C. C. Penington leaves tonight for Albany where his aged father is critically ill. The senior Penington is 86 years of age and is very ill, according to a telegram received from friends at the bedside this morning.

Cora M. Davis, president of the National Women's Relief Corps, and her secretary, Jennie H. Higgins, will come over from their homes in Union Friday night to attend the installation of W. R. C. and G. A. R. next Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Goodbrod, wife of General Goodbrod, will probably accompany them and be guests here at the same time. At noon Saturday the G. A. R. will entertain the W. R. C. and national officials and in the afternoon a public installation will take place.

Dr. Fleenor passed through the city this morning on his way home to Joseph from Tacoma where he has been studying marble polishing. He is a member of the black marble dealers at Joseph and his company is now preparing to install sufficient machinery to handle the product. He carried with him a fine sample of the marble which is as black as coal when polished, and everywhere he discussed his project with experts he was given a great deal of encouragement. The company has a large field of the black marble.

L. E. Caviness, a councilman of Joseph is a guest today with his father, J. L. Caviness of this city.

District Attorney F. S. Ivanhoe arrived home this afternoon from Enterprise where circuit court has been in progress. Among the fines and sentences imposed by Judge Knowles on parties convicted of illicit selling are several which impose heavy fines and 30 days in the county jail.

Fruit Men Discuss Problems.

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 24.—Many prominent fruit growers met in this city today and opened the 57th annual meeting of the Western New York Horticultural society, which will last three days. The program provides for addresses by a number of noted horticultural experts from Illinois, New Jersey, Michigan and several other states.

Civil Engineers at Montreal.

Montreal, Que., Jan. 24.—Leaders of the civil engineering profession from many parts of the dominion came to Montreal today for the annual meeting of the Canadian Society of Civil Engineers. The proceedings will cover three days. The unusually large attendance combines with an attractive program of papers and discussions to give promise of one of the most successful meetings in the history of the society.

School Trustees of Alberta.

Calgary, Alta., Jan. 24.—The sixth annual convention of the association of school trustees of the province of Alberta met in this city today for a two days' session. The improvement of rural schools and school sanitation and medical inspection are the leading subjects slated for consideration. The scheduled speakers include C. W. Mitchell, the provincial minister of education, and Dr. W. C. Murray, president of the University of Saskatchewan.

New York, Jan. 24.—Joseph H. Choate, the eminent New York lawyer and former American ambassador to England, was 80 years old today and the occasion was marked by the receipt of a number of congratulatory messages from friends on both sides of the Atlantic. Mr. Choate is a native of Salem, Mass., but has been a resident of New York since shortly after his graduation from Harvard in 1852.

To Discuss Child Labor.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 24.—Many visitors arrived in Louisville today to attend the eighth annual conference of the National Child Labor committee, which will meet tomorrow for a four days' session.

RAPID AMERICANS.

An English Critic on Our Barber Shops and Rocking Chairs.

I cannot find that quickness is an American characteristic. What is mistaken for quickness is a kind of nervous fidgets, for the American is infinitely restless and nervous. It is shown in his passion for doing many things at once. The barber shop, a thing characteristically American, affords a wonderful example of this substitution of restlessness and circumstance for real rapidity and economy of time. The business man, still in his dramatic character of a locomotive pressed for time, hurries into the barber shop and extends himself in a chair, feet and hands outspread, a bootblack engaged on each boot, a manicurist on each hand and the barber himself operating on his head. But such are the seductions of the barber shop that he probably spends twenty minutes or half an hour there, as against the Englishman's four or five minutes.

It is time simply wasted, for a business point of view; that is to say, it is spent in sheer luxury. For the Americans, being among the cleanest people in the world, have a Roman sense of luxury in everything that appertains to washing and care of the body; and their lavatories and barber shops are like temples raised to some goddess of health and cleanliness. And, finally, it was America that invented that triumph in the achievement of two opposite things at once—the rocking chair. So restless is the American that even when he is resting he wants to be moving, and consequently he has achieved this infernal engine, the rocking chair, in which (when he is obliged to remain in one place for a time) he can indulge in a continuous movement which yet does not advance him an inch. He can thus be busy even while he is at rest.—Filson Young in English Review.

ANIMALS WITH HANDS.

Kangaroos Are Fond of Using Their Fore Feet in Feeding.

Kangaroos use their hands very readily to hold food in and to put it into their mouths. As their fore legs are so short that they have to browse in a stooping position, they seem pleased when able to secure a large bunch of cabbage or other vegetable provender and to hold it in their hands to eat. Sometimes the young kangaroo, looking out of its mother's pouch, catches one or two of the leaves which the old one drops, and the pair may be seen each nibbling at the salad held in their hands, one, so to speak, "one floor" above the other.

The slow, deliberate clasping and unclasping of a chameleon's feet look like the movements which the hands of a sleep walker might make were he trying to creep downstairs. The chameleon's are almost deformed hands, yet they have a superficial resemblance to the feet of parrots, which more than other birds use their feet for many of the purposes of a hand when feeding. To see many of the smaller rodents—ground squirrels, prairie dogs and marmots—hold food, usually in both paws, is to learn a lesson in the dextrous use of hands without thumbs.

Nothing more readily suggests the momentary impression that a pretty little monkey is "a man and a brother" than when he stretches out his neat little palm, fingers and thumb and, with all the movements proper to the civilized mode of greeting, insists on shaking hands.—London Graphic.

The Trustful Aviator.

"Modern politics," said an English clergyman, who is visiting this country, "is worse than modern business. You here in the States are so used to political corruption that you joke about it. I heard a joke about it on the boat coming over. An aviator—the joke ran—descended in a field and said to a rather well dressed individual: 'Here, mind my machine a minute, will you?'

"'What? the well dressed individual snarled. 'Me mind your machine? Why, I'm a United States senator!'

"'Well, what of it?' said the aviator. 'I'll trust you.'—Washington Star.

Think of It!

Two brothers, each of whom is nearly six feet and a half tall, were one day introduced by an acquaintance to a young lady. As she sat gazing up at the pair of giants in wonder and awe she exclaimed: "Great heavens, suppose there had only been one of you!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Handicapping the Burglar.

Burglaries in private houses in Vienna are rare, because the doors are locked from 10 o'clock at night to 6 in the morning by order of the police. Admission and exit between those hours are given by the house porter, who receives a fee for unlocking the door and is bound to report to the police the doings and mode of life of all the inhabitants of the house. This system of lock money is tiresome, but in Vienna, as at Naples, where it also exists, it obliges burglars and other criminals to operate during the daylight and diminishes their chances of success. The landlords tried a few years ago the system of giving the key of the house door to tenants, but the majority of the keys have been withdrawn.

Wonders of Modern Drama.

The heroine of the play had just received the telegram from her faithless lover. Then she fainted, and the curtain went down.

Loud applause followed, particularly in the gallery.

Instantly the curtain went up.

The heroine, having miraculously recovered, was on her feet, bowing and smiling.

More wonderful still, the faithless lover stood by her side, also bowing and smiling, having traveled a distance of 287 miles in ten seconds in order to be on hand to acknowledge the applause.—Chicago Tribune.

A Good Goer.

"That's a fine watch you've got there, Calhoun," said a friend. "Is it a good goer?"

"A good goer?" said Calhoun Clay. "Well, you bet your life it's a good goer. Why, it can do an hour in half the time!"—Exchange.

He Can't.

"Before you were married you said that you couldn't do enough for me." "Well, I guess that time has proved that I was right!"—Detroit Free Press.

The motto of chivalry is also the motto of wisdom—to serve all, but love only one.—Balzac.

Foley's Honey and Tar Compound

"Cures in Every Case."

Mr. Jas. McCaffery, Mgr. of the Schiltz hotel, Omaha, Neb., recommends Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, because it cures in every case. "I have tried it myself and I have recommended it to many others who have since told me of its great curative power in diseases of the throat and lungs." Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is a reliable family medicine. Give it to your children, and take it yourself when you feel a cold coming on. It checks and cures colds, coughs and croup and prevents bronchitis and pneumonia. Refuse substitutes. A. T. HILL.
