The Farmer

more so than any other business man, requires the services of a bank, if he manages his farm in a systematic way. While he has no need for a set of books in which to keep a record of every transaction made, yet, during the course of a year he must pay large sums of money for various purposes and a record for future reference is highly important. Merchants may fail to give a receipt for cash, a neighbor may not recall the payment of money owed, but the farmer who pays his obligations by check has written evidence of such payments which a court must recognize. In the same way has a record of monies received by the depositor entries on his bank book.

To the farmer, who desires such a record for his business, we extend an invitation open an account with this bank.
