CONFERENCE CALLED BEST

METHODIST CHURCH, SOUTH, HAS IMPORTANT MEETINGS.

Five Conversions—Extension Work Is Planned—Delegates Return.

Splendid success was attained in every feature of the district conference of the Methodist church, South, which came to a close last evening in this city. The north side chapel has been filled with delegates and church members since Friday morning and the last day was even greater than the previous ones. Bishop R. G. Waterhouse of Los Angeles preached yesterday morning. In the afternoon a rousing children's meeting was held and in the evening Dr. Crutchfield of Columbia college lectured.

Five conversions and additions to the church were effected during the conference, which, in the opinion of the visiting ministers and laymen, was the most important in the church's history in many years. The delegates were many and active workers in the church, all of which resulted in the greatest good being done.

Considerable extension work was tentatively planned and committees are now working out the best procedures to be followed, having for the chief aim the betterment of church conditions on the north side where the Methodist chapel is the only church structure.

The delegates returned to their homes this morning greatly pleased with the success of the local conference.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Has It Ever Occurred to You?

A pretty hand was placed in mine. As I fondled it and grasped it tightly for fear it would get away a new world seemed to open before me.

Oh, how my heart was beating! My blood seemed leaping through my veins, and I knew that the color came and went in my face. All was quiet for a moment, words for the time seeming unnecessary.

Again I looked at that little hand, that pretty hand. It did not move and seemed to be resting quietly and lovingly in my own. I tried to speak, but couldn't. The room seemed to be whirling around, and, although I was extremely happy, my lips were dry and no word was uttered.

At last I tenderly laid it down, confident that I had won. But, alas, it was not to be! That pretty hand really meant my downfall.

"Four kings here," said a voice from across the table, and instantly I realized my great loss. As he reached for the stacks of chips in the middle of the table I saw that pretty hand—that lovely mitt which had rested for a moment in my own—swept into the discard. Four queens had met their fate. —Spokane Spokesman-Review.

Force of Habit.

The Rev. Allen Fort, pastor of the Baptist tabernacle in Chattanooga, asked J. B. Capeheart, a railroad conductor, to take up the collection one day. It was Mr. Capeheart's first experience as a taker of collections in a church.

He started down the center aisle. There were several children in the first pew, and each put in a penny. The people in the next pew also contributed something each. A big, glum fellow sat alone in the third pew. Capeheart passed him the plate. The man shook his head and stuck his hands deep in his pockets.

Capeheart stopped, put up his hand as if to jerk the bell cord and said, "Well, you'll have to get off."—Saturday Evening Post.

Anxiety of Noah.

It was the first day out, and Noah was standing on the upper deck nervously sweeping the vast expanse of the waters with his eye.

"Smatter, pop?" said Shem, leaning against the rail beside his father. "Anything gone wrong?"

"I don't know," said the old gentleman. "But if the wind continues to blow in this direction I'm afraid we'll land somewhere in the United States, and if that happens the duty on this menagerie of ours will bust me."

Whereupon, ringing for the library steward, the skipper called for a copy of the latest tariff schedule and spent the remainder of the morning in an anxious perusal of the same.—Lippincott's.
