LOCAL LEAGUE DRAW PRAISE

LEAGUE CIRCUIT DOFFS HAT TO TRAILERS.
Sportsmanship Represented in La Grande Held to Be Exemplar.

All around the circuit of the Western Tri-State league, La Grande is coming to be known as the dead game village—a place where baseball fans are loyal to the core and stay loyal. Sporting writers here and there have long raved about the loyalty of the La Grande business men who put up the coin for the Pippins and here is an example:

(From Walla Walla Union.)
With utterly no hopes of winning the pennant, and losing financially in their home city and drawing the smallest crowds of any on the road, the real true baseball man back of the Pippins are surely made of the sturdiest kind of stuff.

To begin with La Grande had trouble in continuing itself that the town needed a baseball team. Next the securing of grounds was a hill of expense not anticipated. Hard lines followed with players and in time the team was hopelessly left in the bottom position.

It evidently takes something more than this to daunt those mere handful of real true fans in the Oregon town, though every trip means financial loss, they are standing it without a whimper and are fighting—fighting all the time. A glance at the scores will show La Grande is no utter. Hats off to La Grande—truly the Pippins.

Though all Tri-State fans have become to look forward to the daily defeat of La Grande and the other teams smile with confidence when the line from the Oregon town come around for a series, nevertheless the La Grande baseball fans are setting an example for the other members of the league which they should not forget and should follow.

The Safest place for your harvest money is in this bank

Look at these two men. They have been to market their cotton. One put his money in the bank and the other didn't. They were held up on the way home. The silly fellow who wanted to take his money home had to "deliver" to the robbers. The other was able to "give them the laugh"—his money was in this bank.

Take a lesson from this—put your harvest money in this bank like all other successful farmers. It is the safest place—withdraw it whenever you please.
