E. KILPATRICK AT SPRINGFIELD

HELD ACTING SUPERINTENDENCY OF LANE COUNTY HIGH.

Former La Grande Youth Inaugurates a New System at Springfield.

University of Oregon, Eugene, Ore. Nov. 1.—(Special)—Earl Kilpatrick, formerly a La Grande boy, and member of the class of 1909 of the University of Oregon is principal of the Springfield high school. Since receiving this position, a month ago, Mr. Kilpatrick has adopted the plan of allowing students in pedagogy at the university, which is only two miles away, to practice teaching in his school. The same plan has been in practice in the Eugene high school for several years and the adoption of the policy by Principal Kilpatrick makes it possible for all of the seniors in the department of education to get a touch of practical experience before accepting positions in high schools of the state.

Both in college and out of it, Mr. Kilpatrick has made a noteworthy record. While in the university he was a champion debater and orator and was editor of the college newspaper. For two years immediately following his graduation he was principal of the high school at Oakland, Oregon. His work here was creditable as was shown by the high standard to which he raised the school. Leaving this position this fall he became acting superintendent of the Lane county schools, which is a highly important position, as Lane county is the largest in the state and boasts of fine schools. After mature deliberation, and the playing of some politics, the county court on the ground of the extreme youth of Mr. Kilpatrick gave the permanent position to an older man.

Kilpatrick, upon his merits, was immediately offered the principalship of the Springfield schools and without hardly a break in his winter's work he went from the county superintendency to his present position. Mr.

Kilpatrick's salary as principal of the Springfield high school is $133 a month, which, although falling short of that which he received during the month he was county superintendent, is pretty good for a 22-year-old boy just two years out of college.

There is a great demand on the university for its graduates to act as teachers and principals in the high schools of the state. A job is assured every graduate in the educational department who has made a creditable record, as the demand for first class teachers is greater than the supply. Thirty-two members of last year's graduating class are now teaching at salaries ranging around $100 a month.

To Whom It May Concern:

Regarding the La Grande Manufacturing company which is now making the automatic threshers at the Walla Walla plant, being interested in that line of machinery, I have just returned from a trip of investigation from Walla Walla. I find that on looking over the machine which has been in use the past season, that it is going to be of great interest to the farmer in the way of saving grain, saving straw and a great reduction of hired labor. The automatic thresher is a combined separator, feeder, hoist and derrick mounted on one truck, doing away with the hoe down men and derrick teams. The machinery will save one half of the labor and more grain by having a steady feed that can be regulated while the machine is in motion. The machine will be built in sizes to suit the purchasers. I met the manager, Mr. John Shanks and, I find him to be a very conservative and reliable man. The statement of his plans are as follows:

First—The La Grande Manufacturing company is capitalized for $30,000, $1 per share.

Second—He intends to build during the winter, five machines for the coming season to be distributed to be distributed in different parts of the county and in order to do this he would like to dispose of some stock to enable him to put the machine on the market. The price of shares is $2 sold on ten month's time. Payments 10 per cent down and collectable the first of every month, or 10 per cent for cash. There is no doubt in my mind that the machine is what the farmer is looking for.

Fun at the Isis.

For uproarious comedy the two following reels are well worth the 10 cents charged for admission to the whole show. They are both by the celebrated Vitagraph company and will be shown tonight and tomorrow.

Queer Folks—A romance of the side show, in which the living skeleton falls in love with the fat woman, and the bearded lady falls in love with Sampson, the strong man, and he is in love with the bearded lady. The fat lady notwithstanding the love of the strong man for the bearded lady, is intent upon getting him by fair means or foul. The skeleton has the same contention about the fat woman, and, in order to win her, dresses himself up as a gay Lothario and twangs a banjo outside of her ten.

He challenges the strong man to fight a duel with him. The bearded lady huris defiance at the fat woman. The skeleton knocks out Sampson and the bearded lady puts the crimps in the fat one, who turns the tables on the bearded lady, flattening her out like a pancake, and the skeleton keeps his man down by placing a thousand pound dumbbell on his chest.

The fat lady is so impressed with the skeleton's progress and manliness she falls into his arms, all his and h's alone. The bearded lady lifts the thousand pound dumbbell from the chest of the strong man; he jumps for her takes her to his arms, whiskers and all.

The Wrong Patient—Dr. Goodwin, veterinary surgeon, is in love with Cissy Morgan. Her father, a rheumatic, objects to the doctor's attentions to his daughter.

Mr. Morgan's horse is taken sick and Dr. Goodwin prescribes for the much valued animal. About the same time Mr. Morgan's attendant sends for an M. D. to visit his master, and prescribe for his ailments.

The young veterinary hands the prescription for the horse to the servant with instructions to take him out in the open air, trot him about briskly, and rub him with Nag's liment, give him a cold bath with the hose, wrap him with a blanket and allow him to rest. The servant, supposing that the prescription is for his master, proceeds to put it in operation with the assistance of two or three able bodied stablemen.

After this vigorous and strange treatment, Mr. Morgan finds himself so much better that he gives Dr. Goodwin his daughter's hand in marriage.

He Liked Turpie.

Charles Kean in forcing a tavern companion to take mustard with his beef showed a more generous disposition than a city magnate who figures in the "Memoirs of Grantley Berkeley." Although a hearty feeder, Berkeley did not like fat and when served with turtle soup always left the green fat on the side of his plate. This is considered by many to be the best part of the dish, and at a city dinner Berkeley attended his neighbor observed him with horror deliberately rejecting the unctuous green fragments. "At length his feelings got the better of the alderman, and after demolishing his third helping of turtle he swept all the fat from my plate on to his, grunting contemptuously, 'I see they're wasted on you.'" — London Chronicle.

His Geography.

Ample explanation of the many attempts to construct a universal language lies enfolded in the reply of a small boy, given by Mrs. Hugh Fraser in "A Diplomatist's Wife in Many Lands."

The irregular French verbs—what a terror those were to children! My own little boy when he was seven years old was asked by his teacher a question in geography.

"What separates England from France?"

"The irregular verbs," he replied, with mournful conviction.

Not Full Grief.

"Gladys is very strict in her ideas about the appropriate touch in dress."

"Is she?"

"So much so that when her half sister died she would not wear any but half mourning." — Baltimore American.

SUPPOSE you were to be handed a hundred dollar bill on the sale of a horse. Large bills are mighty awkward in making small purchases. The chances are your neighbor couldn't cash it. Perhaps the merchant wouldn't care to. This bank would. Certainly.

BUT WHAT ABOUT THE CHANGE? SILVER IS HEAVY IN THE POCKET, SMALLER BILLS MUST BE CHANGED YET AGAIN, AND, TOO, THEY HAVE A WAY OF WORKING OUT OF THE POCKET UNNOTICED. A HUNDRED DOLLARS IN CASH CAN CAUSE A LOT OF WORRY WHEN IT HAS TO BE CONSTANTLY WATCHED TO AVOID LOSS, ERROR AND THEFT.

IT'S DIFFERENT WITH A HUNDRED DOLLAR BANK ACCOUNT. YOU WRITE A CHECK FOR THE AMOUNT OF YOUR PURCHASE. SIMPLE, CONVENIENT. NO WORRY, NO RISKS.
