Society and Clubs

Nineteen hundred and twelve's first formal party given by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Steglist and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Carr, last Monday evening, at the Elks auditorium with Miss Helen Gates of Hillsboro as motif, stands as the biggest social venture in La Grande thus far this year. More than 150 were guests at dancing and the richness and beauty of gowns worn by scores of the ladies characterizes the affair as equal to the tone and eclat the annual Elks ball have established in the past. That usually avoided feature—decoration—for informal parties, was skillfully handled by the hosts and hostesses. The monotony of the floor space was broken by a dual settee "shaded" by fern trees, and two rest corners prettily arranged with rugs and fern trees made both pleasing effects to the eye and provided adequate opportunity for momentary rests. Clusters suspended from the ceiling gave evidence of taste in beautifying the overhead, and to further kind color and uniqueness were mirrored walls. Punch bowls were presided over by Miss Sarah Smith and Miss Marie Pennington. About 75 couples were present, comfortably utilizing all the floor space and arrival of midnight came all too soon to the happy guests. Nothing was left undone that might edify the guests for the evening and the orchestra, too, in entitled to its share of praise for the skillful rendition of the dancing numbers.

The hostesses and honor guest were beautifully gowned. Miss Gates wore an apricot gown of hand painted chiffon over silk. Mrs. Steglist was gowned in white embroidered crepe de chene and Mrs. Carr wore a silk gown, salmon colored. Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Thorson of Elgin, and Miss Alice Simpson of Walla Walla.

The two functions given this week in which the Neighborhood club participated included Scholarship Loan Fund day on Tuesday and the luncheon at Island City. The first named was well attended. The committee—Mrs. A. Hunter, Mrs. V. Palmer, Mrs. C. M. Lockwood, Mrs. McDonald, Mrs. Waldo Bach and Mrs. Stout report $10.20 towards the loan fund. Mrs. Oliver gave a talk on what this fund is used for and who can take advantage of it. This was appreciated by the ladies, as few had given it much study. Two of the high school girls gave readings—the rest of the afternoon was spent in conversation and listening to selections on the graphophone. The second event occurred when Mrs. Bidwell of Island City very pleasingly entertained the members of the Neighborhood club on Thursday between trains at a very elegant luncheon.

There were about 42 who were able to attend. The dining room was decorated with smilax and white carnations, the living room in red carnations and the guest rooms in violets. The ladies appreciated Mrs. Bidwell's invitations and feel greatly indebted for the splendid times they have had in Island City.

Bulwarks of society in La Grande are and should be whole-souled behind the library movement, and something tangible in a financial and social way might result if a hint were taken from Pendleton. This is what Pendleton is doing in this respect:

"Plans for the annual library ball to be given for the benefit of the Pendleton public library are now being worked out by the ladies of the library board and the affair has been set for the evening of February 13th. The Reman lodge, which has the Eagles-Woodmen hall for that evening, has kindly given way for the ladies and the big hall will be used for the purpose.

"Committees to have charge of the various features in connection with the library ball are being selected and will be announced shortly. It is the intention to make the ball one of the big social events of the season as an affair that will be thoroughly enjoyable to all. The proceeds will be used for the purchase of juvenile books for the library"—Pendleton East Oregonian.

A birthday party for Miss Gladys Bramwell in honor of her ninth birthday, was given this week. The library was prettily decorated in red and green, with jack-o'-lanterns hanging from a large Japanese parasol in the center of the room. The dining table was decorated with pink ribbon streamers and pink candles. Games were played, in which Marcella Berry was the lucky capturer of the prize. After partaking of a dainty four-course luncheon, the little guests were escorted to their homes, each pronouncing it the "best ever." Those present were: Iva Clara Love, Jean Davis, Vera Crawford, Marcella Berry, Vernice Baker, Hazel Stageberg, Edrie

Maguire, Dewey Crawford, Marie Baker, Imogene Stout and Gladys Bramwell.

Honan hall was gaily decked with pennants representing various universities throughout the land last Saturday night when the embryo University club entertained at dancing. The walls were fairly smothered under pennants new and crisp, and other touches of artistic hands were visible everywhere making the hall extremely pretty. Wilson's orchestra supplied the music for the dancers and the evening was greatly enjoyed by those present. Punch was served by the hosts of the evening and everything that could be done to entertain was looked after in a painstaking and artistic manner.
