Time was when electric lights were regarded as a luxury for the rich and the well-to-do.

The first electric lights, while a luxury and far superior to any lights then known, were very crude compared to the modern electric lights.

Wonderful progress has been made in electric lighting within the past five years—new inventions and discoveries have not only emphasized its great superiority, but have vastly increased uses and actually reduced its cost.

Rates are now so reasonable that no one need hesitate at the cost end, once you have used electricity, you will never be satisfied with anything else. For rates and information, phone Main 34.
