SUNFLOWERS.

Their Pith Makes Fine Interlining For Battleship Armor.
The most remarkable use to which the sunflower has been put is in the construction of battleships. The stalk of the plant is very pithy, and even when compressed into blocks this pith is capable of absorbing a tremendous quantity of water. These blocks, in which the pith retains some of its flexibility, have been employed with much success in the solution of the vexed problem of the lining of a battleship's sides. They are placed between two walls of steel, and the substance is so resilient that it completely closes up the hole made by a projectile, keeping out the water for a long time.

Another little known use of the sunflower is in the manufacture of cigars. There is not a part of the plant that is without commercial value. The seed, which is raised by hundreds of millions of pounds every year in Russia, makes a palatable edible oil, with a residue of seed cake for cattle, or it may be fed in the kernel to poultry. The blossoms furnish honey first and then an excellent yellow dye. As for the stalks, the Chinese are clever enough to get a sort of silky fiber from them, and they are also good for fuel and for the production of potash. In New England it is believed that the sunflower "keeps away malaria." It is also believed that the blossoms follow the sun in its daily course, but that is not true.

When the Immortals Nodded.

The French papers have made much of a slip by M. Emille Fagnat in his oration before the academy. The academicien rendered to Caesar more than was Caesar's, for he gave the "fighter and writer" credit for a line which belongs to Cato. But it seems the immortals are not immune from lapsus linguae. General Langlois got mixed up with Palestro and Solferino. Even Scribe and Moliere refer to the revocation of the edict of Nantes, which took place in 1685, twelve years after Moliere's death. But perhaps a more glaring instance is that of Montesquieu, who, in his "Esprit des Loix," volume 1, chapter xxi, 22, writes, "I have many times deplored the blindness of the council of Francis I, who rebuffed Christopher Columbus when he proposed his scheme for India." But Francis I ascended the throne in 1515, nine years after the date of the death of Columbus.—London Globe.

Pay By Check

If you have a checking account, the bank does your bookkeeping free of charge and renders you a statement of your receipts and expenditures whenever you ask for it.

Your cancelled checks are receipts for the bills you have paid. You need never pay a bill twice if you pay by check. The check is positive proof that you paid the money.

You cannot be robbed if you carry a check book instead of the actual money. You cannot lose your money by carelessness or fire if you keep it in the bank and pay by check.

If you have a check book in your pocket you always have the "right change," for you can make out a check for any odd amount.

If you pay by check, people will see that you have a bank account and your credit will be greatly improved.

If you have a checking account at the bank, you will be given special consideration should you wish to borrow money.

Your money in the bank keeps the mills running, employs labor, and makes good and prosperous times for all.

If you have a checking account you need not send money through the mails. You can send your check. If the check is lost your money is still safe in the bank.

If a check is stolen or forged, you do not lose anything. The bank is liable for forged checks if it pays them.

All check books, banks books, etc., are free, and it costs you absolutely nothing to have a bank account.

If you have a checking account at the bank, you will always feel free to ask your banker for advice or for a recommendation. He will be glad to furnish either.

Nine-tenths of the business of the world is done by checks. Why not do yours that way?

The officers of this bank are at your service. They invite you to make this bank your business home.

YOU CAN OPEN AN ACCOUNT BY DEPOSITING ONE DOLLAR.

RUSH OF THE CRESTED SEA.

Mount St. Michel's Tidal Wave One of the Sights of the World.

At 5 o'clock in the afternoon people gather on the causeway that connects the islet of Mount St. Michel with the French coast to watch the coming of the tide, one of the sights of the world.

As far as the eye can reach stretches the gray sand, silent, empty. Seven miles and a half lie between the ocean and the rock. Presently a strange murmur pervades the air. It seems to come from nowhere and yet to be everywhere.

And then far on the horizon lifts a line of white. Every moment it draws nearer, and the sound in the air swells louder, and then with astonishing speed up the line of crested sea, and in a moment, where it reaches the sands, there is but a space of swirling water. And on the waves ride in the fishing boats that have gone out to sea on the tide at dawn.

Many a tragedy has been caused by the swift rush of this true tidal wave, for, save along narrow paths, the bottom of this vast, strange bay is but quicksand, and after the tide has once turned and the sound of its coming is heard no man can hope to escape its reach unless he be close indeed to the mount or the shores of the mainland.—Travel Magazine.

Making It Clear.
Parson's daughter: "Good morning, Giles! Haven't noticed you in church for the last few weeks." Giles: "No, miss; I've been oop at Newcastle a-visitin' my old 'aunts. And strange, isn't it; I don't see no change in 'em since I was a child like?" Parson's daughter: "What wonderful old ladies they must be!" Giles: "I didn't say 'aunts, miss; I said 'aunts—'aunts where I used to wander in my childhood days like!"

Advice.
"Now that you've heard my daughter sing, what would you advise me to do?"
"Well," the music master replied, "I hardly know. Don't you suppose you could get her interested in settlement work or horseback riding or something like that?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

His Grievance.
Editor—We are sorry to lose your subscription, Mr. Jackson. What's the matter? Don't you like our politics? Alistair Jackson—Tain't dnt, sab, 'tain's dat. Mah wife jes' been an' dun landed a job o' wuk fob me by advertisin' in youh darned old papah—Puck.

Where It Was.
"Johnny, can you get the family Bible; I want to show it to the parson."
"Oh, maw, I can't move all those trunks and boxes!"—Baltimore Sun.
