THE ALTAR WAS AN ANCIENT COOK STOVE. The Time—July and August—The rest of the family who called her mother saw what was going on when it was too late.

MORAL:—Don't permit any woman you care for to cook on anything but an Electric Range—especially during the torrid days of July and August. An electric range will do away with the drudgery of handling fuel and ashes, and will insure a COOL KITCHEN.

NINTH INNING WINS CONTEST

LA GRANDE BATS OUT VICTORY AT LAST MINUTE

"Bill" Bohnenkamp Breaks Into Faster Company in Good Shape.

Landing on Stone for clustered hits in the last of the ninth when, by a whirlwind finish Baker had made the scorebook read 8 to 5 in her favor, La Grande poled out a ninth-inning victory against Baker yesterday afternoon in an exhibition game, final score 9 to 8. The game was a seesaw affair, the victory pendulum swaying with frequent rapidity. Stone and McInnis were both landed on hard, but errors also contributed to the scoring business though there was only one costly boot by La Grande. There are many fans who like to see a slam bang game—lots of hits, some errors and plenty of pinch conditions. Well, the few fans out yesterday saw all this and therefore came away admitting that it was a pretty fair game as far as excitement goes.

"Bill" Bohnenkamp broke into fast company yesterday for the first time and satisfied the fans with his showing. He pulled down a Texas leaguer that looked like a safe bingle and threw the baserunner out at first before he could return, thus mixing with a double play first crack.

Jackson's pegging and A. Hogboom's grab of a sizzling grass burner were the features of the visitors' performance.

The Lineup.

La Grande—Coffee, ss; McDonald, 3b; Owens, c; Proe, cf; Elwell, 1b; Bradley, 2b; Stoddard, rf; Bohnenkamp, rf; McInnis, p; Pidcock utility.

Baker—A. Hogboom, ss; Kidwell, 2b; Jackson, c; Stone, p; Oswell, cf; O. Hogboom, 3b; Cooper, 1b; Lawrence-Goodman, rf; Thebbedo, lf.

SCORE BY INNINGS.

Runs ..... 0 0 1 3 0 0 1 0 4—9

Hits ..... 0 1 2 1 0 0 2 0 3—9

BAKER—

SUMMARY.

Struck out—By McInnis, 6; by Stone, 8; two base hits: Coffee, Thebbedo, O. Hogboom, Proe, McDonald, double plays: Bradley to Coffee to Elwell; Bohnenkamp to Elwell. Bases on balls: off McInnis 2, of Stone 3. Total error, La Grande 4; Baker 10. Umpire, Kooser.

A GRANITE BOMB.

Jack Frost Hurlled It Down Into the Yosemite Valley.

Delicate frost tracings on the window panes seem to be the work of fanciful and harmless sportiveness, but the hand that forms them is capable of greater deeds and of other kinds. Mr. J. Swanton Chase, in "Yosemite Trails," describes an experience that must have been wonderfully impressive to the spectator. He had been spending some weeks in exploring the Yosemite valley and the "great rocks," like El Capitan, that wall it in.

Standing one day of late autumn about the middle of the valley, I was startled by a report like a cannon shot, which filled the whole valley with echoes that roared and boomed, repeated and multiplied, in a long continued, glorious tumult.

As the deafening sound died away in sullen mutterings under the vizzor of El Capitan I was able to distinguish the point of attack by the long, clattering descent of a vast quantity of rock.

The night had been a cold one in the valley, and on the seven to eight thousand foot levels of the upper rim the temperature must have dropped almost to zero.

Frost, working quietly with his Archimedean lever, had just succeeded in shifting from the shoulder of the sentinel a trifle of fifty tons or so of granite. For near a thousand feet the bowlder fell sheer, swift and silent; then, striking the cliff, it burst like a bomb, shattered into a myriad flying shards and splinters and lodged a smother of fragments that trickled down to the valley in a stream that lasted for minutes.

Then from the spot where the bowlder had struck dust began to rise into the sunny air, slowly building up and burgeoning like a summer cloud and every whit as snowy. It was the flour of granite, powdered instantaneously by the terrific shock.

GOWNS AND OMENS.

Odd Superstitions That Darken the Dressmaker's Shop.

"Women who wear fine dresses are as superstitious as the girls who make them," said a dressmaker. "If the little accidents that happen in the work-room were not mercifully concealed from the owners of rich gowns they would be sick with apprehension half the time. I had one customer who refused to accept a very expensive dress because a girl who assisted with the fitting dropped a pair of scissors, which fell point down and stuck in the floor. That meant an order for mourning within six months. The customer hoped that by refusing the hoodoo dress she could avert the calamity, but the precaution was useless. In less than three months her father was dead.

"Girls are especially particular in their work on wedding dresses, for if a tiny drop of blood from a pricked finger should fall on the gown the bride would surely die before the end of the year. Then there is green thread. Whether the customer is there to see it or not, no dressmaker will keep green thread near spoils of another color. Green thread used for basting means the return of a dress for alterations, and there is enough trouble of that kind in a dressmaking establishment without deliberately bidding for it.

"Women who are themselves superstitious are never surprised or offended at a strange incident in their life. The girls tumble their hair about on purpose when working on a large order, for it is a sacred belief among dressmakers that a hair inadvertently worked into the garment shows that more work is coming soon from the same customer."—New York Sun.
