TWILIGHTERS TO PLAY WED.

FINAL SERIES OF SEASON IS NOW NEAR.

Millers and Clerks May Have to Play Post-Season Game Yet.

Tomorrow night commences the final series in the Twilight league. The Bankers, showing great form lately, meet the Railroaders and the contest will be the beginning of the end of the season. The last game will be played Saturday night. The issue is not clearly defined between the Clerks and the Railroaders and it is yet possible that a post-season game will have to be played to run off the tie that can result if the balance of the games break just right.

Last Saturday the Bankers defeated the Palmer Mill by a score of 10 to 5. The game was loosely played at times but in occasional spots things tightened permitting a round of good ball. In the fatal fourth for the Palmer Mill Frees weakened and with little or no support from outfielders and with poor judgment on part of infielders the "money counters" rang the bell for seven runs.

Elk's Parade.

The crowd that crowded the Elite to capacity last night was unanimous in its approval of one of the finest programs ever offered the public. "The Barrier That Was Burned" proved to be a most extraordinary picture with its realistic snow storms and heavy drifts. The picture of the Elk's parade was not only interesting to the Brother Bills, but to everyone as well. The official song, "Brother Bill, the
