OUR MOST HYBRID WORD.

"Remacadamizing" Can Boast of Having Five Language Parents.

The most hybrid word in the English language, according to Professor A. F. Chamberlain of Clarke university, writing in the Popular Science Monthly, is "remacadamizing." Professor Clarke points out that this word is derived from five languages—Latin, Gaelic, Hebrew, Greek and English. He resolves it into its factors as follows.

First.—Re, a Latin prefix, signifying a repetition or doing over again.

Second.—Mac, a Gaelic word for son, in common use as a prefix for genealogical purposes.

Third.—Adam, the representative in many European languages of the Hebrew name of the first man, according to the Mosale account of the creation as given in the book of Genesis.

Fourth.—Iz (or Ize), the modern English representative, through the French, of the Greek verbal terminal Izein.

Fifth.—Ing, the English suffix of the participle present, verbal noun, etc.

The root of this word, "macadam," illustrates in another way the vitality of our English speech and its ability to draw new words into its vocabulary whenever the need arises. The term "macadam" is really the family name of the man, John Macadam, who in 1819 devised the now common method of paving roads with small broken stones, etc. Celtic and Semitic had already combined to produce macadam, meaning "son of Adam," which the English language then took up and further molded to suit its genius.

There are many such hybrids, but this is probably the worst.

NOT A FAMILY QUARREL.

It Was Simply a Clever Ruse of a Daring Parisian Thief.

A traveler remarks that the Parisian swindler is the subtlest and the most indomitable one in the world. He was one day strolling through a fashionable French shop.

A woman entered and proceeded to purchase a costly set of silver dishes, and meanwhile a well dressed man lingered at the doorway as though waiting for her.

The woman, her purchase concluded, counted a number of bank notes and advanced to the cashier's desk holding them in her hand. Then of a sudden the man rushed upon her.

"You wretch!" he exclaimed. "Didn't I tell you that you shouldn't have those dishes?" And he slapped her upon the cheek, tore the bank notes from her hand and stalked indignantly out of the shop.

The woman fainted. It was ten minutes before she was brought to, and meanwhile those in the shop, believing that a family quarrel was in progress, did nothing. On her recovery the manager of the place said regretfully:

"We are sorry, madam, for this occurrence. Your husband?"

"My husband? That was not my husband," the woman cried. "He is a thief!"

She had never seen the man before.—Exchange.

Violent For Mourning.

It was not by accident that violet was chosen by many nations as the exclusive color for mourning and by us also for half mourning. Painters suffering from hysteria and neurasthenia will be inclined to cover their pictures uniformly with the color most in accordance with their condition of lassitude and exhaustion. Thus originate the violet pictures of Manet and his school, which spring from no actually observable aspect of nature, but from a subjective view due to conditions of the nerves. When the entire surface of walls in salons and art exhibitions of the day appears veiled in uniform half mourning this predilection for violet is simply an expression of the nervous debility of the painter.—Nordau's "Degeneration."

Dickens' Humanness.

The best part of Charles Dickens, the great novelist, was the humanness of him, coming out in the tender pathos with which he streaked the funny side of life. Primarily a humorist, he was, like many another humorist, a humanist too. Dickens came out of that lower London life, one-third grotesque, one-third pitiful, one-third heroic, which he pictured in his writings. He had lived the struggles of Oliver Twist, of David Copperfield and of Phillip in "Great Expectations." That was the reason why he was able to lay hold of people's hearts when he described those deathless persons.—New York Mail.

Tit For Tat.

Mrs. Jenkins was standing before the mirror arranging her thin hair when her baldheaded husband entered the room.

"Say, Emily," he began, "why don't you do your hair the way you used to?"

"Why don't you?" reported Mrs. Jenkins.—Lippincott's.

Unconsciousness.

"She's the most unconscious girl I ever saw."

"Well, why shouldn't she be? She's pretty and knows it. She's clever and knows it, and she's good and knows it. What has she to be conscious of?"—Exchange.

ANSWERS THE CALL

La Grande People Have Found That This Is True.

A cold, a strain, a sudden wrench. A little cause may hurt the kidneys. Spells of backache often follow. Or some irregularity of the urine.

A splendid remedy for such attacks, Amedicine that has cured thousands is Doan's Kidney Pills.

Thousands of people rely upon it. Here is one case:

Mrs. Joseph Eustace, 2703 Fourth St., Baker City, Oregon, says: "We have used Doan's Kidney Pills in our family off and on for the past several years and have found them unequalled for the cure of kidney complaint. Doan's Kidney Pills did me more good than all the doctor's medicine and other remedies that had previously been tried, bringing prompt and lasting relief from backache and other distressing symptoms of kidney complaint."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Friendly Suggestion.

Summons.

In the circuit court of the state of Oregon for Union county.

John L. Barker, plaintiff, vs. Ethel Barker, defendant.

To Ethel Barker, the above named defendant: In the name of the state of Oregon, you are hereby required to appear and answer the plaintiff's complaint, filed against you, in the above entitled suit on or before six weeks from the date of the first publication of this summons, to wit: from the 12th day of April, 1912, and in case you fail to so appear and answer, the plaintiff, for want thereof, will apply to the court for the relief prayed for in his complaint, to wit: for the dissolution of the bonds of matrimony, existing between the plaintiff and the defendant.

This summons is published by order of the Honorable J. W. Knowles, circuit judge of the circuit court of the state of Oregon for Union county, which order is dated on the 8th day of April, 1912, and requires this summons to be published, at least once a week for six weeks in the La Grande Evening Observer a newspaper of general circulation and published in the city of La Grande, in Union county, Oregon, the first publication thereof to be in the issue of April 12th, 1912, and the last publication to be in the issue of May 24, 1912.
