A TREACHEROUS TROUBLE.

La Grande People Are Shown the Way Out.

Kidney diseases are very dangerous. They come on silently, gain ground rapidly, and cause thousands of deaths that could have been prevented by proper treatment in the beginning. Nature gives early warnings of kidney disease—backache, twinges of pain when stooping or lifting, headaches and urinary disorders. If these symptoms are unheeded, that is grave danger of dropsy or possible Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills have earned a reputation for their effectiveness in kidney troubles, and are known and recommended the world over. La Grande readers should find convincing proof in the following statement. It's from a citizen of this locality.

John Torengo, Cracker St., Sumpter, Oregon, says: "Last spring my kidneys were disordered and I began to suffer from backache. I noticed that the kidney secretions were highly colored and painful in passage and I thus knew that my kidneys were at fault. Doan's Kidney Pills toned up my kidneys and caused the backache to cease. I am grateful to Doan's Kidney Pills for what they did for me."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Declare War on Colds.

A crusade of education which aims that common colds may become uncommon within the next generation has been begun by prominent New York physicians. Here is a list of the "don'ts" which he doctors say will prevent the annual visitation of the cold:

"Don't sit in a draughty car."
 "Don't sleep in hot rooms."
 "Don't avoid fresh air."
 "Don't stuff yourself at meal time. Over eating reduces your resistance."
 "To which we would add—when you take a cold get rid of it as quickly as possible. To accomplish that you will find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy most excellent. Sold by all druggists."

WHISTLER AT WORK.

The Eccentric Artist Had a Method, That Was All His Own.

In "Memories of James McNeill Whistler," by Thomas R. Way, the author allows us a glimpse at the artist's methods during his residence in the white house in Pitt street, built from the designs of his friend, E. W. Godwin, the architect.

"The studio was surprisingly different from the room he previously used in Lansay row, and entirely unlike the studios usually occupied by other artists. I remember a long, not very lofty room, very light, with windows along one side; his canvas beside a model at one end and at the other, near the table which he used as a palette, an old German looking glass, so arranged that he could readily see his canvas and model reflected in it. Those who used such a mirror (as he did constantly) will know that it is the most merciless of critics.

"I marveled then at his extraordinary activity, as he darted backward and forward to look at both painting and model from his point of view at the extreme end of the long studio. He always used brushes of large size with very long handles, three feet in length, and held them from the end with his arm stretched to its full extent. Each touch was laid on with great firmness, and his physical strength enabled him to do without the assistance of a maulstick, while the distance at which he stood from the canvas allowed him to have the whole of a large picture in sight and so judge the correct drawing of each touch."

BATTLEFIELD BRAVERY.

An Instance of Cool Courage in Face of Imminent Danger.

Perhaps few stories of battles so thoroughly illustrate cool bravery in the face of real danger as the little incident at a reconnaissance before the battle of Ulundi, of which Lord William Beresford was the hero.

The British were almost led into a terrible trap and discovered the danger only just in time. They turned to retreat, and the Zulus poured in a volley which brought down the gray horse of a mounted infantryman. His rider fell head foremost. The rest thought both man and horse were killed at first, but the former soon struggled to his feet, with his face covered with blood and dazed with his fall.

Lord William Beresford, seeing what had happened, pulled up and, in the face of advancing hosts of yelling savages within easy range, quietly trotted back and told the man to mount behind him.

With a cool courage scarcely second to Lord William's, the man refused, noble fellow that he was, preferring the certain sacrifice of his own life to the probability of destroying his preserver.

The reply was admirable, terse and telling. The savages swarmed closer and closer; bullets rattled around them. The two who lingered were almost within reach of the assegais, and Lord William said:

"Get up or I'll punch your head!"

The man obeyed, and rescuer and rescued escaped.—Pearson's Weekly.

Man Who Beheaded Charles I.

The mysterious masked man who beheaded Charles I. remains the British analogue for the Man With the Iron Mask. Lilly, the lying astrologer, denounced Cornet Joyce at the restoration, but Joyce on the fatal 30th of January was not in favor with Cromwell. The parish register of White Chapel records the burial in 1649 of Richard Brandon, the common hangman, and opposite the entry a contemporary hand wrote that "he cut off the head of Charles the First." Brandon himself asserted that "they made him do it for £30," with which he drank himself to death.—Dundee Advertiser.

Sadly Lacking.

"Did young Charlie Goldie call on you last night?" "Yes. He calls almost every night." "That sounds serious. What sort of young man is he?" "Intelligent?" "Intelligent? Why doesn't he know enough to seize an opportunity?"—Chevrolet Dealer.

Capital Punishment.

"Mamma did you love to flirt when you were young?" "I am afraid I did, dear." "And were you ever punished for it, mamma?" "Oh, dear! I married your father in Paris, N.Y."

The funds we pass with happy prospect are more pleasing than those received with fruition.—Goldsmith.

ALL WELL IN POLICE CIRCLES

YESTERDAY'S MODEL WEATHER NOT ALONE.

Conduct of the Public at Large Equally Model, Says the Police.

Old Sol contributed all the sunshine he was allowed to for this time of the year, and made Thanksgiving day calendar day as far as brightness and crispness are concerned. But Sold can't claim all the honors for putting yesterday in bold type as far as records go, for says Police Officer Walden: "It is the quietest Thanksgiving day we have had in years. We have not put one man in the mill for disorderly conduct, and a number of men take a little more attitude on holidays than on other days concerning Tom and Jerry." The officers speak of the absence of crime generally, the absence of hoboes and the general security which reigned in La Grande.

"Usually," said the chief today, "about this time of the year and a little later, there is an epidemic of crime. But so far nothing serious has occurred."

A few nights ago, two men were talking about committing a burglary, both being unaware of the fact that a woman happened to be in a shed, near the alley, who paused to hear the conversation. "Now, don't get cold feet," said the instigator. "We can pull this thing off as slick as a whistle."

"Look here," said the other, "you know what we heard about these guys up in Washington. They are old lynxes at the game and got a rep for gettin' a man when they go after him. None of it for mine."

The lady called up Walden and put him "next." No burglary was committed.

A Night of Terror.

Few nights are more terrible than that of a mother looking on her child choking and "aspiring for breath during an attack of croup, and nothing in the house to relieve it. Many mothers have passed nights of terror in this situation. A little forethought will enable you to avoid all this. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a certain cure for croup and has never been known to fail. Keep it at hand. For sale by all druggists.

Why Blackie Wore the Plaid.

Professor Blackie frequently stayed at Dr. Donald Macleod's house in Glasgow. One night, said the doctor, we were sitting up together. Blackie said in his brusque way, "Whatever other faults I have, I am free from vanity." An incredulous smile on my face roused him. "You don't believe that. Give me an instance." Being thus challenged, I said, "Why do you walk about flourishing a plaid continually?" "I'll give you the history of that, sir. When I was a poor man and when my wife and I had our difficulties she one day drew my attention to the threadbare character of my surtout and asked me to order a new one. I told her I could not afford it just then, when she went, like a noble woman, and put her own plaid shawl on my shoulders, and I have worn a plaid ever since in memory of her loving deed."

Tonight.

Tonight, if you feel dull and stupid or bilious and constipated, take a dose of Chamberlain's Tablets and you will feel all right tomorrow. Sold by all druggists.

S.S.S. CURES CHRONIC CATARRH

When we say S. S. S. cures chronic Catarrh we do not mean that it merely checks the symptoms for a time. Some local applications will do that by simply cleansing and soothing the irritated mucous membranes. But all the while the cause which produces Catarrh is left in the system, and as soon as the local treatment is left off, the trouble returns with all its annoying symptoms. S. S. S. cures Catarrh by cleansing the blood of all impure catarrhal matter and at the same time building up the system by its unequalled tonic effects. It goes into the circulation and attacks the disease at its root, and removes every trace of impurity that is causing the trouble. Under the purifying effects of S. S. S., the inflamed membranes are healed by rich, pure blood which is carried to these parts, the offensive discharge from the nose ceases and severe headaches and neuragic pains are no longer felt. In fact every symptom of Catarrh disappears, the stomach is toned up and the disease is thoroughly cured. Thousands of chronic cases of Catarrh of the most stubborn character have been completely cured by the use of S. S. S. The inflammation which produces chronic Catarrh can never be permanently relieved until the cause has been removed from the blood. This S. S. S. will do, and then nature hastens the return of perfect health. Book on Catarrh and any medical advice free to all.
