AN ANSWER FROM THE BLUE MT. CREAMERY CO.

We wish to call the attention of the public to an article in the Observer of the 5th inst. from the Valley creamery, in which they say that "other local creameries are underselling them in order to get a temporary advantage with the local dealers while they are striving to encourage dairymen to help build up the dairy interests by paying the highest possible price for cream."

Before the coming of the Valley Creamery to La Grande there was some advantage to the dealers by having a creamery here, but things have changed. Mr. Emigh began by charging the local grocer one cent more than he did the man who lived at Hillgard, Kameia, and other towns along the line, and at the same time paid no more for butterfat than we did, as based on the Portland market.

Not satisfied with this, they presented the dealer who was fortunate enough not to live in La Grande, with another cut of a cent a pound, thus charging the unfortunate grocer who lives in a creamery town two cents more than the one who doesn't. Then they have the audacity to say that other local creameries are underselling them in order to get a temporary advantage with the retail dealers.

"Consistency, thou art a jewel." In a circular letter issued about the time of our County Fair last fall Mr. Emigh said, "before we located here, local creameries fixed their price of butterfat by the Portland market, while now the price is fixed at Walla Walla."

He also said, "Butter fat has been very low in the Portland markets this summer and we believe that we, by fixing the price of butter fat and forcing others to follow, have saved the dairymen of these counties, hundreds of dollars."

We wish to say to the dairymen that the price of butter fat since the Valley creamery came here, has never been above the Portland butter market.

Furthermore, all the drops in the price of butter, and consequently butterfat, have been first made by the Valley Creamery. They advertise the advances but they have not always made them. (First.)

About the 23rd of January, when the Portland quotation was 33c, the Valley creamery dropped the price 2c, making it 35c a pound here. February 1st, they dropped to 33c, on which date the Portland quotation was 37c. See Oregon Journal.

Last winter we based on Portland and the farmers got the price.

This winter you are told that the price is fixed at Walla Walla, and it has been as much as 4c under Portland.

About February 19th, Mr. Emigh advanced the price of butter from 33 to 35 cents, locally, and two days later, the 21st, he mailed cards to our out of town trade, quoting 31c for butter, and dropped the price to 33c again here.

Now on a falling market he advances the price to 35 cents and because we do not see the justice in it and make the advance also, he accuses us of underselling them to get a temporary advantage.

When Mr. Emigh started his creamery here, he came to us to get our prices on ice cream, and to see if we could agree on butter prices.

We could not see the justice in charging our local grocers a cent more than we did out of town dealers so no agreement was reached.

We gave him our ice cream prices with the understanding that he would stay with us, not as a holdup game, but to avoid unnecessary friction. This ran along all right for some time. Then presumably because he did not consider he was getting his share of the trade, he cut the price (on the quiet) and offered to sell in two or more gallon lots delivered to any part of the town for the same price that he sold to the retailer who bought, say five or 10 gallons a day.

This is no hearsay, but an answer to an inquiry given over the phone to a lady who phoned from our office. (One.)

Another call from Mr. Emigh resulted in an understanding as to the price of butter.

This seemed to be all right until the butter market advanced two cents, when he advanced two cents here and one cent out of town. (Another.)

Mr. Emigh also asked our custom of handling out of town cream, or rather cream received by express. This is especially true of Summerville cream which comes part way by stage and part by train.

We told him, with the assurance that he would use the same method, that we pay the Summerville people the same price as we do those who haul their cream here, and deduct the transportation charges. Sometime in fall we were in Summerville and found that Mr. Emigh had agreed to pay the transportation to the railroad. (Another.)

We have in our possession some facts that will go these one better if our competitor wishes to draw them out.

In spite of our competition we made 28,593 pounds more butter in 1911 than in 1910, before his arrival.

Furthermore, last July was the biggest ice cream month in the history of this creamery.

These are cold facts, not hot air.

Permit Us to Call Your Attention to Our New Method of Ironing

We have recently discarded the old method of mangleing, and installed the Asher System of flat work ironing at an expense of nearly three thousand dollars.

By the use of this machine fine bed, table and other linen is ironed WITHOUT FRICTION and consequently WITHOUT WEAR. There are no string marks on the reverse side, a defect so noticeable as well as highly injurious which is prevalent in other methods.

The fabrics are virtually PRESSED, not CRUSHED, and the superiority of this form of ironing is so plain that many of our patrons noticed the improvement at once.

If you have not done so please observe the ironing now being done by us on your napkins, table cloth, counterpanes and other flat work. We think that it will not only cause you to feel a greater satisfaction in our work, but that it will also induce you to recommend it to your friends.

We have always been the first to apply "New Methods" to our business and in securing the Asher Ironer we feel that we have made a big forward stride. You are cordially invited to call any afternoon and see this machine in operation.

Yours Sincerely,

Cherry's New Laundry

We have the proof and can produce it. The foregoing figures show conclusively that you have not received more for your butterfat since the coming of the Valley creamery.

We have built up the creamery business here and feel that we are entitled to our support.

We wish to thank our patrons for your loyalty in the past and trust that we may have your continued support. You can readily see that our local stores take but a small part of our output, so that the local price of butter really has but little to do with the price of butterfat, or rather with our ability to pay a good price for butterfat.

The bulk of the butter is sold out-
