CAMPAIGN IN OREGON LONG

CANDIDATES MUST FILE THEIR ANNOUNCEMENTS EARLY.

Primary in Spring and Election in the Fall Makes Long Siege.

A Salem special says: All records for long campaigns will be badly distanced next year, for the primary nominating election for state and the county offices takes place on April 19 and the general election will not be held until November. It will therefore be necessary for the candidates to file their petitions with the secretary of state as early as March 20, or 20 days before the primary nominating election.

Under the new law, passed at the election in 1910, permitting the voters of the different parties to express their choice for candidate for president, the primary nominating election is to be held 45 days before the first Monday in June, making the date April 19.

Under these conditions some of the prospective candidates for state and county offices will begin to circulate their petitions as early as February, as the law provides that all the regular primary nominating elections for state and county officers shall be held at the same time as the president primaries in the year of a presidential campaign.

Campaign Is Long.

This will mean that the candidates will have nearly seven months of campaigning before the general election. In addition to securing petitions they will also be called on early in the struggle to prepare their literature for the campaign publicity pamphlets issued prior to the primary nominating elections, and in which each candidate is permitted to furnish a full and comprehensive account of himself for the benefit of the voters.

The matter of these pamphlets must be filed with the secretary of state 33 days before the primary election so that officials may have them printed and forwarded to all registered voters.

Outside of the selection of members of the legislature, on which the election of United States senator will hinge, probably the strongest fight will be waged for the office of secretary of state. Ben W. Olcott, incumbent, will have Governor West behind him. H. H. Corey, for several years chief clerk under Governor Benson and for nearly a year virtually secretary of state himself during the absence of Governor Benson when he was ill in California, will be an active candidate and is considered a strong contender. It is also reported that County Clerk Fields, of Multnomah county; John Coffey, of Portland, and a Southern Oregon candidate are in the field.

Hawley Out for Nomination.

In this district Representative Hawley will again seek the republican nomination. Charles L. McNaary, a young Salem attorney, and George F. Rodgers, ex-mayor, are both mentioned as candidates. Walter Dimick, of Clackamas county, has also been talked of, but it is thought probable that he will remain in the state senate, as it is understood he will be a candidate for the presidency of that body.

It is understood that Representative Hawley will have opposition in the southern part of the state though so far as known here no other candidate has yet declared himself.

The term of Chief Justice Robert Eakin of the supreme court, will also expire in 1913, as will the term of Dairy and Food Commissioner Bailey.

Virtually all the district attorneys and some of the circuit judges will also leave office or be compelled to run for re-election. In this district it is understood that District Attorney McNary will not seek re-election. The district includes the counties of Linn, Polk, Marion, Tillamook and Yamhill.

MAGAZINE TO BOOST OREGON

Idaho Publication to Give Space to Oregon Counties.

"The Inland Empire" is the title of a new magazine to be issued this fall at Moscow, Idaho, and promises to devote a good deal of space to La Grande and Union county. The promoters say, in the Stites Signal, of Stites, Idaho:

The object of the editor's mission is the publication, early this fall, of The Inland Empire, a monthly magazine of progress devoted exclusively to northern Idaho, eastern Washington, the Spokane country, the Big Bend country, the Palouse country, North-eastern Oregon and all of the Inland Empire.

NEW RATE ON WHEAT SOON

WALLA WALLA TERRITORY TO PROFIT BY REDUCTION.

Shipments Can Be Made to Northern Points Profitably After Aug. 25.

Walla Walla, Aug. 22.—(Special)—New grain rates over the O-W. R. & N., which will mean thousands of dollars annually to the wheat growers of this region in that they will be the same as the grain rates now given by other northern lines in eastern Washington and Idaho to Tacoma and Seattle markets, thus making it possible to ship grain from O-W. R. & N. points in this valley to other markets than those of Portland, become effective for this state next Friday, August 25, according to announcement received yesterday by District Freight and Passenger Agent Robert Burns, from Portland traffic officials. For interstate traffic the new rates will be effective on and after October 1.

This ends a fight of over a year between the local Farmers' union and the O-W. R. & N. company to secure the rates, although the railroad company was willing to grant them, the delay being caused on account of the usual red tape necessary in making rate changes. That such rates have not always been in effect is due to the Northern Pacific just as much as to the O-W. R. & N., as it is necessary for the two roads to join in the tariff for such business.

The benefits of such rates are manifold for heretofore the O-W. R. & N. has refrained from making the same rate as the Northern Pacific from Walla Walla to Tacoma and Seattle, because the haul to the sound via Portland, their only possible route, is 185 miles longer than the direct route of the Northern Pacific. This practically meant that all of the wheat in this section of the country on the O-W. R. & N. lines had to be sold to the Portland markets, and as a consequence the Portland prices were from 1 to 3 cents lower than those offered in Tacoma and Seattle.

"These new rates," said H. H. McLean, of the Farmers' union when seen yesterday afternoon, "will have a tendency to make the prices in Portland and the sound points the same, and therefore as much will be offered by local buyers for grain on the O-W. R. & N. as on the Northern Pacific. There are many stations in this valley on the O-W. R. & N. which could not ship by any other road and have been handicapped for that reason in disposing of their grain, and these new rates will mean lots to them."

STRAY TOPICS FROM LIT-TLE OLD NEW YORK.

New York, August 19.—(Special)—A sort of opera bouffe war has broken out in this city over a proposition to erect a monument to Dante, the great Italian poet, in some conspicuous locality on Manhattan Island. The plan has been launched by the publisher of a prominent Italian newspaper published not far from the New York City hall and a number of wealthy Italians here and in sunny Italy. Funds were collected, the monument, executed by a noted Italian sculptor in Florence, and cast in bronze, purchased and arrangements were made to have the work of art shipped to New York, to be presented to the municipality. But there are several Italian newspapers in New York and the editors and publishers of the other papers were not inclined to remain quiet and allow their rival to get all the glory and advertising resulting from the presentation of this gift.

The donors, or rather the prospective donors of the statue, for the presentation is not yet an accomplished fact, did not display great diplomatic tact and laid themselves open to a great deal of criticism. In their desire to make the gift as prominent as possible, they overshoot the mark, by advocating the erection of the monument on Times Square, which is about the most unsuitable spot that could be selected for a Dante monument. This suggestion has aroused a perfect storm of protests not only from the rival Italian papers, but from the public in general. At present the plans are in a state of utter confusion and there is even the possibility that the Municipal Art Commission may decline to accept the monument.

Atlantic Garden, with a history of more than half a century, one of the show places of New York in past years, and one of the oldest buildings on the Bowery, is to be torn down shortly. In its place a modern theatre and office building will be erected, which will be eight stories high and will cost about $300,000. The site on which Atlantic Garden stands was a part of the Bull's Head tavern where Gen. Washington once established his headquarters during the revolutionary war. In 1858 William Kramer took the property, which had been used as a stove factory for some years before and turned the front part of it in a resort modeled after the amusement gardens of German cities. For many years it was a center for the social life of the Germans of New York.

It caused no little commotion the other day on a First avenue trolley car, when a tall young man in clerical garb, suddenly jumped from his seat and struck a heavyset man beside him a powerful blow in the face. The man who had been struck, leaped to his feet and started for his assailant. But the latter was prepared for him and, fighting with the coolness and precision of a professional boxer, he landed blow after blow on his stocky adversary, until the latter collapsed. Then the clergyman grabbed him by the collar and dragged him off the car, which had been brought to a stop. He continued to pummel his victim and when two detectives arrived, the heavyset young man was only too glad to place himself under the protection of the officers. Then the clergyman quietly explained that the man whom he had so severely punished, was a pickpocket and that he had caught him in the attempt to pick his pocket. The man was arrested and seemed relieved by the prospect of getting out of range of the minister's powerful fists.

A certain well known banker in the Wall street district had the rather unusual experience the other day of being mistaken for a burglar and of being arrested by the police in his own lodgings. For several weeks he had been living at the house of his partner in one of the aristocratic sections of the West side. The other day, when he came home he found that he had forgotten or lost his keys and as there was nobody in the house at the time to admit him, he entered through a basement window. Some neighbors, who did not know him, informed the police and two officers made an investigation. They found the open basement window, entered the house and finally reached the upper floor, where they surprised the banker in his room, where he was changing his clothes. He tried to explain matters, but the policemen doubted his statements and insisted that he accompany them to the nearest station. He had to send for the cashier and the bookkeeper of his bank to identify him and to convince the police that he was not a burglar.

At the Ice trust investigation conducted here at present the president of the New York branch of the trust told an almost pitiful story about the conditions existing in the ice business. According to his statements the ice trust lost money during six months of the year, broke even during two months and made a small profit during four months. The entire profits, he stated, did not amount to more than 3 1/2 per cent on the capital invested. He held the increase in the production of artificial ice principally responsible for the unprofitable condition of the ice business and submitted figures to bear out his statement. And to think that all these years the consumers have been complaining about the exorbitant prices of ice.

Negotiations are pending for the sale of the property on the east side of Broadway, between Forty-fourth and Forty-fifth streets, now occupied by the New York and Criterion theatres, to a syndicate, which proposes to erect upon the site a hotel building about $5,000,000.

At the Home for incurables in the Bronx died the other day Wm. R. Laidlaw who almost twenty years ago stood beside Russel Sage, when a madman tried to kill the capitalist with a dynamite bomb. The madman and one of Mr. Sage's clerks were killed by the explosion and Laidlaw so seriously injured that he remained an invalid for the rest of his life. Laidlaw claimed that Mr. Sage had pushed him in the way of the bomb and had used his body as a shield. He brought suit against Mr. Sage for $50,000, the trial of which created considerable interest at the time. The first time the suit was dismissed on a technicality. In the second trial Laidlaw got a judgment for $25,000. The third trial miscarried for some technical reason. In the fourth trial Laidlaw was awarded $43,000, but the judgment was overruled again on a technicality. Then Mr. Sage died and the result was that Laidlaw never received a cent of damages.

Printers of San Juan, Porto Rico, have secured an increase of fifty per cent.
