Benjamin suits for conservative men at West's.

An assorted carload of Kentucky liquors of the best brands, has been received by Ulrich Lottes, and he is now ready to quote lowest wholesale prices. This is also the first carload of liquors received in La Grande by a local dealer and adds to the list of articles and commodities that are handled in La Grande as a distributing station in wholesale quantities. The wholesale houses of La Grande are now recognized as good business ventures for the investors as, aside from being the metropolis of Eastern Oregon, the geographical location is such as expedites smaller shipments to any section of the Eastern part of the state from La Grande.

This Newspaper Ballot Will Do

The demand for ballots in the prize contest for the Globe-Wernicke Bookcase exhausted our entire supply yesterday, and in order that those who had intended to cast their votes in the next two days, may have an opportunity to do so, you may use this ballot.

So great has been the interest in the contest that we intend to retain these ballots in order to compare them with the number to be cast in November for the Presidential candidate.

Because most people show a greater interest in Babies than they do in Presidents, we believe our store will get greater number of ballots than any Presidential candidate.

Remember you do not have to be a customer of the store in order to be entitled to vote.

The contest closes Friday, Nov. 1st, and all the ballots must be in the ballot box by that date.

Only one answer from each contestant considered, so send only your best answer.
