"101 BISON HEADLINER"

"The Post Telegrapher," Displayed in Two Reels.

This cyclonic presentation of war, with tremendously sensational scenes, will be at Sherry's Friday and Saturday.

A detachment of cavalry is caught in the Indians' "circle of death" and, fighting to the last gasp, all are exterminated. "The Post Telegrapher," left for dead in the running fight, revives and drags himself to the telegraph wire, which he taps and sends a plea for help to the fort. Thrilling scenes are shown as the hordes of Indians batter down the stockade and endeavor to destroy the whites before the return of the troops who are rushing back at breakneck speed. The final battle is ended by a sensational hand to hand conflict and a whirlwind cavalry charge. To see this picture you will become a Bison fan and booster.

ORIGINAL GOOD ROADS MOVEMENT.

(Kansas City Star.)

When Caesar took an eastward ride,
And grabbed the Gauls for Rome.
What was the first thing that he did
To make them feel at home?
Did he increase the people's loads
and liberty forbid?
No, he dug in and built good roads—
That's what old Caesar did.

Did Caesar put the iron heel
Upon the foeman's breast?
Or did he try to make them feel
That Roman rule was best?
What did he do to make them glad
He'd come their midst amid?
He built good roads in place of bad—
That's what old Caesar did.

He built good roads from hill to hill,
Good roads from vale to vale;
He ran a good roads movement
Till old Rome got all the kale.
He told the folks to buy at home,
Built roads their hills amid;
Until all roads led straight to Rome—
That's what old Caesar did.

If any town would make that town
The center of the map,
Where folks would come and settle down,
And live in plenty's lap;
If any town its own abodes
Of poverty would rid;
Let them get out and build good roads
Just like old Caesar did.

ties, all of these will be well on the road to settlement if the labor question were satisfactorily settled. Every individual in America is affected by this question. It matters not whether he or she is a member of a trade or labor union or not, if he is a wage earner he is directly affected, if he is a capitalist he is likewise affected, if he is one of the great class of producers, he is also directly interested. In short it affects practically every individual in our broad country and most of them directly and would be interested in Mitchell.

Many people do not know anything about the labor problem from an economic standpoint. Many do not understand the relation of the unions toward either the wage earner or the employer. Many do not care about the merits of either side of the question and still more are frankly opposed to trades or labor unions.

John Mitchell is one of the great leaders of the movement known as labor unions. He was the director of one of the most bitterly conducted and long drawn out strikes ever known. He fought the battle, and at the completion of this titanic struggle won the praise of both of the contenders and also of the public.

This man, who has known more power than the rulers of many countries, is to deliver what should be the most important address ever given in this city. There are hundreds of organized men in the city of La Grande who should be delighted to honor one of their ranks who has risen to such prominence, and hundreds of others who will want to listen to a reasonable, logical convincing speaker upon one of the most personal questions that they will ever meet.

Mr. Mitchell is not an agitator, neither is he an anarchist nor an I. W. W., but he is one of the most dignified and convincing speakers, and any person expecting to hear irrational doctrine advanced from the platform is doomed to disappointment.

Be sure to hear John Mitchell if you will be able to hear but one attraction of the entire session.

The Evening Courier of Waterloo, Iowa, says:

"Every person that heard John Mitchell speak at chautauqua park came away satisfied that he had heard an earnest, forceful man tell an interesting story in a plain, homely manner that had a charm of its own. John Mitchel made many friends in Waterloo yesterday. Over 4,000 people listened to his lecture last night, and he was, as expected one of the best drawing cards on the chautauqua program"
