CROUP ENDS LIFE.

Many Children Die of Croup Every Year Before a Doctor Can Be Summoned.

Parents of children should be prepared at all times for a spasm of croup.

Keep in the house a remedy that will give instant relief and keep the child from choking until the arrival of the physician.

Get a 50 cent bottle of HLOMEI today and in case of an attack of croup pour 20 drops into a kitchen bowl of boiling water. Hold the child's head over the bowl so that it can breathe the soothing penetrating vapor that arises. In the meantime send for a physician.

This treatment has saved the lives of many children and is a precaution that all parents should promptly take. HLOMEI is sold by the Newlin Drug company and druggists everywhere and is guaranteed for croup, catarrh, asthma and bronchitis.

POLLY OF THE CIRCUS TONIGHT

COMPANY HERE TO CARRY OUT CIRCUS-DRAMA

High Class Company Will Produce Production at Steward Tonight

It is not often that we are tempted to find fault with a producer of a play for being too generous, but that is the kind of play producer Frederic Thompson happens to be. He wants to give too much for the money. As a result of his extravagance he has made "Polly of the Circus," with pretty Ida St. Leon, a case of "Polly" and the circus. There are not many people who will object to this, however. There may be some who will agree with us that Polly is much more interesting and so much more important to the little drama of which she is a part than a hundred circuses could ever be, that the show scene should be eliminated. But probably there will be as many more who will enjoy the sight of a real lady bareback rider turning somersaults off the back of a real horse ambling patiently around the inside of a real ring and keeping time to the oom-oah horn of a real circus tune. It is not often playgoers object to being offered too much entertainment, even though the extra measures prove a clear case of assault and battery with a poor old drama as victim. "Polly of the Circus" is a pretty, appealing story of hearts of the tried and true type, until the circus happens into it, then we have a three ring circus in full operation on the stage.

Among the many features of this play, "Polly of the Circus," which will be seen at the Steward tonight are "Bingo," the celebrated thoroughbred Arabian horse; also clowns, acrobats, bareback riders, ringmasters, aerial and horizontal bars—a real circus on the stage. This is the same production that appeared at the Liberty theatre, New York City, for one solid year.

A LUCKY SHOT.

It Helped the Captain Out of an Embarrassing Situation.

In the good old days the revenue cutters carried small fitted cannon, but they were only used to fire salutes with and now and then break up a derelict. The gunners were never expected to hit anything. When they used the guns on floating wrecks the cutter would be alongside, and the master gunner would bang away until he'd smashed the wreck or used up his ammunition. No one ever thought of keeping tabs.

Captain E. P. Berthoff told a story the other day which illustrates the conditions which formerly prevailed on the "treasury fleet." When it is a matter of running down smugglers or putting an end to poaching or mapping a bad channel or destroying derelicts the cutters average 100 per cent of efficiency.

"Few gunners could hit a target," he said. "Really there was little need. They didn't use a loaded shell once in a lifetime. But now and then the board of inspectors came on board, and then every one was worried and nervous until the ordeal was over. The inspectors visited the cutter commanded by a friend of mine. He ordered out the firing squad.

"Bang" went the rifle. The projectile hit the target squarely in the center. "Cease firing," ordered the captain happily. And he turned to the inspectors, pleased as Punch. "There's no use wasting ammunition," he said. "Our gunners can do that every time."—Herbert Corey in Cincinnati Times Star.

When Rhymes Come Hard.

Matthew Arnold complained of the unmusical sound of the names of many of his countrymen. But an American is astonished by the substantial musical quality of countless English names. A list of "first year" students at one of the English colleges for women contains hardly a name that lacks euphony, and many of them, like the following, are a "treat" to the ear. Laetitia Helen Alford, Alice Senga Margaret Bryson, Ethel Muriel Meredith. But is any name quite so musical as Meredith, and has any name so ravishing a connotation? An English journalist some weeks ago set himself the task of finding a rhyme for it and produced "out-Herodeth," which was clever if not affording a perfect concord.—Detroit Free Press.

Love and a Breakfast. "John," she said to her husband, who was grumbling over his breakfast, "your love has grown cold." "No, it hasn't," he snapped, "but my breakfast has." "That's just it. If your love hadn't grown cold you wouldn't have noticed that your breakfast had."

Cheaping. In parts of Switzerland the baker's wife carries round the bread in a sort of hamper, and she has not a fixed, immutable charge, but chaffers for a price with the customers. The old English word for this process was "cheaping," which in many places in England has been corrupted into chipping. Chipping Norton, for instance, is really Cheaping Norton, or the place where goods were cheapened—that is, sold by chaffer.

Wise Exceptions. "You really believe that a man should always be truthful to his wife?" "Certainly I do, always." "And do you always tell your wife the truth about her cooking?" "Oh, well—er—there are exceptions, you know."—Houston Post.

A Fluent Talker. Whangs—Is your wife a good conversationalist? Bangs—She would be but for one thing—she talks so fluently that she interrupts herself.

Cruel. "Doesn't it annoy you to hear a woman talking slang?" "Why mention slang especially?"—Exchange
