

1913 MODELS OF THE INDIAN MOTORCYCLE

Following the "14 Important Improvements" of the 1912 the Hendee Mfg. company announce no less than a dozen additional new features in their 1913 model of the Indian Motorcycle.

By far the most significant feature of the new machine is the Cradle Spring Frame. It is something entirely new, a radical departure from the conventional bicycle and recent motorcycle system of "springing." Briefly, the new device consists of the application to the rear wheel of the Indian Cradle Spring device as used on the front fork for the past three years.

Extending back horizontally from the frame joint cluster under the saddle, flanking the rear mud guard, are two 7-leaf Chrome Vanadium steel springs. The "C" shaped curls at the rear end of these springs are connected by stays to bell-cranks on which the rear axle is hung. The forward end of the rear fork has a hinge joint which enables the rear wheel to yield to imperfections of road surface. All shocks are completely absorbed by the leaf springs. The rear wheel can go through almost any vertical motion without affecting the body of the machine. There is no "bottom" to this spring device. The life of the machine is greatly increased.

The Engineering Department of the Hendee Mfg. Co. devoted 18 months of exhaustive test to the Cradle Spring Frame before finally deciding on its adoption for all models of the 1913 Indian.

In addition to the Cradle Spring Frame, the 1913 Indian embodies 10 other important improvements which will be appreciated by motorcycle riders in general. Prices remain the same as last year.

New style single clinch rims; larger tires, wider mud guards front and rear with larger splashers; casing for upper stretch of transmission chain and curve of sprocket; larger luggage carrier in rear, fitted to all models; foot rests, as well as pedals, fitted to regular 4 h. p. and 7 h. p. models; foot brake lever fitted on left side now operates band brake as well as the pedal action; larger size multiple disc clutch now fitted to all models alike; improved Indian type saddle.

All 1913 Indians will be chain driven and finished in Indian red only.

A FOOL AND A REVOLVER

JEALOUS MAN DENIES THREAT TO SHOOT.

Says He Is Victim of a Remark Made as a Jest.

Denying that he was jealous or that he intended to shoot either his rival or the young lady to whom he had been paying attention, Jas. Girtton, who was arrested Sunday by the police upon information given by his friends, today gave his version of the affair, declaring he was made the victim of a remark made as a jest. He admits stating to a friend that he was going to "get" the two and backing up his remark by exhibiting a revolver, but declares emphatically that he was only joking and never thought for an instant that his friend would construe the remark in any other way.

Girtton was released from custody yesterday afternoon. He states that after he had borrowed a revolver he met a friend to whom he jestingly remarked that the sheriff had deputized him and that he was going to "get" the man who had "cut him out" and the girl, too. His friend seemingly took him seriously, for he notified Officers Hughes and Manning who arrested him while he was in the marshal's office explaining to Chief Kearney that he had borrowed a gun because someone had been stealing his chickens.

Girtton declares he has plenty of witnesses to prove that his chickens have been disappearing and that he had intended securing a gun to protect them. Also, he denies that the young lady in question has ever given him any reason to be jealous, declaring he has been engaged to her and that she went home with another man from the Saturday night dance with his permission. Had he intended to shoot this other man, he says, he had plenty of opportunities, passing him on the street several times while he had the gun upon his person.

He regrets the affair, but says he blames no one but himself for making a remark even in jest that could get him into trouble.—Pendleton East Oregonian.

Declare War on Colds.

A crusade of education which aims that common colds may become uncommon within the next generation has been begun by prominent New York physicians. Here is a list of the "don'ts" which the doctors say will prevent the annual visitation of the cold:

- "Don't sit in a draughty car."
- "Don't sleep in hot rooms."
- "Don't avoid fresh air."
- "Don't stuff yourself at meal time. Over eating reduces your resistance."
- To which we would add—when you take a cold get rid of it as quickly as possible! To accomplish that you will find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy most excellent. Sold by all druggists
