REUNION DRAWS FROM PORTLAND

MR. AND MRS. NEWHART AMONG THOSE COMING.

Former Pioneers of La Grande Return to Visit Old Neighbors.

Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Newhart, pioneers of the first water of this valley, arrived last night from Portland and are spending the day here visiting friends and relatives before going on to Elgin tomorrow to attend the pioneer reunion there. Mr. and Mrs. Newhart moved to Portland a couple of years ago after having spent nearly all of their life in this city and valley. They are now comfortably located in Portland and each year plan to come to Union county to attend the pioneer reunions that may be held from time to time. Last year they were unfortunate in not reaching La Grande on time. They were misinformed as to the dates and came one day too late to participate in the event. This year they were not to be foiled, however, and came one day early so as to be sure and reach here on time.

TAKE TWO TO SALEM TONIGHT

HUNTER AND LUND TO COMMENCE THEIR SENTENCES SOON.

From One to Ten Years Is Sentence Affixed on Them Yesterday.

Sheriff Childers plans to leave tonight for Salem with W. J. Hunter and Roy Lund the two Union men who confessed to cattle rustling and who were sentenced to an indeterminate sentence of one to ten years. It is presumed the governor will exercise his prerogative in the matter and parole the men at the end of one year, a proceeding usually done where it is a first offense that the man happens to be imprisoned for.

The sentences were read yesterday afternoon by Circuit Judge Knowles. Both are well known men of this county. Hunter has been living at Union lately but formerly lived at Summerville. They are the men who stole some cattle at Union and sold them to the La Grande Meat company and were caught the same day.

Madagascar's Two Climates.

The island of Madagascar has two distinct climates, two classes of natives and two classes of fauna and flora. The island is about the size of France. Along the coast it is tropical and malarious, and the natives are darker than in the interior. The interior is a high tableland and mountainous. There the climate is cooler and the natives smaller and lighter in color than on the coast. But in the interior they are more intelligent, and they rule the island.

Obliging.
Excited Author (rushing behind the scenes)—Why are you cutting out the second and third acts of my play? Manager—I am not cutting anything out. I'm merely varying the order of the acts. Several influential persons in the audience have asked me if it would not be possible to have the hero die in the next act.—Chicago Tribune.

Philosophy.
Learn to be pleased with everything—with wealth, so far as it makes us of benefit to others; with poverty, for not having much to care for, and with obscurity, for being unenvied.—Plutarch.

No Wonder.
"My husband has never spoken a cross word to me."
"You lucky woman! How long have you been married?"
"Nearly two weeks."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Gallantry.
She—It seems to me as though we had met somewhere before. He—Impossible, frankly, else I should have fallen in love with you before!—Fliegende Blätter.

Do not accustom yourself to consider debt only an inconvenience. You will find it a calamity.—Johnson.

CROWNED HIMSELF.

An Impromptu Ceremony in Which King George IV. Figured.

That was a curious sort of impromptu coronation in which his majesty King William IV. of England figured. Things did not go very well with Earl Grey's government after the second reading of the first reformed bill had been carried by a majority of one in 1831, and one Friday in April they suddenly got the king to go down and prorogue parliament in person. Somebody went off to the Tower to fetch the crown, and with a scratch body of attendants his majesty drove down to the house of lords. What happened there is described in Greville's memoirs.

The king ought not properly to have worn the crown, never having been crowned, but when he was in the robing room he said to Lord Hastings: "Lord Hastings, I wear the crown. Where is it?" It was brought to him, and when Lord Hastings was going to put it on his head he said: "Nobody shall put the crown on my head but myself." He put it on and then turned to Lord Grey and said: "Now, my lord, the coronation is over."
The crown did not fit very well, we are told, but the prorogation was successfully effected.—London Chronicle.

Serving Soup.

If anybody were asked to suggest why the soup plate was made broad and shallow the almost certain answer would be that such an arrangement facilitates the cooling of the soup to a temperature comfortable to the mouth. We believe that utilitarians drink tea out of a saucer for the same reason. While that may be the explanation of the peculiar shape of the soup plate, the advantage indicated is surely insignificant compared with the obvious disadvantages which may probably arise from exposing so large a surface of nutrient fluid to the air. Soup should be served in a cup, a low broad teacup, and the method, which is becoming more usual, is hygienic. Too deep a vessel would be an error on the other side. Its advantages would be canceled by its great drawback. We should miss some of the delicate flavors of the soup.—London Lancet.

Stage Scenery.

Walter Pritchard Eaton, the dramatic critic, believes modern dramas are too elaborately staged. In "The Question of Scenery" in the American Magazine he says:

"After all, it was not the Elizabethans who were stupid because they could enjoy the drama on a bare stage. It is we who are stupid because we cannot enjoy the drama unless the stage is littered with realistic scenery. We have no faith in our own imaginative powers. It would be a good thing for the drama if all scenery were abolished for the next ten years. Having learned to get along without it, we would perhaps keep it in its proper place for a while after it returned. Its proper place is as a pictorial and suggestive background to the actors and the play and nothing but a background."

Clever Dwarfs.

Richard Gibson and his wife, who flourished in the seventeenth century, were a remarkable pair of dwarfs, quite apart from their inches, which combined barely made up seven feet. Both were clever painters of miniatures, and Gibson was drawing master to the daughters of James II. At their wedding, which was arranged by Henrietta Maria, Charles I. gave the bride away, the queen placed a valuable diamond ring on her finger, and Edmund Waller, the court poet, wrote a poem in honor of the occasion. Gibson was seventy-four when he passed away, while his widow died at the advanced age of eighty-nine years.
