NEW BUILDING FOR COLLEGE

FINE BUILDING GOING UP ON O. A. C. CAMPUS.

Plan is to Make Machinery and Foundry Departments Complete.

Oregon Agricultural college, Corvallis, Ore., July 13.—(Special)—Work on the new mechanics arts building, which, with the horticulture and farm mechanics buildings, make three now in process of construction on the campus, is rapidly progressing, and the foundations are nearly complete. It is expected to have it finished, with the equipment installed by the opening of the first semester this fall, Sept. 29. The building is to be divided into three shops, one for wood working, one for plumbing and a foundry. The foundry will occupy an area of 60x35 feet, and will contain a cupola for melting iron, a brass furnace, a core oven, the necessary melting tools, and all the equipment of a modern foundry.

Adjoining the foundry will be the plumbing and pipe fitting shop, occupying some 34x24 feet of space. Instructional work here will be supplemented by much of the repair work of the college—a saving of a considerable amount of money to the state in keeping up the college plumbing.

The rest of the building will be given over to the wood working department, which has hitherto been much cramped for space in the old shops. Lathes will be installed, and in addition to the instruction work done there, much of the furniture and other equipment needed by the college in its offices, class rooms and other departments, will be constructed here at a much smaller expense than they could be bought.

When the building is completed, the three shops will almost double the capacity of the present shops. They are erected on the ground formerly occupied by the old greenhouses between the engineering building and the shops.

EXQUISITE PAIN.

The Fifth and Dental Nerves Are the Most Agonizing Thrillers.

Which part of the human body is the most sensitive to pain?

A sharp definition must be drawn here between irritation and pain. Irritation is not pain, but only a frequent cause of it. Thus a crumb lodged in the larynx near the vocal cords produces violent irritation and prolonged coughing, which often result in actual pain. So, too, a fly or speck of dust in the eye sets up violent irritation and inflammation, followed by acute pain. Of the surface of the body the finger tips and the end of the tongue are most sensitive. For instance, a burn on the fingers is much more painful than one on the back would be, while one on the tongue would be more painful still.

Deep wounds are not painful, as a rule, save as regards the surface injury. Of pains not caused by external injuries neuralgia of the fifth nerve, the one which supplies the skin of the head and face, is the most intense. It has frequently driven people mad for the time being, and sufferers have been known to cut and even burn the flesh in desperate attempts to relieve it. The rupture of the branches of the dental nerve in tooth drawing also causes agony so intense that it has been stated that no human being could endure it for more than two seconds at a time.—Pearson's Weekly.

The Joy of Pockets.

The pocket has to be lacked before it is properly appreciated, the London Chronicle says. This writer had taken his pockets as a matter of course until one evening he attended a fancy dress ball in a costume which he discovered when too late to remedy the defect, was absolutely pocketless. The question at once arose what to do with pocket handkerchief, money, cloak-room ticket and so on. The handkerchief, of course, went up his sleeve, but it took some minutes to devise receptacles for coins and other necessities in the lining of the cap, the heels of the shoes and the cuff of the coat. All night long, however, he felt lost through having no place to thrust his hands into. Since then he finds himself frequently putting his hands into his pockets to experience the sheer joy of knowing that they are there.
