FAMOUS PIANISTI MAY COME TO LA GRANDE SOON

Beatrice Dierke, ever whom Portland raved, will likely come to La Grande for recital this month.

If present plans, which are now under consideration, are carried into effect, La Grande will soon have the privilege of hearing Beatrice Dierke in a piano recital.

To those who perchance are unfamiliar with the work of Miss Dierke the Observer can best quote from a Portland paper, the Journal of October 15th:

Musically Portland still continues to talk about the Beatrice Dierke piano recital which took place last Sunday afternoon at Christensen's hall. That the leading musical and society people would attend and assist in making it a most brilliant success was gratifying. A novel and well contrasted grouping of composers was much appreciated by an audience used to the stereotyped, hackneyed programs.

The delicate nuances and scintillating brilliancy of the Weber "Sonata," with which the program opened, was admirably done in every respect as was the "Invitation to the Dance" (Tausig's gigantic arrangement). Six compositions of the modern Russian school formed the second group, of which the entrancing paraphrase from "Eugene Onegline," by Tschalkowsky, took the audience by storm. This is entirely new and one of the most effective things in modern piano literature. Her closing numbers, a group from Wagner's "Walkure," the "Magic Fire Music" and "Waukur-niti" aroused such an ovation that Mrs. Dierke was compelled to respond.

From start to finish this program demonstrated that there are no technical difficulties for Mrs. Dierke. There is nothing feminine about her work and she can only be compared with the masters of today. She has warmth, temperament, and keen intellect, and she brings all these into effect with consummate skill.

Such quantities of flowers as are seldom seen were showered upon the pianiste, and with each new procession of ushers bearing bouquets the applause burst out afresh in genuine satisfaction of such a testimonial.

POLITICS NOT CHURCH

mayhap have already thundered. It were a grave error to think the Ottoman government will calmly submit. This may be a dumbfounded nation, but it will not commit suicide. All Turkey, with a terrible feeling of angry desire for vengeance, brought on by the unjust aggression of which she is the victim, will rise as one man against Italy in defense of the country's honor.

"We are certain that our beloved Tripoli, whom we have left to herself in face of an enemy rendered forty or fifty times as strong by our lack of a fleet will do her duty patriotically; and that our compatriots, like lions, will shrink at no sacrifice and will shed their blood for the safety and honor of their mother-country.

"If the Italians think we will only make a pretense at defending Tripoli, and make peace after exchanging a few shots, they will see how mistaken they are. From today begins as between Ottomans and Italians a hatred measureless, inextinguishable and implacable, which will last till one or the other nation is destroyed. If anything in the world can equal this hatred it is the contempt and horror we feel toward all Italians. This fury which the Ottomans nourish while they are condemned to suffer, is not the fruit of the state of war which now commences between us and the Italians; it is that of the caged lion, powerless to defend himself against the insults and attacks of wolves. Oh, if we only had a common boundary with Italy, were it but one foot long, what a burst of vengeance would come from the anguished breast of all the Ottomans!

Dire Vengeance threatened.
 "But indeed we will take vengeance in all possible ways. On every side we will close in with the Italians. Beginning today, we will have no further dealings with them. Henceforth we do not wish to see one in our country. Henceforth not an Italian flag shall float on a ship in our waters. Henceforth not a cent of Italian wares shall be sold in the Ottoman empire. Henceforth, when they hear the mere name Italian pronounced, the hearts of Ottomans will be inflamed with rage and revenge, and from their throats will come a cry of contempt and horror. Henceforth it is with these sentiments of hatred and vengeance, that we shall train up the Ottoman infants who shall be born, and if this nation has the least self esteem, dignity and patriotism, it will avenge itself on Italy. Henceforth the Ottomans will live but for the revenge which is sure to come. Oh, then, compatriots! Calmly and energetically do your duty."
