BANKERS AND MILLERS DRAW

THREE INNING GAME SCORELESS AND ERRORLESS.

Pitching Duel Has Near-Score but No Tally Registered.

Thought the Bankers crowded a man to third and attempted a hit and run play that a score might result, the Millers cut the play at the home pan in the Twilight set-to last night and while they were themselves unable to register prevented the Bankers from doing so, too. It was a nip and tuck exhibition with Frees working for the Millers and Geddes on the mound for the Bankers. Darkness intervened and another game has been added to the postponed list. From a standpoint of finish the game was perhaps as good as any yet, developing early into a pitcher's battle, pure and simple.

In the first of the third Scranton received one amidship and went to third when Williams hit to the outfield and Scranton stretched it luckily. Duncomb, a new catcher, who backed up the Bankers well, started the hit and run, but his bingle didn't get by Frees and Scranton was tagged out coming home on the daring feat. The hole was a bad one, but the Millers got out of it.
