PAVING AGAIN COMPLAINED OF

TURNER OLIVER DISCUSSES LOCAL CONDITIONS.

Says Procedure Eliminates Competition in Paving Projects.

La Grande, Oregon, Nov. 20.—To the Editor—As further proof of the fact that the Warren Construction company in La Grande, because of the fact that they have no competition here, is charging an extravagant price for its pavement, I desire to give a few illustrations of what this company is doing or agreeing to do elsewhere. It may be said to begin with, that all up-to-date substantial pavements have a concrete base. This is the rule in all eastern cities and generally in the west. If a pavement is to be laid even of wood blocks or of vitrified brick, they first lay a concrete base, so as to have a solid foundation that will not yield and break under the heavy traffic under which the street is to be used. There is probably no better wearing surface than asphalt heated and mixed with crushed rock. The so-called "bitulithic" is in this class of topping, and if placed upon a concrete base instead of loose gravel or crushed rock would be a strictly first class pavement, and the Warren Construction company does put in this concrete base where the city requires it and competition compels it. At Monroe in the state of Washington, near Everett, the Warren Construction company recently bid $7.90 a square yard for a two inch standard bitulithic to be placed on a six inch concrete base, making eight inches of pavement. Compare that with the $2.20 a yard we had to pay for a pavement six inches thick on Adams avenue, of which four and one half inches was ordinary crushed rock and one and half inches bitulithic topping.

Again at Sumner, which lies between Seattle and Tacoma, the Warren Construction company recently took a contract for 8600 yards of pavement at $1.80 a yard. This pavement to consist of four inches of first class concrete made of crushed rock and cement and two inches of standard bitulithic topping.

At Moscow, where the Warren Construction company recently was an unsuccessful bidder against the Bird-Mendenhall Construction company of Salt Lake, they bid $2.04 1-2 a yard for a concrete base five inches thick, made of first class Portland cement, and a topping consisting of two inches of Standard bitulithic, and this where they had to ship their rock 16 miles. While at Colfax, 27 miles distant, where they had so shaped the specifications as to avoid competition they got $2.15 a yard for just such pavement as they put down on Adams avenue, although they had to haul their rock less than a mile. This shows the advantage of open competition, not only in the price paid but also in the quality of the work.

The wearing surface of any pavement

Aviator Is Married.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 21.—Jauntily wearing a cap in which two other aviators had fallen to their death, Silas Christofferson and his young bride are today on their aeroplane honeymoon trip. The cap was on the head of Fred Welsh when he dropped to his death, and Aviator Gill also had it on when he was killed in Chicago. Gill and Welsh were fast friends, and a brother of Christofferson's, who knew Gill well, secured the "sky-piece" of the latter's death.
