

Try on Some of Our New SUITS AND OVERCOATS

See how attractive they are in style, how perfectly they fit, and of what excellent fabrics they are made. You'll see an immense line of quiet, practical and refined styles which are so much in demand by correctly attired men.

The gaudy, loud and freakish garments are entirely omitted. The garments we show will appeal to discriminating men who appreciate distinction, yet desire refined styles.

The sweetness of low prices will never atone for the bitterness of poor quality. It is what you get for the price that counts. Anyone of our fall garment offerings is an able demonstration of the fact that buying ready-to-wear garments here is a paying proposition for you.

Don't pay too little for a "bargain." It may cost you too much. We always put the importance of QUALITY before PRICE. But our prices are low when you consider the quality. As people grow more careful in buying, the surer we are of their trade.

TONY & SCRANTON

The Store That Satisfies

Society and Clubs

Hunts, cats, ghosts, uncanny noises and Halloween pranks, appropriately carved pumpkins, parties innumerable—big and small—but all looking toward a common end—such in brief is the social prospectus for next week. The week past has been confined, in a social way to smaller parties and everyone awaits the big things of next week. Among these will be the Milem girls' dancing party, the second of the series, at which the Elks hall will be fittingly decorated and at which many terpsichorians anticipate a delightful evening. This party leads off on Monday evening, so as not to conflict with other functions. Tuesday afternoon perhaps the biggest function of the coming week will be given when Mrs. W. B. Jones and Mrs. M. B. Donohue are hostess at Five Hundred at the Jones residence. The same evening comes the Elks' masquerade ball and for the younger set, Miss Ethel Wright and Miss Mae Neill will be hostesses at an elaborate party for the young. All in all the first three days of the week will be real busy ones. In addition to these there are several other parties on the social calendar.

Mrs. Frank Bay entertained yesterday afternoon the members of the New Idea club. The club enjoyed itself immensely with thimble and needle. Refreshments were served to Mrs. Bay's guests, who were: Mrs. C. C. Bull, Mrs. Jess Paul, Mrs. Chas. Murchison, Mrs. B. W. Brown and Mrs. Nate Zwielfel.

The young people of the Methodist church rendered a very pleasing program Wednesday evening at which many of the congregation and other guests were present. Light refreshments were served by the special social committee, Miss Beasie Brown, Miss Hattie McMurray and Avery Roberts. The new members were the special guests. The program given follows:

Invocation—J. D. Gillilan, D. D.
Reading—(Bill Thay)—Mildred Burke.
Solo—"Good Night, Little Girl, Good Night"—Olive Massee.
Reading—"Farmer Green and the Justice"—Christine Wheatley.

Solo—"Sing Me to Sleep"—Laura Green Willis.
Reading—"Burlesque on Friday Afternoon at a Country School"—N. Lucille Allen.

Unique invitations are out for an elaborate masquerade ball at the Elks hall Tuesday night at which Elks will be hosts for the evening. Only Elks and their lady friends will attend however but many novel and nobby costumes are anticipated to grace the floor when the masqueraders appear.

Costumes, varied and many, will arrive from Portland Monday night and early Tuesday morning will be arranged at the Elks lodge room where members can provide themselves with costumes of almost any description. There will be enough for all and the committee is anxious to call this important fact to the attention of dancers who might otherwise have difficulty in securing adequate costumes for the masquerade party on Tuesday evening. The supply will be at the disposal of the members Tuesday morning and it is expected there will be quite a land office rush to procure the best the allotment provides.

Close to a half hundred were guests at an informal reception given by Mrs. F. H. Green Wednesday to Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Robson, Misses Grace and Minnie Robson, who have taken their departure for California to make their future home. The guests were principally from the congregation of the Methodist church who had become warm friends with the genial Robson family since their arrival here from Red Wing, Minnesota. Music, refreshments and an informal "good time" were some of the evening's features.

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Cochran and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Cochran entertained the Kaffe Klatch members and their husbands last evening. The affair was somewhat out of the ordinary because of the close proximity to Halloween and Halloween luncheon was served and decorations suitable to the occasion were in evidence. Pumpkin pies went as prizes to the consolation winners. Mrs. Jay Van Buren and J. J. Carr won the first prizes and Mrs. F. L. Meyers the consolation.

Mrs. Oscar Jackson entertained at dinner the members of the La Jaunesse club and Mrs. J. G. Snodgrass, Mrs. Lloyd Scriber and Mrs. Fred Dittebrandt as special guests Thursday evening. The affair was out of the ordinary La Jaunesse club meetings, especially in the matter of the luncheon, which was considerably more than the customary collation.

Attention is called to the members of the Neighborhood club of the change of the meeting from next Tuesday to Wednesday because of other social events on Tuesday.

The Lyle Tuesday Musical had a very enjoyable meeting Tuesday. The leaders were McDonald and Mrs. Robinson.

Mrs. H. C. Gulling was hostess to the Five Hundred club this week. The honors of the afternoon were won by Mrs. W. H. Bohnenkamp.

Mrs. J. W. Walsh entertained the missionary society of the Methodist church this week.

THRIVED ON MISFORTUNE.

A German Peddler Who Insulted the Kaiser and Got Rich.

A German hawker, Hans Bauermeister, retired from business, having amassed a little fortune. According to a Paris contemporary, misfortune was the foundation of his success. The hawker's specialty was the sale of portraits of the imperial family.

His mode of haranguing his audience was something like this: "Buy a portrait of William I, whose motto was, 'I have no time to be worried.'" "Who'll buy this Frederick II, whose prayer was, 'Teach me to suffer without complaining?'" "Do not fail to complete your collection and buy this portrait of our great emperor, William II, whose favorite phrase is, 'Augusta, you pack your trunks.'" "This last always brought down the audience, and in time the police, in another sense. Bauermeister was sentenced to sixty days for lese majesty. He did his time and on release restarted his business. He sold his portraits with the old formula until he came to that of the kaiser, and then he said, "I have learned to my cost that it is not lawful to repeat what he says so often." The people were just as well pleased, and the portraits sold splendidly.
