

The Isthmian THEATRE

"SUFFER LITTLE CHILDREN"

A psychologic drama of intense interest holding the audience entranced by its beautiful story. It shows self-righteousness rebuked and severity de-throned by love.

"FOR HIS PALE'S SAKE"

A fine western love story. A scheming Spanish girl is the cause of much trouble between the pale and the true object of their love.

"DR. BILL'S PATIENT"

Essanay Cynthia is a charming young lady. Violet is a poodle dog. Dr. Bill is called to attend both of them. He brings a whole veterinary outfit to attend Cynthia. It's a scream.

Illustrated song, "When I Met You last night in dreamland," Sung by Miss Garrick and Mr. Ferrin.

Hamilton, Ga., Jan. 23.—Belle Hathaway was lynched and the body riddled with bullets, and three men—the woman's alleged accomplices in a murder—suffered a similar fate today, when a mob stormed the jail. All were negroes, who refused to confess to the murder of a farmer, Norman Hadley.

INSURANCES CENTER IN CHI.

CHICAGO SECOND ONLY TO NEW YORK.

Life Insurance Companies Make Chicago Headquarters.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—(Special) — The west has gained enormously in the total of funds of its insurance companies and Chicago has become a center in life insurance affairs second only to New York as bank clearings and other data go to show. As the largest of the western companies have invested most of their reserves in farm mortgages, the development of agriculture has been benefitted and the policy holders, where the companies were of a mutual character, have received higher dividends. The zone in which loans are considered safe gradually is widening and the interest return is consequently not declining except in specially favored district; on the whole is advancing. On the other hand the legal reserve companies investing in securities have suffered by the decline in the prices of standard bonds. They do not suffer so much as they formerly did from the much greater decline in stocks. Ever since the Armstrong legislation the investments of life insurance companies in stocks has been greatly reduced, bonds and mortgages being the preferred forms of investment now. A tabulation of the investments of the leading life insurance companies for 1910 showed that bonds made up 46 per cent of their ledger assets, with an average return of 4.34 per cent. The proportion of mortgage loans showed an increase as well as an increased return. It being 5.08 per cent in 1910, as compared with 5.02 per cent in 1909, the first year in the last decade in which the average rate was more than 5 per cent. The average return for all classes of investments for 1910 was 4.75 per cent, but the figures for 1911 will not be available for several months. Assets of the legal reserve life companies at the end of the year are estimated at $4,000,000,000 of which $3,600,000,000 are reserves carried for the fulfillment of contracts under the law and over $250,000,000 represent surplus to policy holders.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—(Special) — The $1,000,000,000 of American investments in Mexico again are increasing at a tremendous rate, according to Robert J. Kerr, a Chicago attorney who is considered an authority on Mexican law and politics. During the rebellion which ended 30 years of Diaz administration, the British bargain hunters were on hand and British investments multiplied by ten while the rate of American capital dwindled to 5 or 10 per cent of the normal. German bankers already have come over to buy properties which the war scare may have depressed in price or take up new projects of development or trade.

The stability of property and of titles are said by Mr. Kerr to be even greater in Mexico than in the United States. A new railroad through Tabasco in southern Mexico and the opening of the harbor of Frontera to shipping of the largest size has centered attention upon the Tabasco district where tropical agriculture reaches its greatest luxuriance. In early days the pirates of the Caribbean sea were found hiding in the network of channels of the Grijalva river, which river now is the artery of commerce to the fertile interior and center of interest as restored peace brings new activity in that region.

AZATURIA ABLY DISCUSSED

HORSES BECOME AFFLICTED WITH THE DISEASE EASILY.

Prevention and Treatment Outlined by W. S. C. Experts.

Washington State College, Pullman, Wash., Jan. 22.—(Special)—Azaturia comes on only after a short period of idleness when horses are kept up and fed heavily, in the winter time for instance.

When taken out to work an animal so affected is lively, but will begin to hold back after a short distance. Sometimes the animal goes lame or else "knuckles over." Breathing becomes increased and labored. The horse will sweat profusely. The muscles of the hips or other affected parts are cramped and hard to the touch. The urine is usually a dark coffee color. If the animal is urged onward, he will move stiffly and will finally fall. When once down, it is usually impossible for him to rise again on the affected parts, these generally being the hind quarters. The disease is sometimes confounded with colic, but in colic the horse is able to get up and stand and does not knuckle over and does not have the dark urine.

The animal may die in a few hours or days or it may live for weeks in a paralyzed state. Recovery may be complete within a few days or a week. Failure to improve is usually an indication of persistent paralysis and the affected muscles will begin to waste away.

If the animal is unable to rise and is uneasy and delirious, it is liable to succumb. If it remains quiet and the bowels remain loose, and the appetite is good, the horse usually recovers. The animal should be gotten to a barn if possible and given a good bed, as it is liable to go down and be unable to rise. If it goes down on the road, it should be hauled to a place of shelter, where attention may be given. If sweating profusely the stricken animal should be blanketed and rubbed dry as soon as possible.

Owing to paralysis the horse is usually unable to urinate and the urine should be drawn once or twice daily. This requires the attention of a veterinarian who then may prescribe further medicinal treatment. The animal should be turned over at least two times daily, and should be kept upon a good bed. Horses do not get along well if they lie in one position too long. Give soft feed and plenty of water, keep the animal warm and as quiet as possible.

FRENCH AND GERMAN COLORS

Supposed Origin of the Tricolor and the Teuton Flag.

For five centuries black and white have been the Hohenzollern colors, and the first verse of the German war song, "Ich bin ein Preusse," is:

I am a Prussian! Know ye not my banner?
Before me floats my flag of black and white!
My fathers died for freedom; 'twas their manner—
So say these colors floating in your sight.

The mercantile marine tricolor of black, white and red is emblematic of the joining of the Hohenzollern black and white with the red and white, which was the ensign of the Hanseatic league. This flag came into being when the North German Confederacy was established, Nov. 25, 1867, at the close of the Austro-Prussian war. The red and white represent the commercial prosperity of the nation, while the black and white symbolize the strong arm of the state prepared to protest and foster it.

Nowhere have historical events caused so much change in the standards and national ensigns of a country as in France. The oriflamme and the chape de St. Martin were succeeded at the end of the sixteenth century, when Henry III, the last of the house of Valois, came to the throne, by the white standard powdered fleur-de-lis. That in turn gave place to the famous tricolor which was introduced at the time of the revolution, but the origin of that flag and its colors is a disputed question. Some maintain that the intention was to combine in the flag the blue of the chape de St. Martin, the red of the oriflamme and the white flag of the Bourbons. By others the colors are said to be those of the city of Paris. Yet again other authorities assert that the flag is copied from the shield of the Orleans family as it appeared after Philippe Egalite had knocked off the fleur-de-lis.—Kansas City Star.

Prevention consists of the proper dieting of the horses in good condition which are idle for a few days and kept in the stable. The nitrogenous grain ration should be greatly reduced and the quantity of roughage diminished. If the horse has had one attack, he should not be left idle without some exercise, and should have a half pound of Glauber salts, and when put to work started at it slowly.

three days and will be devoted to the consideration of a number of important questions affecting Sunday school work.
