Minnesota Has Curiosity

Washington, May 25.—Minnesota possesses one of the rarest geologic curiosities in the world. This state has at least one stream that flows two ways. In northern Minnesota there is an area of land so flat that its waters sometimes flow into the Hudson bay, and sometimes flow into the Gulf of Mexico. Somewhere on this flat area is the exact watershed between the great bay to the north of this continent and the great gulf to the south, but it has never been exactly located. Teh headwaters of the Mississippi river are located in this area. There is a continuous waterway from Hudson bay to the Gulf of Mexico. The waterway divides North America into two continents not joined by land at any point. An investigation of the water supply of the rivers that cross the international boundary line has just been completed by the geological survey.

OUR NAVY'S FLAGS

Each Vessel Carries Nearly a Ton of Bunting.

EMBLEMS OF ALL NATIONS.

Some of the Designs Are Quite Expensive, and, as a Rule, the Smaller the Nation the More Costly Its Banner. Uncle Sam's Flag Emporium.

On every vessel of the United States navy, from the monster battleship to the tiniest tug, is stowed away nearly a ton of flags, which go to make up the number each vessel is required to carry for use on different occasions. About half of this vast pile of flags consists of emblems of foreign nations. The making of the flag equipment for the navy costs more than $60,000 a year. Each ship carries forty-three foreign flags, which are thirteen feet wide by twenty-five feet long.

As a ship's quota of flags is renewed every three years it is no small undertaking to keep them replenished, and to this end Uncle Sam keeps a large flag-making establishment running at full time the year around at the Brooklyn yard. Employed there are some hundred skilled needlewomen working, cutting the different colored bunting into the required widths and sewing them together. Making the United States flag is not a difficult job, but the making of some of the foreign emblems is quite a different matter, and this is what most of the work at the flag establishment consists of.

Take, for example, the flag of San Salvador. In the background there is a belching volcano pouring forth its lava and white smoke. On the sides of the mountain is the green foliage and shrubbery, while directly in the foreground is a tranquil sea of sapphire blue. Above the volcano is a rising sun set in a design of overflowing cornucopias and a diamond from which the rays are scintillating in every direction. To the left and right of the belching mountain are draped in varied designs banners which bear a similarity to the stars and stripes.

Around the whole concentration is a wreath of cactus branches lovingly wrought by the volcano, while at the base of the country's independence is inscribed. To make a flag of this description costs the government $22.50, and when one of these flags is placed on a ship, it is readily seen that three years can be readily seen that the insignificant little republic to the south of us is really costing the taxpayers of the country more than has ever been thought of.

The flag of Costa Rica, with its scenic beauty of mountains and sea, is another extravagant emblem, costing something like $50 to complete. So it seems that the smaller the nation the more costly its flag.

The largest flag made by the United States is the Ensign No. 1, which measures thirty-six feet long and nineteen feet wide. The cost of this monster is $40 or thereabouts.

The president's flag, while not the largest by any means, takes longest to make, requiring the labor of one person for a month to complete it. It is of simple design, being a blue field with the coat of arms of the United States in the center. The life sized eagle with outstretched wings and other emblems are all hand embroidered and involve the most patient work. The embroidery silk used on this flag, which is fourteen by ten feet, costs $9 a pound.

Uncle Sam's flag emporium is in charge of the flagmaster, whose business, among other things, is to test all the bunting bought by the establishment. One day a sample lot of bunting is soaked and washed in soap and fresh water, the next day the same process is followed with salt water. It is then exposed to the weather for ten days, thirty hours of which time must be in the sunlight. This is termed the color and fading test. Another test is always made for the tensile strength. A strip of the warp two inches wide is placed in a machine and must stand a pulling strain of sixty-five pounds, while two inches of the filling must stand a forty-five pound strain.

All over the floor of the workshop are arranged chalk lines and metal markers by the aid of which the flags are cut out. Large stripes and certain designs can be more conveniently stitched this way. The sewing is done by women on machines run by electric motors.

It is an interesting sight to see the big machine at work cutting out stars for the United States flags. It is the only machine of its kind in this country. It consists of a plunger fitted with steel knives the size of the star wanted, and with a single downward stroke it lays on a table 100 stars. There are eight different sizes of stars used for the different flags, and of course the machine is provided with the eight different dies for the purpose. Until recent years these stars were cut out by hand, which was a long and tedious task, but now a day's work of the machine will supply stars for a week's work on flags.—Harper's Weekly.

S.S.S. DRIVES OUT RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is due to an excess of uric acid, an irritating, inflammatory accumulation, which gets into the circulation because of weak kidneys, constipation, indigestion, and other physical irregularities which are usually considered of no importance. Nothing applied externally can ever reach the seat of this trouble; the most such treatment can do is soothe one pain temporarily; while potash and other mineral medicines really add to the acidity of the blood, and this fluid therefore continually grows more acid and vitiated. Then instead of nourishing the different muscles and joints, keeping them in a normally supple and elastic condition, it gradually hardens and stiffens them by drying up the natural oils and fluids. Rheumatism can never be cured until the blood is purified. S. S. S. thoroughly cleanses and renovates the circulation by neutralizing the acids and driving the cause from the system. It strengthens and invigorates the blood so that instead of a sour, weak stream, depositing acid and painful corrosive matter in the muscles, joints and bones, it nourishes the entire body with pure, rich blood and permanently cures Rheumatism. S. S. S. contains no potash, alkali or other harmful mineral, but is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks of great purifying and tonic properties. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free to all who write.
