find that cotton is best by reason of its quality to mix with the rubber so as to form a compact thickness.

To be prepared for the road the rubber goes through the refining process by which all dirt and grit are removed. To do this it is washed many times and rolled between heavy iron rollers, which mash up any remaining substance that may have remained from the first washing. While this rolling process is going on streams of water are playing on the rubber to take away what dirt the rollers have dislodged.

How Tires Are Built.

Other machines cut the rubber and the cloth into strips of the correct width and length for building up the tires. They are cut on the basis so that the strain of use on the rim may fall the correct way with the grain of the material.

Each tire is built up on a mould and after being processed until complete in every other detail is sent by mechanical device into compartments where it is subjected to great heat and heavy pressure. This welds the tire material into a homogeneous substance that will stand the wear and tear it is intended for. The store-rooms of the company where 2,000 tires a day are made in its factory cover a large area. This is a lecture on rubber tires that cannot be missed by those interested in keeping down the expense of the automobile bills.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

TIRE INDUSTRY PUT ON SCREEN

INTERESTING MOVING PICTURES AT THE STEWAIRD.

Rubber Industry to Be Told by Word and Picture Monday Night.

What is conceded to be the most interesting lecture ever delivered on the rubber industry will be given at the Steward theatre Monday evening Oct. 9th, under the auspices of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber company of Akron, Ohio. This firm has gone to the expense of having prepared 4,000 feet of moving picture film covering the history of rubber from the time it is taken from the tree in its crude form by the South American Indians until it is made into automobile tires at their factory at Akron, Ohio. The lecture will be given by F. M. Tillisch, who has traveled over the greater portion of the United States within the past two years giving these instructive lectures wherever the automobile is known.

This moving picture show is free to all wishing to attend and tickets may be procured from any automobile agent in the city. Every man, woman and child in La Grande interested in automobiles should make it a point to witness this lecture.

Life of Tire Shown.

The illustrated talk is in three parts, each depicting a period in the life of the automobile tire as it comes from the tree of South America into its use on the machine. The first period of the talk deals with the gathering of the rubber from the tree. The pictures show natives of South America tapping the trees and drawing the milk and preparing same for shipment by boiling it down and cooling into blocks. The trees are opened with an axe and small cups held beneath the opening to receive the juice much as we tap maple syrup trees. The sap is then gathered and taken to camp where native women boil it and cool great masses of it over sticks. There are millions and millions of trees in the great rubber producing districts of the Amazon as yet untapped, according to Mr. Tillisch.

The second part of the lecture is composed of films made at the great Akron rubber plant.

Scenes at Factory.

They show the arrival of the raw product at the factory and from that point take the spectator through every part of the plant. He sees the rubber run through various machines, which take out the dirt and perform various other offices necessary to its preparation for use on the motor vehicle. One of the most interesting facts in connection with the making of automobile tires is the use of cotton fabric, made so carefully that it costs more than many qualities of silks. This cotton is carefully selected and carefully woven. The makers have tried silks and other fabrics, only to
