BARGAIN DAYS IN DEAD LETTERS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—The sent through the mail but could not be delivered because neither the address nor that of the sender could be ascertained. The conference will assemble Monday and continue in session several days. The enactment of a federal statute to protect prohibition territory from interstate shipments of intoxicating liquors is the chief end sought by the supporters of the movement. As a result of the conference held here last year a bill for the federal regulation of the liquor traffic was agreed upon and presented to congress, but that body adjourned before the bill came up for passage. Extraordinary efforts will be made to have the measure again brought up and acted upon at the present session of congress.
