United States senate against the rati- giving, and now a man in Freeport. Scation of the Taft peace treaties is lil, threatens to send him for Christthat they are a menace to the Menroe mas a bird weighing fifty-eight doctrine. Their opponents cla., that pounds. Can you blame the man for by entering into such an agreement wanting to be re-elected? with Great Britain and France, the United States would be signing away its right of effective protest were one night by the Commercial club bring of those powers to attempt an encroachment upon the soil of the west | quite a little city.

It would take an expert in International law to determine definitely the merits of this claim. Unfortunately It will not be decided on its merits, It days. is doubtful whether the senate contains a better lawyer than William H Taft and he is urging the treaties' acceptance.

Could it be established beyond a doubt that these proposed international peace agreements did threaten the Monroe doctrine, it is safe to say that the president would find small response to his pleas for popular support. The Monroe doctrine is one o' America's few contributions to the body of international law. The nation stands behind it today as firmly as it has at any time since the doctrine was formulated.

Neither is it a mere slient protest of American citizenship against Europcan aggression in the particular field they consider theirs to protect. The United States does not tell foreign powers to keep hands off and then sit idly by and permit their self-appointed guardianship to rust from disuse.

Uncle Sam remains the guardian angel of the two Americas. It was just the other day that he sent practically his entire available land forces to the Mexican border. To invade and conquer? Far from that; his object was to protect as far as possible the interests of other nations in the land of the rebellious subjects of Diaz.

The Monroe doctrine has too many friends to make any tampering with it politically profitable. The free people of two continents stand behind it.

Twenty-eight votes decides an election all right but this twenty-sight votes also brings considerable surprise to the community. Majorities yesterday were figured considerab!v higher, all of which goes to show thet figures in politics are uncertain regardless of who makes them.
