HOGS GO DOWN.

Local meat markets quote a figure of $4.50 on hogs today, a drop of 25 cents from previous quotations. At the same time that hogs dropped, a new price on some coffees selling for 40 cents before, going up to 45 cents per pound. All grades will go up 5 cents when prices are adjusted.

*****
(By Northwest Fruit Exchange)

Portland, Oct. 23. (Special)—Since the last report of the exchange, October 6th, the market has undergone some rapid and radical changes, and the whole situation has taken on a more settled and a very different complexion. Perhaps the season of 1911 will stand out in the history of the northwestern apple deal as being without precedent, in many of its phases.

The feature of the market, at the time it opened, was a very bearish sentiment on the part of the eastern dealers and operators, practically all of whom "laid down" completely, being scared by the large eastern crops, and disbelieving the reports of a very short crop in the northwest. However, it began to be borne in upon their minds that the crop in the Pacific northwest was really short, and that certain of the important district not only had a small crop, but of small sizes. The supply of strictly fancy fruit of large sizes has turned out to be tremendously short, and the demand for such fruit has developed very strongly, at prices quite a little better than last year.

The situation in a nutshell is this: for extra fancy fruit of large sizes—four-tier and larger—the supply is insufficient to cover the demand, and prices, therefore, are very strong. On the other hand, there is no demand for off grades, and especially for small sizes—4 1/2 tier and 5 tier. Unfortunately, certain districts, notably Idaho, are producing a preponderance of small sizes—from one third to one half of the total being 5 tier.

The exchange finds no trouble in making sales of Cashmere district fruit, which runs largely to fancy grades and large sizes, on the following basis: these prices being taken from a large number of actual sales, which are on sale with the Cashmere Fruit Growers' union:

Spitzenbergs, Extra fancy $2.25 to $2.00, fancy $1.75.
Winesaps—Extra fancy $2.00, fancy, $1.75.
Staymen Winesaps—Extra Fancy $1.60 to $1.50; fancy $1.40.
Rome Beauty—Extra fancy, $1.60 to $1.50; fancy $1.40.
Black Twigs—Extra fancy $1.50 to fancy $1.25.

Many other varieties have been sold at proportionate prices.

Authorities estimate that the deal will clean up at a very early date this year—earlier than ever before in recent years. For instance it looks as though shipping in the Cashmere-Wanatchee district will be pretty well over in the first week in November—outside of what the growers may carry in their cellars.

The indications are that the market will close strong on fine and fancy fruit of large sizes. For fruit of any other description the demand is weak and prices nominal.
