disclosed a youthful romance and the fact that the St. Joe marriage bug is extending its field of operation to the children. Mrs. Helen Long has asked the court to help her get back her 16-year-old son, Charles, from his 16-year-old bride who was Miss Helen Inness until the two youngsters took a trip across the lake to St. Joseph a month ago. They started for a dancing party but landed in the Michigan green. The young bridegroom earns $9 a week as an errand boy. His capital consisted of $17.40 when the elopement took place. Both are quite confident of their ability to get along nicely on his salary. "I loved Helen," says Charlie, "and she loved me, so we got married. That's all there is to it. This wedding is going to stick."
