

THREE LOVERS IN "THE ROSARY"

A scene from "The Rosary" at the Steward next Tuesday.

Every woman thinks she knows how to keep alive the love of her husband. Wonder if the girls in this city know that art? Sometimes it is said they don't. At any rate, they will know after they witness a performance of "The Rosary," which is coming to the Steward next Friday.

In "The Rosary," there are three distinct love stories. The principal love affair is that of Bruce and Vera Wilton. This husband and wife love each other with their whole hearts. She is a devout woman, but he is a born atheist. Being a man of many business interests Mr. Wilton neglects his home, and Vera resorts to the green-eyed monster to bring her husband back to her. She begins a flirtation with a man named Kenward Wright. Circumstances bring Wright into the Wilton home, where he falls in love with Vera's sister, Alice. One night, when he and Alice had arranged for a secret elopement, Vera entering the room as the couple are leaving through an open window, is discovered by her husband. The result is two broken hearts; therefore jealousy is an evil, and not an advisable way of keeping a man interested.

The second love story is between Kathleen O'Connor and Charley Harrow. Kathleen is a little Irish girl, who believes that the man she will marry must know the Irish history thoroughly. Charley knows nothing of Irish history, so Kathleen attempts to teach him. To keep Charley interested, Kathleen uses the simplest of language, dress and actions. Charley is attracted to her by her simplicity so it is shown that the simplest truth attracts the man of the world and keeps him interested.

In the love story between Lesura and Skeeters, the audience finds that opposition to a man's vanity makes him only the more interested in the pursuit of the one thing upon which he prides himself greater than all else. During the scenes Skeeters is very proud of his ability to tell stories, but it isn't until after an original system is employed that Skeeters succeeds in getting Lesura to laugh. All of this love is in "The Rosary," and with a competent cast presenting it, the play is worth attending.

You Must Save Yourself

No one will ever work out your salvation for you. Your place in this world as well as in the next depends upon your own ability, and your ability depends upon your own efforts. The Lord points the way to salvation; He shows you how to live so as to gain the reward of immortality, but you must save yourself.

IN THIS WORLD

Your friends will tell you how to be successful. Nature offers itself as a model of success. Yet it is up to you to gain your own reward. The law of cause and effect extends throughout all nature. There is a reason for everything. Still it is not how hard you work but what you accomplish that brings results. You can't beat the game. The rules are made and whoever makes the largest score, is he who most closely follows the rules, for Nature is the great Umpire who seeing all deals perfect justice. The way to follow the rules is to learn the law of harmony. You must supplement your actions by intelligence. Harmony is the key to success and is gained
