SANDRIDGE POET MUSES IN RE PIONEER DAYS

Pioneers and pioneer friends who attended the centenary celebration at Hot Lake the other day will long remember the poem read and written by M. L. Carter, farmer-poet. Mr. Carter hits off on a happy stride and says:

Today the pioneers and friends Meet to commemorate A notable occurrence In this portion of the state; Hot Lake parades in gay attire Her reverence to show For the coming of the white man One hundred years ago.

Up from the great Columbia's plain O'er lands of sage and sand, Exploring the interior wilds Came Hunt's brave little band. Where deserts cry for water And all nature calls for food— O'er arid lands, through foothills And the mountain solitude.

'Til on our western hilltops They in admiration stand, As they view this vale of beauty And exclaim 'le grande! le grande! So now today we seek to keep Our memories aglow And celebrate their camping here One hundred years ago.

Around the little valley (One vast field of waving grass) Where the red men gazed in wonder At the strangers as they pass— O'er Indian trails first patterned By the deer and buffalo, The heralds of an empire came One hundred years ago.

No white man's foot had ever pressed

On Hot Lake's virgin shore; No harbinger of civil life Had e'er appeared before; Hot Lake was Indian medicine, It cured them of their ills, Each year they came and lingered In the shadow of its hills.

Consider well the changes That the fitting years hath wrought: The field of golden grain Where valiant savages once fought; The Pullman and the auto-car Necessities we know Would seem a dream of Paradise One hundred years ago.

This famous sanatorium Where thousands every year Thank Heaven for the benefits Accorded to them here;— Where robust health returns again According to its plan, The healing of the waters And the handiwork of man.

La Grande! La Grande! remains today

For 'tis a city's cry; Men still are seeking passes As the days are passing by; The camping white folks at the Lake Increases year by year The Elk and Moose are with us still And everything is deer.

Oh Lord, we fain would ask Thee For a favor here today— Be merciful to pioneers And followers we pray: Grant, that we ne'er will occupy— Though to Thy will we bow— No land less fair, no lake so hot, One hundred years from now.

and they meet. He thinks that she is an apparition appearing to taunt him because of his cruel neglect, and because of the power of conscience he nerves and mind give way and he falls dead at her feet. This story is graphically shown in the picture, "Conscience," shown at the Elite Friday and Saturday and features Maurice Costello as the husband. This insures a great picture.

Treasurer's Call for City Warrants.

There are funds in the treasury to pay all warrants issued against water fund of La Grande city up to and including No. 10946, endorsed Aug. 16, 1911. Interest on all warrants on water fund from No. to No. 10,946 inclusive ceases from date of this call. La Grande, Oregon, Aug. 10, 1912. RAY W. LOGAN, City Treasurer.

Solid Ivory. "Yes," confessed Mr. Dorkins, "it serves me right. I engaged the man to move our goods, and I forgot to ask him how much he was going to charge me for the job. If ever I do such a thing again, Maria, you can have my head for a football." "It would be a good deal more profitable, John," said Mrs. Dorkins, "to cut it up into billiard balls."—Chicago Tribune.

Preached into Generosity. A preacher pawned his watch and the following Sunday preached four hours because he had no timepiece. At the conclusion of the sermon there was a special collection raised and sent to the pawnbroker.—New Orleans Picayune.

Corrected. Gentleman (engaging groom)—Are you married? Groom—No, sir. I was thrown agin a barbed wire fence and got my face scratched.—London Tatler.

Three Proofs. Teacher—Willie, give three proofs that the world actually is round. Willie—The book says so, you say so, and ma says so.—Puck.

One day judgeth another, and the last judgeth all.—Stow.

Hard Luck. First Actor—I hear you turned people away when you were on tour. Second Actor—We tried to, but they wouldn't go until they got their money back.

We cannot always oblige, but we can always speak obligingly.—Voltaire.

Power of Conscience. A young man deserts his wife and child, leaving them in destitute circumstances. He goes to New York, meets wealthy people and through their influence makes money. One night he makes a wager that he will spend the night in the "Chamber of Horrors" at the museum. His bet is taken. His wife, forced to steal a bottle of milk to sustain her child, also seeks refuge in the Chamber of Horrors from the pursuing officers

The Safest place for your harvest money is in this bank

Look at these two men. They have been to market their cotton. One put his money in the bank and the other didn't. They were held up on the way home. The silly fellow who wanted to take his money home had to "deliver" to the robbers. The other was able to "give them the laugh"—his money was in this bank.
Take a lesson from this—put your harvest money in this bank like all other successful farmers. It is the safest place—withdraw it whenever you please.
