

HOGG GUILTY DECIDES JURY

SENSATIONAL CASE GOES TO JURY AFTER HOUR

ARGUMENTS CONSUME ENTIRE FORENOON SESSION OF COURT

District Attorney Flays Certain Tactics of the Defense in Brilliant Final Speech to Jurors—At Late Hour Today Case Was Still in Hands of Jurors

William Hogg has been found guilty of the statutory crime for which he has been on trial the past few days, when the jury returned its verdict at 1 o'clock this afternoon after being out about two hours.

Pathos, oratory and fire characterized the finale of the William Hogg case today when the last chapter prior to jury deliberations were enacted. It was just high noon when the state closed its arguments, following the arguments of the defense during the forenoon and the opening argument by the state this morning. As the crisis of the trial neared, the attendants at the trial were allowed to listen and where the corridors were formerly swarming with men, women and children, the auditorium of the court room held them today.

Counsel on both sides lent every possible effort to their pleas. Turner Oliver answered the opening statement with a review of defense evidence, and was followed the last hour of the morning session by Col Ivanhoe for the state. In his climax he appealed to that trait of human nature which is keen to protect the helpless poor and needy and to canopy poor and unfortunate with a blanket of law protection. The closing speech was a brilliant one in which certain tactics of the defense were scored.

At 1.30 the final instructions were given to the jurors, most of whom, by the way, have families, and soon afterwards the jury room was the scene of the deliberations.

No More Jury Cases. This case concludes the jury trials at this time. There will likely be other minor cases heard, but none requiring juries at this time.

PEOPLE WON'T TOLERATE RADICAL DECISIONS LONG

Compensation Law Outcome in Supreme Court Subject of Discussion in Letters—Reactionary Term Applied to the Judges Who Held the Law Unconstitutional.

Lyons, N. Y., August 3.—That the people of the United States will not endure reactionary methods of the courts in regards to the constitutionality of laws in which they are deeply interested, is the substance of former President Roosevelt's attack on the United States court of appeals' decision on the Workman's Compensation law. In one Roosevelt says "It is simply nonsense to suppose that the country will permanently tolerate the line of action such as the court followed in declaring the compensation act unconstitutional. VITAL TOPIC BEFORE COURT

IMBLER DELEGATIONS PRESENT OPPOSING VIEWS.

Division or Unity Is Question Over School District.

PETITION IS DENIED. Late this afternoon County Judge Henry denied the petition for division of the Imbler school district and the district will remain as it now stands. The decision came at the conclusion of the hearing this afternoon.

To divide or not divide is the absorbing topic at Imbler which was whetted to white heat today when a large delegation of Imbler people appeared before County Judge Henry and Commissioners immediately after 2 o'clock this afternoon. The meeting was scheduled for 10 o'clock this morning but was scheduled for cause and the later hour made it more convenient for many to come from Imbler.

The town's school district is divided in theory and wants to be in fact. The passage by a narrow margin of a bond issue for a new high school, precipitated the issue. The new high school plans have been killed for the present year, but it is believed they may come into reality next year.

As an upshot of the division of opinion as to the relative merits of a new high school, the division question arose. Good substantial citizens are arrayed on either side and the question will be put to the county court in all its phases this afternoon before adjourning of the hearing is taken. It is a vital question to Imbler and has come to be more absorbing than the bumper apple and wheat crops.
