MARYLAND'S CAMPAIGN

chief lieutenant.

The opposition, variously termed as the insurgents or progressives, is headed by Congressman J. Fred Talbott, Governor Austin L. Crothers, who withdrew from his candidacy for reelection to help Blair Lee, and former Governor Edwin Warfield.

Congressman Talbott is the real leader in the fight against Gorman. Member of the national committee, boss of Baltimore county, and a lifelong organization man, Talbott was trusted lieutenant of the late Senator Gorman, and followed the lead of the great state boss for a quarter of a century without question. Today he is found leading the support of Lee for the gubernatorial nomination and doing his utmost to defeat the son of his former chief.

The real secret of Talbott's turn-about-face in the political arena is to be found in young Gorman's well known ambition to enter the United States senate. After the death of United States Senator Gorman Congressman Talbott aspired to succeed to the toga, but was defeated in his ambition by John Walter Smith, who had the support of the younger Gorman and who has since managed to retain a firm hold on the state organization. In the present fight Talbott again seeks to wrest the party leadership from Senator Smith by defeating the latter's choice for the head of the state ticket. If Lee wins the nomination for governor, and is elected, he will have, in the patronage of his office, all-powerful weapons with which to beat down the old organization, create a new one, and retire Senator Smith to private life. Lee's success, according to the general understanding, would mean the election of Congressman Talbott as the next United States senator from Maryland.

The republicans appear to be well satisfied with the situation. They contend that whether Gorman or Lee is defeated in the primary the democratic party will be split wide open and that the nominee will be knifed to such an extent that the republican ticket should be able to win out handily.

There are no contests for the republican nominations. The state ticket was agreed upon in conference and will be named in the state convention without opposition. Phillips Lee Goldsborough of Dorchester is the choice for governor, W. H. Cunningham of Carroll county for state controller and Morris A. Soper of Baltimore for attorney general. The ticket is regarded as exceptionally strong, representing as it does both the younger republicans and the older element of the party.

Mr. Goldsborough, who is to be the nominee for governor, is a native of Somerset county, and a lawyer by profession. In 1896, when the republicans were in control of the legislature, he made a strong fight for United States senator, but was defeated by George L. Wellington. In 1897 he was elected state controller. In 1902 President Roosevelt appointed him collector of internal revenue for the Baltimore district, and he was re-appointed by President Taft.

New Bishop of Natchez.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 29.—In the presence of a great gathering of prelates and priests of the south and of the Catholic laity of Atlanta and vicinity the Rev. John E. Gunn, D. D., was today consecrated bishop of Natchez, Miss., as a successor of the late Bishop Heslin. The ceremony was performed in Sacred Heart church and was attended by all of the pomp and detail prescribed by the Roman Catholic ritual. The consecrating prelate was Archbishop Blenk of New Orleans, who was assisted by the bishops of Savannah, Mobile, Nashville and other cities of the south.

The new bishop of Natchez was born in Ireland forty-eight years ago and comes of a family that has been very prominent for generations in the famous Irish lace industry. He received his early education under the direction of the Marist Fathers in Dundalk, Ireland, and later studied the higher branches of learning in England and Rome. In the latter city he was ordained to the priesthood in 1890. For two years following his ordination he was engaged in mission work in England. Then he came to America to become a teacher in the new Marist College in Atlanta and later was assigned to the Sacred Heart Parish in this city. He continued his pastoral duties and mission work in this vicinity until his recent appointment to the bishopric.

EXPERIMENT ON CHARPITTING.

George Gerlinger to Try 40-Acre Tract as an Object Lesson.

(From Dallas Semi-Weekly Observer.) If the plans of George Gerlinger, manager of the Dallas Lumber & Logging company, carry aught, Polk county is to be given an object lesson in the practical details of charpitting according to the latest improved methods. He has been watching the results as carried on elsewhere, and he wishes to try it out on the company's logged-off lands above Falls City. He is going to obtain the best man available to superintend the experiment, and with that end in view he has called on the state college of Washington located at Pullman, for the services of a man who has had sufficient experience and knowledge of charpitting to take charge of the work of clearing a 40-acre tract. If the results attained are satisfactory, the method will be continued in clearing up some 500 or 600 acres of the logged-off lands in the western portion of the county. It will cost considerable money to carry out the demonstration on the scale planned by Manager Gerlinger, but he has faith in the scheme and will give it a fair trial.

In carrying on the experiments, he has a two fold object in view. Aside from the direct benefit to the company several hundred acres will be made tributary to the wealth of the county, and the farmers and owners of timber land will be given an opportunity to see and learn at first hand the principles and operations involved in getting rid of stumps. In all those cases where there is doubt as to the feasibility of the system, the failure is attributed to lack of knowledge as to the manner in which it is necessary to do the work.

Until recently the huge task of taking out stumps from slashed or logged off areas was one of the most arduous jobs that confronted the home builder in a timbered country, and many a young man has settled down in the forest, lived a life of toll, grown old and has passed away amid blackened stumps that defied the onslaughts of his axe, saw and mattock. But it is now claimed that the charpitting system has come to man's aid and that the perfection of the system is rendering the work simple and cheap.
