MOTHER AND BABE FOUND

DILIGENT SEARCH THIS AFTERNOON FOR OTHERS.

Death of Mother and Three Children Friday a Disaster.

Baker City, Ore., Aug. 5.—(Special)—At 2:30 p. m. there has been no further developments in the search for the two unfound child children that were drowned in Burnt river Friday evening. The O. W. R. & N. have a steam shovel removing the debris from the river channel near where the bodies are thought to be lodged. It is expected that they will soon be located. The body found last night was the youngest child of the family, aged 7 years.

The bodies of Mrs. John Powell and one of the three children, who, with their home, were carried away by a waterspout and drowned in Burnt river about nine miles from Huntington last Friday evening, have been found by searching parties which started out early Saturday morning. So far the other two children have not been found.

Mrs. Powell was found in the river near the round house at Huntington about ten miles from the scene of the disaster. The body was considerably bruised. One of the children was found in Burnt river about a mile below where the home was washed away. At noon today no word has been received, concerning the other two children.

A prospector is reported missing, but nothing certain is known about his whereabouts. His camp has been found but there were no signs of him since the cloudburst.

The railroads did some lightning work and hurried several train loads of workmen to the scene of the wash-outs and land slides. A fly track was laid over the rock that covered the regular track and other repairs were made as rapidly as were possible. It will take the remainder of this week to restore everything to its normal condition.

It was rumored in La Grande last evening that the father and mother of Mrs. James E. Bradley were drowned in the waterspout at Huntington. This was disproven last night. Mrs. Bradley's parents live about a mile from the Powells but were not caught in the flood.

WIZARD KNOWS DECORATIONS

C. D. STODDARD AN ENCYCLOPEDIA ON HOMES.

Master of His Business Will Aid the Housewives in Decorating Homes.

Last words and hints about home decorations is brought to La Grande from the big metropolises of the world today by C. D. Stoddard who is at the Henry & Carr furniture store with a trunkful and a brainful of free advice for furnishing homes. Mr. and Mrs. La Grande who desires assistance in arranging the home, either a new or a prospective home, or even an old home, has but to make an appointment at the store with Mr. Stoddard and they will have more hints dealt out to them about how to hang tapestries, what blending of colors to make, where and how to arrange the curtains, where to place the rugs, where to hang pictures, what shade of paper to use, in fact, every little detail that is "just right" in the fashionable mansions of the great cities is at the finger ends of this savant of house decorations. To the Observer today Mr. Stoddard displayed his line of rugs at the Henry & Carr establishment.

This genial artist knows the business from A to Ezzard and he has a way of making the novice see the many intricate points of taste and nicety in the same light in a jiffy. He will go to La Grande homes on request and point out the very best arrangement of the interior decorations.

Not only has Mr. Stoddard with him a storehouse of knowledge about decorating a home but he is showing a line of goods—rugs, tapestries, curtains, and so on down the line—that are perfect and never, no doubt, has La Grande had so much decoration "knowhow" and so many elegant designs of rugs and tapestries within its gates as today.

NOTED SPEAKER HERE AUG. 13

MRS. ATKINS, NATIONAL LECTURER OF W. C. T. U. TO SPEAK.

Will Lecture on Either Prohibition or Equal Suffrage Next Week

Below is a letter of endorsement sent out by the state office of the W. C. T. U. highly praising Mrs. Florence Atkins, who will speak in the Baptist church of this city on August 13th:

"We are sending Mrs. Florence Ewell Atkins of Nashville, Tenn., a national lecturer of the W. C. T. U. and ranking first among that body as a speaker, to your place to speak.

Mrs. Atkins was our speaker at the chautauquas of western Oregon and no speaker on the several programs won higher praise from the general public than she, both for her personal charm and manner and the eloquence of her address. Most of her hearers consider her the equal of any speaker either man or woman on the platform this year. Those who heard Mrs. Arno in 1910, who was considered the very best speaker in our prohibition campaign of 1910, say Mrs. Atkins is fully her equal. She will speak either upon suffrage or prohibition and is equally at home in either. If good audiences can be secured in your place, for this brilliant young orator, she is sure to make a large increase in sentiment for both prohibition and suffrage."

KAMELA HAS SIDING ISSUE

STATE RAILROAD COMMISSION VISITS SUMMIT.

Union Central Rebuilding to Be Completed Later on in the Week.

Side track facilities for loading wood at Kamela are being investigated by the state railroad commission headed by Clyde B. Atchison today. The commission, less Thomas K. Campbell, who arrived on No. 17, were in the city last night and went to Kamela on the forenoon train. The wood handlers and shippers at Kamela have made complaint of facilities furnished by the O-W. and the commission will hear evidence in the case.

After going to Athena the commission will probably go back to Union to inspect the rebuilding of the Union Central.

Atchison to Mazama. On the 12th of this month, Mr. Atchison and a party of people will climb Eagle Cap near Joseph and he is looking forward to that journey with a great deal of interest.

MEXICO NOT SAFE DISTRICT

LA GRANDE RAILROADER IS HOME FROM TUCSON

Men With Business Safe but Idlers Meet up With Grief in Mexico.

"No Mexico for mine" is the way Charles Harrison, a former brakeman out of here sizes up the rebel situation along the border, and he bases his findings on an extended service with the Espee out of Tucson, Ariz., where he, Ed Winkler and Jim Mytenger, all former La Grande railroaders, are now employed. Mr. Harrison is home for a short vacation. Winkler and Mytenger are prosperous in their southern climes.

"The peons are fighting without knowing the cause for fighting," said Mr. Harrison today. "But they make it dangerous and the only way we will go over the border line is on railroad service. To wander over to see the sights is dangerous—it very often means being grabbed up and thrown in dirty cells with little or no chance of getting out. It is a serious situation and we American try awfully hard to keep out of harm's way."

PORTLAND SINGERS JOURNEY.

Foyer Opera Company To Dedicate the New Elgin Hall.

A party of nearly 30 composing the Foyer Opera company, of Portland, passed through La Grande this morning en route to Elgin and Wallowa county where they will give several entertainments and enjoy a couple of weeks' outing. The company is composed largely of the members of the church choirs of Portland and are under the able direction of Prof. Foyer, leader of the Trinity choir of that city.

This evening they will formally dedicate the municipal opera house in Elgin by rendering the operetta, "The Chimes of Normandy." This is the only municipal opera house in this section of the state. It is built in connection with the regular offices of the city hall and affords the public a gathering place.

C. H. Savage, a former resident of La Grande, is among the singers. Several years ago Mr. Savage was a member of the Episcopal choir in this city.

The company will give several entertainments in Wallowa county and will spend a week or more at Wallowa Lake. One week from next Friday the entire party will endeavor to climb to the snow capped peaks of the hills at the head of the lake.

CONVENTION IN SESSION

be non-sectional and that its strength will be as great in the south as in the north. Every seat in the coliseum was occupied when Temporary Chairman Beveridge, former United States senator from Indiana, garbed in a sack suit, delivered the keynote speech of the convention. Every inch of space on the main floor was filled and the audience was enthusiastic. Delegates as well as visitors made it plain they came to cheer and not even the slightest pretext for making noise was overlooked.

THINGS OF INTEREST.

A new French automobile alarm consists of a pair of bells rung by a propeller whirled by its resistance to the air through which it passes. Although Spain has more than forty-one hundred square miles of coal fields, it imports more than $10,000,000 worth of fuel a year. Troussers can be neatly creased with out removal from their wearer by iron that have been invented by a Wisconsin man.
