PROTECT FELON FAMILIES, AIM

Spokane, Wash., Jan. 25.—(Special)—John H. Wallace, a member of the state industrial insurance commission of Washington, announced at the annual convention of the State Federation of Labor in Spokane that a concerted effort will be made at the next session of the legislature to pass a law, designed to protect the families of men sentenced to the penitentiary. The idea is to change the present system, under which the felon works for the state to atone for his wrong doing, so that his earnings will go to the wife and children, left at home and frequently destitute and in want. The delegates expressed their approval of the plan, and, while no formal action was taken by the organization as a body, it is likely that a campaign will be launched in a short time to crystallize the idea into a measure, which will be submitted to the state legislature at its biennial session early next January.

H. L. Thomason, of Sandpoint, Ida., a delegate at the yearly meeting of the Pacific Northwest Hardware and Implement Dealers' association, interested many visitors from various parts of the Pacific slope and intermountain country in a plan to have the federal government assist in clearing logged off lands in the west. He said: "The cost of clearing cut-over timber land is high and on that account it is difficult to induce settlers and prospective homebuilders to go into the districts. The government makes large appropriations for the opening of rivers and the reclamation of lands as it should, and we who live in the timber districts think it also should give similar aid in the clearing of valuable lands now studded with stumps but adapted to the highest form of agriculture. It would benefit the entire country and provide low-priced lands for thousands now crowded in the cities."

THE POLE STAR.

Some of the Wonders of This Great Beacon of the North.

Most people, if they know nothing else of astronomy, at any rate know the pole star the one star which seems to keep its place in the heavens without movement of any kind. There are a great many, however, who do not know what a wonderful thing it is. In the first place, it can be seen when looked at through a good telescope to be two stars and not one. There is one fairly bright one, of what is known as the second magnitude, and another of the ninth magnitude close to it. But that is not all. The brighter of the two is really three stars revolving round one another, or rather round their common center of gravity, like three children playing "ring o' roses." This secret is revealed to us by what is perhaps the most astonishing of all scientific instruments, the spectroscope. It not only tells us what the stars are made of, but whether they are moving toward us or away from us.

When you stand facing the star you are always facing north. The reason that it does not appear to move as the others do is because it is nearly in line with the axis of the earth. Its distance from us is enormous. This can be judged from the fact that although the earth in its journey round the sun is today about 190,000,000 miles from where it was six months ago, that makes no appreciable difference to its distance from the pole star. It must therefore be many times 190,000,000 miles away.

The Ruling Spirit.

Sitting at a cafe in Paris one evening, I heard a woman's idea of war. An affectionate young couple were audaciously making love over some baroloise au chocolat. The girl was telling machere all manner of pretty things that ran something like this: "What a pity there will be no war after all! You would have been wounded, and I should have gone out to nurse you in such a pretty costume d'infirmerie!"—London Black and White.

Richter's Criticism.

On one occasion Hans Richter was present at a concert given by a brother composer at which the latter performed a long and not particularly interesting work of his own. When the composition came to an end Richter expressed his criticism in a very few words. "Well," he said, "I, too, had written compositions to make a pile so high," raising his hand three feet from the ground, "but I had burned them!"

To Discuss Child Labor.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 24.—Many visitors arrived in Louisville today to attend the eighth annual conference of the National Child Labor committee, which will meet tomorrow for a four days' session.

Donworth Is Silent.

Seattle, Jan. 25.—"You must appreciate my position and that I can say nothing," said Federal Judge Donworth today answering the reports circulated that he would again resign and the president would appoint Congressman Humphreys. In the event that Humphreys is nominated the Seattle Bar association may meet and formally protest against his confirmation by the senate.

Simple As 2x2

An ordinary lamp gives about as much light as a 5 watt electric globe.

It would require five ordinary kerosene lamps to furnish the same light as a 25 watt electric globe—eight for a 40 watt, etc.

It costs .00375 cents an hour to burn a 25 watt electric light—the equivalent of five kerosene lamps. Kerosene sells at 25 cents a gallon. Figure it out yourself just how much more it will cost you to produce a given volume of light with kerosene than with electricity. You will then be convinced that electricity is cheaper than any other form of illuminant. That it really does more for less cost.

We are convincing people of the advantages of electric lighting every day. Not one user in a hundred would ever be willing to go back to kerosene lamps.

There is only one conclusion to draw from this: that our service is reliable and our rates reasonable Phone Main 34 for rates.
