

BLANCHE WALSH In Resurrection

ARCADE TONIGHT

ROUNDUP TRAIN SERVICE GOOD

SPECIAL TRAIN OUT OF HERE EACH DAY.

Many Changes Made in Train Service Running Into Pendleton.

During the Pendleton roundup, La Grande is to have a special train service, leaving here at 9 in the morning, and returning leave Pendleton at 7 o'clock. This is the announcement made by the passenger department in the new arrangement of its train schedule for the roundup event. The entire changes from a Pendleton point of view, follow:

In order to accommodate roundup traffic from points in Eastern Oregon and Washington the O.-W. R. & N. has arranged special schedules from every direction into the city from the territory close adjoining.

On the Umatilla Central, special trains will be run from Pilot Rock to Pendleton each day of the roundup. The special will leave Pilot Rock at 9:30 a. m., arriving in Pendleton at 10:15. Returning the train will leave Pendleton for Pilot Rock at 10:15 p. m.

On the Umatilla-Pendleton run a steam train will be operated in place of the motor every day next week. The trip to Pendleton will be on regular motor car schedule. However, the back trip in the evening will be delayed an hour, the train leaving Pendleton at 6:30 instead of 5:30. A special will also leave here for Umatilla at 10:45 each night during the three days of the roundup.

A special train will be run from Baker to Pendleton each morning, of the roundup. The special will leave Baker at 7:15 each morning; pass through La Grande at 9:50 and arrive here at 12:05. On the return the Baker special will leave Pendleton at 11:45 each night.

On the Washington division a special will be run from Dayton and intervening points to Pendleton and return each day. The special leaves Dayton at 7 a. m. each day, arriving here at 11 a. m. Returning the special will leave Pendleton at 9:30 each evening.

BAND TO STAGE SHOW.

Parker Carnival Company to Come Here October 14 With Attractions

The La Grande band, on a liberal compensation basis, will stand sponsor for the Parker Carnival about the middle of October when the show consisting of numerous different attractions, will open in this city. The Parker shows will be remembered as the company that was here under auspices of the Park commission some two or three years ago and has been generally conceded to be head and shoulders above any other carnival company of the road. That it is to be purged of all undesirable elements is promised, and because the arrangements with the band, insisted upon by the council in granting the license, are such that the La Grande organization is in position to realize monetary returns, the show will come here prepared to give the best attractions that can be gotten together.

The Parker management wished to give 10 per cent of the gross receipts to the band but the council insisted that 20 per cent be given and the show management to pay for the license. The show comes October 14.

BOY CHARGED WITH THEFT

PALMER JUNCTION IS SCENE OF ALLEGED THEFT.

Boy of 16 Held to Be Responsible for Stolen Valuables.

S. L. Renby, a boy of 16 years, hailing from Baker where his parents now reside, is being held here to appear in juvenile court next Monday on a charge of having taken a suitcase containing various pieces of value such as razors, jewelry and the like, and of having taken a demand certificate on the George Palmer Lumber company for $400 from the premises of Peter Heaughny of Palmer Junction. He was arrested in Baker yesterday by Officer Faulk.

The complainant, who was in the city today when the boy was brought before Justice Williams, says the boy took the goods from his quarters. It was found, however, that the case rightfully belongs in juvenile jurisdiction and next Monday the lad's mother will be here to appear for him. The demand note has been cared for so that Mr. Heaughny will not lose anything on that score.

The boy is well dressed, well bred, apparently and seems not much disturbed over the incident.

Chas. H. Grosvenor's Birthday.

Athens, O., Sept. 20.—Gen. Charles H. Grosvenor, for many years a conspicuous member of the national house of representatives, entered upon his 80th year today. Since his retirement from congress five years ago Gen. Grosvenor has taken no part in public life, though his interest in politics is as keen as ever. During the years of his activity he enjoyed a wide reputation as the principal election prophet of the Republican party. That the old habit of framing election forecasts still clings to the former congressman is evidenced by the fact that he has recently prepared a formidable array of figures to show that President Taft is certain to win the battle of the ballots next November.

The Three Fates in Greece.

The peasantry of Greece firmly believe that the future of every child is determined by three fates, known as the Moral. The trio is supposed to be three old and wrinkled women who dwell in a mountain cave and who come simultaneously to the house in which a new baby has made its appearance. In order that their aged and uncertain feet may not be hindered, all furniture is carefully set aside, and honey, cakes, bread and wine are set out so that the important though invisible guests may refresh themselves. If the household is sufficiently wealthy to possess a little real money, this, too, is placed on the table with the food. All things, good and bad, are in the hands of the three fates. On no account must the child's beauty be alluded to at the time when the visitors might be present. To do so would cause its good looks to instantly disappear. Nothing must be said to annoy or displease the Moral, and this makes the situation a bit difficult, as no one is quite sure what might or might not displease them.

David Garrick's Realism.

In depicting moments of mental anguish, disorder and passion David Garrick was unequalled. "I liked him best in 'Lear,'" says a contemporary. "His saying in the bitterness of his anger, 'I will do such things—what they are I know not,' and his sudden recollection of his own want of power were so pitiable as to touch the heart of every spectator. The simplicity of his saying, 'Be these tears wet? Yes, faith!' putting his finger to the cheek of Cordelia and then looking at his finger, was exquisite." And in reference to the same character another tells us: "He rendered the curse so terribly affecting to the audience that during the utterance of it they seemed to shrink from it as from a blast of lightning.

His preparation for it was extremely affecting; his throwing away his crutch, kneeling on one knee, clasping his hands together and lifting his eyes toward heaven presented a picture worthy of the pencil of a Raphael."—David Garrick and His French Friends.

Strength of a Spider's Web.

When taking into consideration the materials employed, the size of the insect and the thickness of its thread the web of a spider is almost incomprehensibly strong. Late experiments have shown that a single thread of a web made by a spider, which weighed fifty-four milligrams, supported endwise a weight of four grams, or seventy-four times the weight of the spider itself. When a spider spins a web to let himself down from the ceiling or from the branch of a tree we may be certain that he is in no danger of falling, but that he could carry many more of his kind on the same thread. The threads of the web when interwoven and re-enforced one by another have a very considerable strength and are able to hold bees and wasps, themselves very powerful in proportion to their size, and to bend without breaking under a weight of dew and rain.

Under the Carriage Wheels.

Furious driving was one of the charges brought against the French aristocracy at the revolution. Said Mercer: "In Paris the people are weak, pallid, stunted—a class apart from other classes in the state. The rich and the great who possess equipages enjoy the privilege of crushing them or of mutilating them in the streets. Hundreds of victims die annually under the carriage wheels."

"I saw," wrote another observer, Arthur Young, "a poor child run over and probably killed and have myself many times been blackened with mud. If young noblemen in London were to drive their chaises in the streets as their brethren do at Paris they would speedily and justly get very well thrashed or rolled in the kennel."

Fish That Take Cold.

Fish are not equipped to combat rapid changes in temperature because the temperature of the water in the ocean, lakes and rivers beneath the surface remains virtually stable. Some fish, such as carp and trout, when taken from warm water and placed in water several degrees colder take cold. The cold attacks the skin and the fins, and various portions of the skin present a cracked, ridged appearance. If returned to warm water the fish usually recover, but sometimes the disease, which seems to be a sort of eczema, eats into the muscles of the fish and proves mortal.—New York Sun.

The Beard in Tunis.

In Tunis when a reigning prince finds it necessary to go outside his immediate family to choose his successor he follows an odd custom. There the wearing of hair on the face is the exclusive privilege of sovereignty. When the prince selects a successor he sends the court barber to the fortunate individual to notify him that he may wear a beard. This intimation is equivalent to a formal announcement that he has been selected as the heir presumptive.

Awful Fix.

"Peggy's in a terrible fix."
"What's the trouble?"
"She's just counted up and found she's refused a dozen offers of marriage, and now, though she's crazy to marry Dick, she's afraid to accept him because he's the thirteenth."—Boston Transcript.

Suitable Argument.

"How did you manage to meet that carpet man's argument?"
"In a business way. I just floored him."—Baltimore American.

The man who forgets to be thankful has fallen asleep in life.—Stevenson.

Proposed by Accident.

Mr. Spooner, the clergyman who became famous for those humorous misplacements of initial consonants that have become known as "Spoonerisms," is said to have owed his marriage to a characteristic slip of the tongue. He was very shy and would never have had the courage to ask a woman to be his wife, but one afternoon in a friend's drawing room he was requested to ask one of the ladies present to make tea. In doing so he blundered as usual. "Will you take me?" he said, instead of "Will you make tea?" Blushing, the lady "took him," and thus he "blundered" into a happy marriage.

ANNIVERSARY OF UNION.

Event of Importance Held at Riverside Hall.

A delightful time was had by the Farmers' Union members on the 17th at Riverside Grange hall when the tenth anniversary of the union was held. A splendid program was given, which along with a fine banquet that included speeches from those posted in the union's work made one of the pleasant and profitable occasions of the season for all who attended. The union continues to grow in this country as well as throughout the Eastern Oregon country.

—THE RIGHT KIND OF LAUNDRY SOAP SAVES YOUR TIME, STRENGTH, CLOTHES AND MONEY.

Cheap and common soap makes the washing come out yellow and partly dirty. Many grocers stock that kind for the few extra cents it nets them. We don't.

We want your trade next year and the year after—therefore we sell only the soaps and washing powders that retain for us your custom and friendship.
