100,000 CARS OF APPLES?

SUCH IS ESTIMATE FOR NEAR-FUTURE CROP.

Northwest Apple Product Growing by Leaps and Bounds Say Experts.

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 14.—"It is no idle statement to say that in a comparatively few years there will be 100,000 carloads of apples marketed from Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana."

This statement is contained in a letter received by the management of the National Apple Show, Inc., headed by E. F. Cartier Van Dissel, from Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific railway company, forwarding a subscription of $1,000 for the railroad and $250 as a personal contribution to the fourth annual competitive exposition and Enakops street carnival, November 23 to 30.

"The National Apple show, by bringing together the best minds in the business, is a potent factor in helping to place the apple industry upon a sound, scientific and commercial basis," Mr. Elliott says. "The day of the commercial orchard has come, not alone in the west, but all over the country and men are giving the same careful and thorough attention to the production of apples that is devoted to the making of steel or to any other business that is conducted with skill and intelligence."

"The study and attention and care given to the production of fruit by the grower, must, as the production increases, be supplemented by efforts for publicity as to the many uses of the apple, by combined efforts for wider markets and by additions to the present facilities for storage and transportation."

"Therefore, it will be necessary for the apple grower to do what the grain grower has done. This means that as the production increases the grower must have facilities at his home orchard, at the nearby station and throughout the country to properly care for his crop to receive the best market prices."

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 14.—"Professor" F. F. Neitzel, who was arrested in Spokane several months ago on the charge of "fortune telling," and attracted nation wide attention by his plea that as a duly ordained minister of the National Astrological society of the United States he was practicing a legitimate profession, was found guilty of vagrancy by a jury in the Spokane county superior court. Attorney George Crandall, said to have been retained by the national organization, which has headquarters at St. Paul, immediately served notice on Judge Sullivan of an appeal to the supreme court. The law of Washington does not recognize astrology as a science or religion. Neitzel was arrested by a detective connected with the Spokane police department after he had mapped out the officer's future and warned him of "a dark haired woman," and "a light haired man," who, he said, "are regular trouble factors." Neitzel denied the officer's story, saying that he merely told what was revealed to him by the stars, according to a religion that has been practiced for ages.

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 14.—Placer miners working at the old Florence camp, in northern Idaho, are daily taking gold coins of $2.0 and $5.00 denominations, minted in 1832, American and French silver pieces and lead bullets such as were used in the days when the muzzle-loading horse pistol was the popular side arm, from the clean up of the sluice boxes on the Hainson-Champlain ground.

W. A. Patterson, a mining engineer, and F. P. Lint, owner of a group of claims on Marshall lake, who returned from the camp yesterday, report that most of the ground is returning as high as $10 in gold dust to the cubic yard. Virgin gold was the principal medium of exchange in the days when Florence had the name of being the richest and toughest mining camp in the northwest, and it is thought that the rich finds are the result of the dust falling from the scales and sifting through the cracks in the floors of the saloons, gaming houses and dance halls in the early 60's.

While Patterson and Lint were in camp the miners were working on ground formerly occupied by a gambling house and dance hall, which figured in some of the most tragic events in the history of northern Idaho, before the advent of a railroad in the western country. Gun fights were of daily occurrence and few nights passed without one or more being slashed in bowie knife duels.

Veteran prospectors and placer miners now living at Lewiston and other parts of that district, who flocked to Florence when the first gold was found declared years ago that the richest diggings were where the camp town was located; but, as no water was available until a steam pump was installed recently for conveying water to the sluices, no attempt was made to mine the ground.

MEAT FOR MUSIC.

The Way Haydn's "Ox" Minuet Came to Get That Title.

There is no sensible reason for the titles attached to many pieces of music, some of them even classical selections. Most generally they are placed there as an attempt of some publisher to "boom" his stock and sell his goods. They again, some peculiar titles may have their origin in incidents about as important as the following:

Haydn one day received a visit from a butcher who said that himself and his daughters were admirers of Haydn's music and as the young woman was soon to be married he made bold to ask that the composer write a minuet for her wedding. Kind "Papa Haydn" consented, and in a few days the man of meat obtained his music. Not long afterward Haydn was surprised to hear this same minuet played under his window. On looking out he saw a band of musicians forming a ring around a large ox, tastefully decorated with flowers. Soon the butcher came up and presented the ox to Haydn, saying that for such excellent music he thought he ought to make the composer a present of the best ox in his possession. Ever after this little composition was called the "Ox" minuet.—W. Francis Gates in "Anecdotes of Great Musicians."

How Franklin Learned Manners.

Franklin collected thirteen principles to cover the small amenities of daily life. Each week he picked out one and practiced it diligently, thus creating a habit. It took three months to cover them all. Each year he practiced each one four full weeks. He kept this up for many years. The uncouth Franklin of early manhood who found fault with his wife for giving him a silver spoon and a china bowl for his bread and milk instead of a pewter spoon and earthenware crock, developed into the statesman and man of the world who won the respect of Englishmen, the admiration of Frenchmen and the gratitude of Americans.—Harrington Emerson in Engineering Magazine.

Following in His Footsteps.

Visitors to China are particularly struck by the numbers of pairs of boots hung in separate wooden cages in the archway of the main west gate of Hsuanhua, the valedictory gifts of beneficent prefects. It is an attractive custom in China to invite a departing magistrate whose rule has been popular to leave a pair of old boots for suspension in a prominent place as a hint to his successor to follow in his footsteps. It is a considerable honor to be asked to leave these boots, and the ruled make the request all the more eagerly because they believe in the efficacy of the hint.

The Play of "Othello."

"Viewed exclusively as a dramatic fabric, 'Othello' is not only the best of Shakespeare's plays, but the best play in the English language," says William Winter in "The Century." "No story could be more simple, direct, fluent and elementally tragic, but with what marvelous skill the poet has told it, with what ingenuity of invention, with what vibrant vitality of continuous action, with what ample and superb drawing of character, what prodigious volume of feeling, what tumult of surging and conflicting passion and what perfection of poetic style!"

A Little One.

Figg—Talk about your green servant girls. My wife told ours to put a little nutmeg in the custard she was making this afternoon. Fogg—And did she do it? Figg—Oh, yes; she put a little nutmeg in, all right. I came near choking over the blamed thing.—Boston Transcript.

Aristocrat.

The word "aristocracy" comes from the Greek "aristos" (best) and "archo" (rule), meaning the rule of the best. Literally aristocrat means the "best man."

God hath yoked to Gullt her pale tortmentor, Misery.—Bryant.
