CONVALESCENT THANKFUL

GRAPHIC DESCRIPTION OF BONE BREAKING.

L. Garrick Pictures Impressions but Above All Genuinely Thankful.

La Grande, Dec. 21.—To the Editor.—Dear Sir—This being the time of the year when people are all trying to show kindness to each other and in different ways express their thanks to the Giver of all good, etc., would you grant me a little space in your valuable paper to express my sincere thanks to the many friends who have shown me so great kindness in many different ways, during the last five months since the 25th of July when I fell with a painter's scaffold from the second story of a house in Fruitdale, and broke my thigh bone. Words fail to express my appreciation of the sympathy manifested by all who knew me, not forgetting the Observer which has been the connecting link between me and the outer world for that length of time and in return I would be pleased to let the editor of the Observer understand just how it feels to have a bone broken if it were possible to convey all the varied sensations connected therewith. First there is the fall requiring only some second of time, during which the lightning speed of the brain is manifested in unspoken questions such as "Where will I strike first?" "Is this to be the last fall?" "Will the paint when it spills splatter the side of the house?" "Will the boy be killed?" (He fell with me but was little the worse.)

Then the shock of landing and the inability of comprehending where you are hurt most. Then an unquenchable thirst take possession of you and your cry is water! water! and still more water. Say, how is it that one gets so thirsty when his bones are broken? Then the waiting for the doctor and the dread of his coming, lest he handle you roughly and add to your suffering. Then there is the lifting you onto a conveyance and pushing you into a conveyance, somewhat suggestive of the way a coffin is pushed into a hearse. Then the jolting of the carriage on the rough road and the grating of the ends of the broken bone against one another at every jolt.

After what seems an age of torment you find yourself stretched out and looking up into the face of a doctor who is in the act of covering your nose and mouth with a curious contrivance that seems to be filled with blue blazes. He tells you to breathe freely and as you close your eyes you wonder if this is the last view of all earthly scenes and then you are conscious of some one with a knife ripping open your shoes, your overalls, etc., and you imagine you are some slaughtered animal and that the butcher is cutting you up before you are quite dead. Then all is a blank, until you come back to life and open your eyes again, to find yourself stretched out on your back in a nice soft bed under one side, but under the other side there is a plank and there is a board lashed to one leg from the hip to the ankle. You are kindly informed that you must lie still and not attempt to turn over, etc. How long must I lie this way? Probably for eight weeks you are told. The only uncertainty about it is that you may not live that long.

Please try to imagine the rest, Mr. Editor, for I cannot carry you further. If any newspaper man has a desire to investigate this subject further, there is only one way to learn all about it and that is to start where I did at the top of the second story.

Before closing let me congratulate La Grande on her physicians. Men who are an honor to their profession not only for their scientific knowledge and ability, but also their christian attitude towards their patients. Through their wise treatment, and the power of the Great Healer I can now walk on crutches and hope to very soon be able to dispense with the crutches. Wishing the Observer and every other friend a very Merry Christmas and Happ New Year I am, yours truly L. GARRICK.
