THE PHONOGRAPH.

Its Invention Was the Result of a Cut on the Finger.

An accident—a cut on the finger—caused Edison to invent the phonograph or talking machine. Mr. Edison told the story of this invention to a reporter. At the time he said, he was singing into a telephone and in the telephone's mouthpiece, he had placed, for safe keeping, a fine steel point. Suddenly this point cut his finger. He found, to his surprise, and roundsabout, guided by the vibrations of his voice.

He placed a strip of yellow paper under the steel point, and the mouthpiece point, replaced it in the steel while he spoke over the paper, and for each letter of the alphabet it made a different mark or scratch.

This was what Mr. Edison had hoped for. He now held the steel point still and drew the paper scratches slowly over it. There was given forth, very faintly, the alphabet as he had repeated it.

Thus the principle of the phonograph—the registering and the reproduction of the voice's vibrations—was discovered through the cutting of a finger. It was Edison's finger, though, that was cut, Smith's or Brown's might have been quite hacked off and no phonograph would have resulted.

ARTIFICE OF AN ARTIST.

The late Mr. Horsley, R. A., has recorded that at one time he studied almost daily one of Turner's finest water colors, called "The Snowdon Range," admiring especially the tender warmth of the light clouds encircling the moon. He tried all sorts of glasses to see if he could discover how the particular glow was gained, but without success.

Chance revealed the secret. The picture began to buckle from its mount, and its owner, Sir Seymour Haden, put it into the hands of a noted expert to be remounted. When he had successfully removed it from its old mount the expert sent for the owner to show him what he had discovered. A circle of orange vermilion had been plastered on the back with an ivory palette knife where the artist wanted the effect and then worked off sufficiently far through the pores of the previously wetted paper to give the show of color, while retaining the smooth surface, without a trace of workmanship on the right side. This may have led Mr. Horsley himself to use, as he did, brilliant orange as the foundation for a white mustin dress.

Walking Canes.

From the time when man wandered through the pathless forests leaning on his shoulder a murderous tomahawk with which to strike down his enemies the cane has never entirely gone out of fashion. The modern exquisite would feel as much at sea without it as did the dean of whom Steele's father spoke in 1709, when it said that the cane had "become as indispensable as any other of his nubs" and that with "the knocking of it upon his shoe, leaning one leg upon it or whistling upon with his mouth he does not know how he should be good company without it." It may be flattering to the vanity of such a one to know that the grotesque and arabesque heads that he delights in displaying on his walking stick are lineal descendants of the carved baton that the fools and jesters of the middle ages wielded.

A Cheerful Reason.

A French governor of the south Pacific colony of New Caledonia assumed his authority while the natives of New Caledonia were still cannibals. There had been rumors of an insurrection, and the admiral called before him a native chief, who was faithful to the French cause, and questioned him as to their truth. "You may be sure," said the native, "that there will be no war at present, because the yams are yet far from being ripe." "The yams, you say?" "Yes. Our people never make war except when the yams are ripe." "Why is that?" "Because baked yams go so very well with the captives."

Belgium Marriages.

In Belgium it is the custom to give certificates of marriages in the form of little books, which also contain a summary of the marriage laws and among a mass of other miscellaneous information directions for the feeding and care of infants. There are also places for entering the names and birthdays of the children of the marriage, the authorities considerably affording space for twelve such entries.

Explained.

"I hear that Miss Grumby is a wonderfully correct person." "That's because of her occupation. She is a dressmaker's designer." "What has that to do with it?" "It makes her naturally lead a pattern life."—Baltimore American.

It would be tough luck for the St. Louis fans to have two teams in the cellar at the same time, so it is up to Roger Bresnahan to keep his Cardinals hanging on the ladder.
 They amay say that Eddie Plank is going back, but when the veteran pitcher of the Athletics can win eight out of nine games as he has done this season, mere "saying" doesn't count for much.
